TRUCE MACHINERY IS SPEEDED UP

Withdrawing Troops Jam Korea Roads

Reds Gift American Soldiers In Strange 'Friendship' Meeting

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 29 (AP)—The pullback of the huge Allied and Communist armies from the Korean battleline was in full swing today after some startling displays of "friendship" by Chinese Red troops.

Roads leading from the front to the rear were jammed with trucks, jeeps and other vehicles hauling back troops, equipment and supplies in almost bumper to bumper procession.

Trenches where men had struggled for many a bloody month were being filled in by both sides. Bunkers and other fortifications were being demolished.

Deadline Nears

The withdrawal by each side 1¼ miles from the demarcation line must be completed by 10 o'clock tomorrow night under terms of the armistice.

No truce violations were reported.

South Korean troops, who manned two-thirds of the 150-mile battle-line, were pulling back on schedule in keeping with President Syngman Rhee's policy of not obstructing the truce.

A strange meeting between U. S. and Chinese, which rivaled some of the strange events of this strange war, took place on the Western Front.

There, in a no-man's-land setting, Chinese Communist soldiers threw their arms around Americans and gave them cigarettes, wine and souvenirs.

Dozen In On Meeting

About half a dozen Americans and a like number of Chinese were in on the meeting. The two groups had been working on forward slopes of adjoining hills when the Chinese beckoned the Americans to come over.

One of the Americans was given a blue silk banner on which was written "American soldiers, we wish you a safe return home, the Chinese People's Volunteers."

The banner also bore the "peace dove" of the artist Pablo Picasso, which the Communists used as a symbol in their peace propaganda drive.

249 Casualties Identified

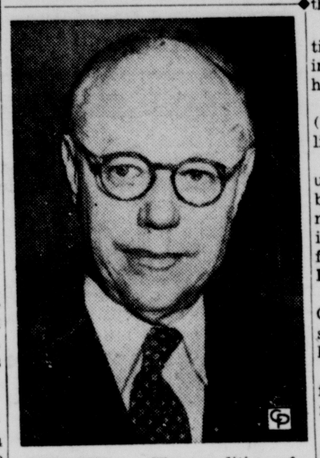
Taft Is Reported Growing Weaker

Wife Of Ohio Senator Brought To Bedside

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft, whose condition took a turn for the worse today after days of optimistic reports, tonight was reported "generally weaker."

A hospital spokesman said the senator's wife, Martha, was brought to his bedside during the day, her first visit to him since he entered the hospital.



WEAKER — The condition of Sen. Robert A. Taft took a turn for the worse yesterday and last night, a hospital spokesman said the Ohio Republican, who recently underwent an exploratory operation, is "generally weaker."

Mrs. Taft suffered a stroke some time ago and now gets around only in a wheel chair. She was flown here from Washington.

New York Hospital, in a 5 p.m. (EST) report on the Ohio Republican party stalwart, said:

"Senator Taft's condition continues to be unsatisfactory. He has been able to take very little nourishment and is generally weaker. He is experiencing no pain and has no fever."

Had Exploratory Surgery

The report was signed by Dr. Claude E. Forkner, attending physician who also is on the staff of hospital.

A hospital spokesman said no further report was expected to be made tonight.

Taft has been treated for a hip ailment, and underwent an exploratory operation at the hospital July 8.

Afterward it was reported that he stood the operation well, but there was no disclosure as to what the operation showed nor any clue as to the nature of his ailment.

Earlier today the hospital issued the first report reflecting anything but optimism on the senator's condition. It said his condition "has deteriorated somewhat," and that he was responding less well to treatment.

Son Visits Hospital

Sen. Taft's son Lloyd visited the hospital today and left for Washington, D. C. Another son, Robert Jr., had been expected but it was not disclosed whether he had called.

In Ireland, a third son William H. Taft, III, ambassador to Ireland, said he was not making plans for any immediate trip to see his father. At the time, he said his information was that his father was improving.

De Gasperi's New Government Falls As Foes Team Up

Communists and Socialists teamed with Monarchists and Fascists to vote "no confidence" in De Gasperi in the precariously balanced Chamber.

It was the first such defeat for the 72-year-old Premier, who has held the reins of Italy's governments continuously since Dec. 10, 1945. The new government, formed two weeks ago, was his eighth.

37 Deputies Abstain

De Gasperi needed 273 votes, or half the total 545 votes cast, to stay in office.

Thirty-seven deputies, members of three small center parties formerly allied with De Gasperi's majority Christian Democrat party, abstained. They could have provided the margin of victory. Eight members of the 590-seat Chamber were absent.

De Gasperi May Try Again

Perhaps Einaudi will persuade De Gasperi to try again. Or he may call on some other Christian Democrat who might weld the coalition together again or attract Monarchist support. The crisis may, however, lead to a new general election.

De Gasperi's speech to the Chamber was primarily a rebuttal to a week-long attack on his past middle-of-the-road cabinet; a firm supporter of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and the proposed one-army European Defense Community.

Two Boys Killed By Power Line

HAGERSTOWN, July 28 (AP)—Two young brothers were fatally burned today after coming in contact with a 33,000 volt power line at an electrical substation where they were playing.

The victims were Gary Lee Zombro, 6, and Ronald Merle Zombro, 5, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Zombro. Gary died at Washington County Hospital several hours after the incident. His younger brother died tonight.

The boys had crawled under a fence around the substation and climbed 10 feet onto the top of a circuit breaker into which the high-powered line fed, Potomac Edison Co. officials said.

Their 2½-year-old sister, Darlene, remained outside the enclosure.

Their mother and neighbors rushed to the scene after hearing a muffled explosion. The boys were lying on the ground with their clothing afire. Their shoes had been knocked off their feet and one shoe was found atop the circuit breaker.

Firemen, who entered the enclosure through use of a ladder, snuffed out the burning clothing. The youngsters were rushed to the hospital with severe burns over most of their bodies.

Koreans Get Free Food

TOKYO, Wednesday, July 29 (AP)—The first of 10,000 tons of gift food ordered delivered to South Korea by President Eisenhower was distributed today in Pusan.

Former Priest's Followers Ejected From Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 28 (AP)—Six followers of an excommunicated former Catholic priest were escorted off the University of Notre Dame campus today after announcing they intended to convert Notre Dame students to their beliefs.

The six said they were followers of Leonard Feeney, who was a Jesuit priest in Boston before he was excommunicated a year ago. His offense was preaching, in opposition to orders from the Pope, that salvation is impossible outside the Catholic Church.

About 70 students aided three deputy sheriffs in taking the visitors to their car after they refused a request by Notre Dame officials to leave voluntarily. There was a slight scuffle.

The visitors did not give their names. All were young men, dressed in black suits, white shirts and black ties. One of them said to the crowd:

"The first sign of your approaching damnation is that Notre Dame has Protestants on its football team."

The group tried unsuccessfully to distribute copies of a book by Feeney entitled "The Bread of Life."

When they first reached the campus they said a rosary in front of the university's library. They then tried to enter Sacred Heart Church on the campus, but by that time university officials, students and deputy sheriffs were on hand and blocked them.

The group said they came from St. Benedict's Center in Cambridge, Mass., where they said Feeney is now located.

House Passes Refugee Bill, Trims Ceiling

Limit Of 217,000 Set; Final Senate Action Is Scheduled Today

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The House tonight approved a trimmed-down version of President Eisenhower's request for authority to admit 240,000 "special quota" refugees from communism and other immigrants into the United States.

The House set the limit at 217,000, while the Senate worked into the night on its own version of the legislation.

Final Senate action on the bill was put over until tomorrow, however. Debate starting at 10 a.m. EST will be limited to 10 minutes on each amendment.

The House vote was 221,185.

The aliens would be admitted within the next three years and would be in addition to the regular quotas of newcomers from foreign lands.

"Must" Legislation

As passed by the House, the special quota group would take in 4,000 orphans under 10 years of age, including 1,000 Korean War waifs to be raised at the famous Boys Town in Nebraska.

The legislation was one of the last big obstacles in the way of congressional adjournment this weekend and was listed as a "must" on the administration's calendar for this session.

The House, off to an early start, beat the Senate to the punch in enacting the controversial bill which some Congress members have attacked as opening the door to Red agents to infiltrate this country.

Secretary of State Dulles sent the Senate a last-minute plea for passage of the measure, declaring that unrest in Soviet-occupied East Germany and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain "increases the urgency" for such a bill.

Proponents' Arguments

Proponents argued that in admitting persons who have fled from Communist lands, the United States would ease the strain on refugee-swollen Western Europe and enhance the prospects for peace.

Across the Capitol, Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) quarterbacked the administration's drive for passage in a speech declaring:

"Much whispering has been done to spread fear among our people that many of the refugees admitted to the United States would be Communist agents.

"Such charges cannot be supported by facts."

Second Trucker Slain On Turnpike; "Maniac" Sought

PITTSBURGH, July 28 (AP)—Gunfire snuffed out the life of a second truck driver in three days as he slept in his cab parked alongside the Pennsylvania Turnpike today and state police said "there's a maniac loose" on the famed toll highway.

State Police Cpl. William Smith expressed belief the same person committed the murders. The same type of bullet—fired into the head—killed both auto carrier drivers as they napped with their shoes off.

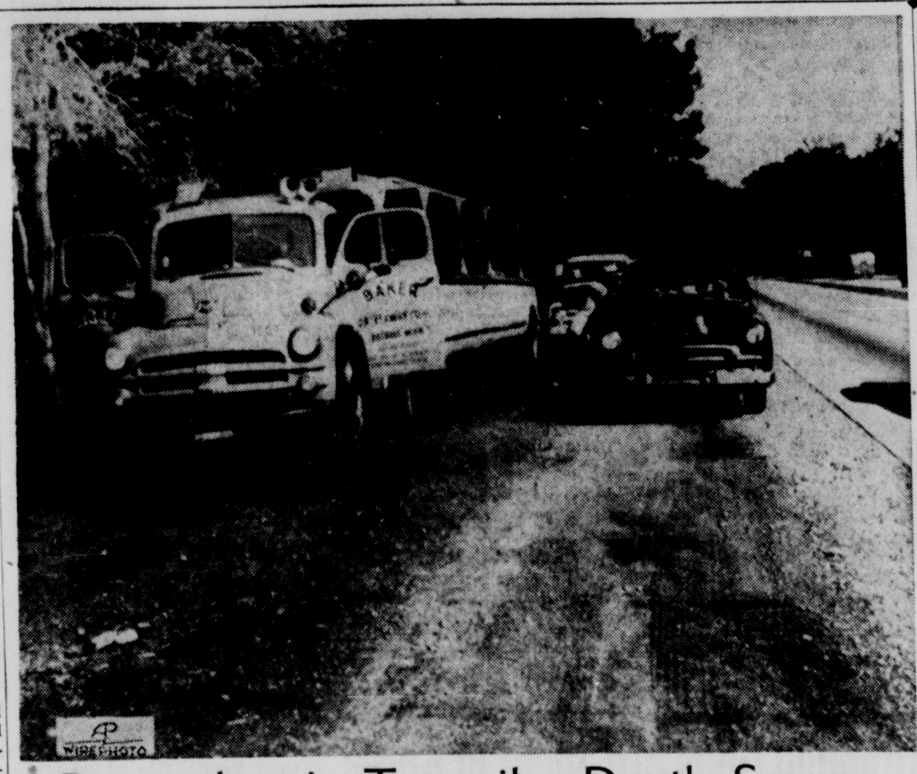
Slaying of Harry Franklyn Pitts, 39, Bowling Green, Va., touched off an intense manhunt along the entire 360 miles of the super road and echoed in the state Legislature with demands for more police protection of motorists. Interchanges jammed as police searched cars.

Although there have been four killings on the turnpike since its opening 15 years ago, the two truckers are the only ones slain while napping. More than two million trucks used the turnpike last year. Drivers by the hundreds of thousands pull off the high speed road to sleep—just as safety signs suggest—but only the two have been molested.

Coroner Joseph R. Check said the bullet which killed Pitts was from a .32 automatic, the same kind which took the life of Lester B. Woodward, 30, of near Harrisburg, last Saturday while he was parked on the road. The bullet from Pitts' head was sent to Harrisburg for ballistic comparison with that which killed Woodward.

Bank Savings At Peak

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—Total deposits in the nation's 528 mutual savings banks reached a record high of $23,614,000,000 on June 30, according to Richard A. Booth, president of he National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.



Pennsylvania Turnpike Death Scene

This is the auto carrier truck in which Harry Franklin Pitts, 39, Bowling Green, Va., was shot to death while he took a nap in the cab early yesterday near Laurel Hill Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Visible in the gravel are car tracks which state police think might have been made by the Killer's car. Pitts is the second trucker to be slain while napping on the turnpike in three days.

Dulles Says U. S. May Use UN Veto To Bar Red China

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles gave notice today that the United States will not trade admission of Red China into the United Nations for Korean unification. He said that if necessary this country may use the veto to bar the Peiping regime.

Dulles laid down this policy in announcing he is leaving Sunday by plane for Seoul to consult President Syngman Rhee in preparation for the Korean peace conference. He has asked a bi-partisan group of four senators to go with him to help negotiate with Rhee a promised United States-South Korea security treaty.

U. S. Might Reverse Position

At the peace conference, scheduled to be held by late October, Dulles said he would not be prepared to agree to the unification of divided Korea at the price of bringing Communist China into the U. N. and above all into the Security Council.

At a news conference Dulles told a questioner that if membership for Red China should reach a Security Council vote, the United States will consider itself free to reverse its previous position against wielding a veto to block the admission or recognition of applicant nations.

He added that this government would be reluctant to do this and doubted it would be necessary because so many other nations share the American opposition to the Peiping regime.

Conflict With Britain

The secretary's stand brought the Eisenhower administration into an apparent open conflict with Britain on this issue. Selwyn Lloyd, British minister of state, told Parliament yesterday the acceptance of Red China as advocated by Britain would be discussed with the other Western Allies prior to open negotiations on the issue.

Dulles said however that thus far the United States has had no official intimation of any British desire to consult on the subject.

The secretary's flying trip to Seoul, expected to require about a week, carries out his pledge of an early meeting with Rhee. This promise was announced during negotiations to prevail upon the South Korean leader to go along with the armistice.

Congress Tax Relief Bill Is Voted Down

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today voted down a House-approved provision giving additional tax relief to members of Congress.

Members may now deduct from their income taxes up to $3,000 a year for their living expenses in Washington.

The House provision, attached to the legislative appropriations bill, would have permitted unlimited deductions.

Sen. Williams (R-Del) had served notice he would fight this on the floor if the Appropriations Committee did not remove it. He contended it would largely benefit senators and House members who are wealthy and need little financial help.

Connecticut Man Dies At Age 127

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., July 28 (AP)—Isaac A. Alkas died today in a convalescent home at the age of 127 years.

His 90-year-old widow and records in the office of State Aid to the Blind gave his age at 127. Alkas, himself, however, used to contend he was three years younger, insisting he was born in Persia, now Iran, in March, 1829.

Alkas, blind for the past few years, came to the United States 50 years ago. Until he entered a convalescent home 27 years ago, he operated a farm.

E. Germans Flock To Get West Food

BERLIN, July 28 (AP)—Western food gifts drew 130,000 hungry East Germans to the Allied sectors of Berlin today. Some recipients were reported harassed by Communist police when they headed home. But two million are now expected to be fed in two weeks from the American-financed relief.

The flood of needy from Soviet-occupied territory defied threats of police reprisals and shrugged off ominous propaganda from Premier Otto Grotewohl's Communist government against the program.

They queued up from dawn to dark at 40 food giveaway centers in West Berlin. They followed 120,000 who swarmed across the East-West border when the project got underway yesterday.

City officials were overwhelmed by the influx—more than double the 60,000 a day they had counted on feeding during a 2-week period.

Red police in East Germany apparently feared to torpedo the relief by a concerted campaign of arrests and confiscations.

But Berlin informants said several East Germans carrying Western food were taken into custody at Soviet sector railway stations. Many others had to give their names and addresses when they were allowed back in the East by police sentries.

Conferees Agree On $34.3 Billions For U. S. Defense

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP) —A Senate-House conference committee agreed today on an appropriation of $34,371,541,000 for the Defense Department in the current fiscal year.

The compromise moved Congress substantially closer to adjournment this weekend.

Congress completed action on three other big money bills today, voting to appropriate about $2,600,000,000 for the operation of more than 30 government departments. Sharp restrictions on the public housing program were laid down in one of the measures.

House, Senate Must Act

The compromise on defense spending now goes back to the House and Senate for final approval. Both branches may vote on the bill tomorrow.

President Eisenhower asked for new appropriations of $36,171,288,000 for the Army, Navy and Air Force during the 12 months ending next June 30. This was about five billion less than President Truman recommended before he left office in January.

Ironing out differences between the Senate and House versions of the bill, the conference committee arrived at a figure $139,761,000 less than originally voted by the Senate and $62,599,500 less than the amount approved by the House.

Senate Cut Adopted

This came about because the House conferees accepted a Senate cut of $250,000,000 in the Defense Department's machine tools pool and at the same time succeeded in cutting back a number of Senate increases for the armed forces.

For the low-cost housing program, Eisenhower asked authority to go ahead with 35,000 housing units this year. The Senate and House compromised on 20,000 of the 62,000 units already contracted for. Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said this would prevent the federal housing administrator from entering into any new contracts with local authorities until after Feb. 1 at least.

Fire Sweeps Resort Hotel, Killing Four Vacationers

ROSENDALE, N. Y., July 28 (AP) — Flames, fanned to fury by dawn winds, roared through two frame buildings of a Catskill Mountain resort hotel today, killing four vacationers.

At least nine guests were injured.

The deep wail of the horn served as an ear-piercing fire alarm to many of 250 sleeping guests in the Williams Lake Hotel.

About 120 of the guests were asleep in the 2-story main hotel building, a frame structure that blazed like tinder.

Many of them escaped by leaping from their bedrooms. However, one such plunge cost the life of Mrs. Theodore Eckerline of New York.

The other dead were trapped inside the building. They were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Matthews and their 9-year-old son, Kevin, of Brooklyn.

Cause of the fire was not determined. Unofficial estimates set damage in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It apparently originated in a lodge and spread to the nearby main hotel building.

Many guests fled cottages and other outbuildings on the hotel property as high winds sent sparks cascading across the area like tracer bullets.

One of these guests, Mrs. Charles W. Smith, said:

"It was awful. You could hear screams from the hotel, and the crackling of the flames could be plainly heard."

Another guests, Charles Rooney, said "I could feel the heat a block away."

U. N. And Reds To Begin POW Swap On Aug. 5

Armistice Commission Holds Second Meeting To Rush Safeguards

MUNSAN, Wednesday, July 29 (AP)—With the passions of the Korean War not yet cold, the joint Allied-Communist Armistice Commission meets for a second time today to rush safeguards for enforcing the truce.

The meeting was due to start in Panmunjom at 11 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday, EST).

The commission agreed at its first session Tuesday to start the eagerly awaited exchange of 74,000 Communist prisoners for 12,763 Allied prisoners, including 3,313 Americans, Aug. 5.

Meantime Red Cross teams from Allied and Communist sides were arriving in Korea. They will be allowed to visit prisoner camps in both North and South Korea.

Before the first 24 hours of uneasy quiet had settled over the battlefield Tuesday, commanders had started the withdrawal of opposing forces along the cease-fire line. The withdrawal must be completed by 10 p.m. tomorrow (8 a.m. Thursday, EST), forming a twisting demilitarized zone 2½ miles wide across the scarred waist of Korea.

Inspection To Follow

Inspection of the demilitarized zones by joint Allied-Red observer teams will be made immediately after the withdrawal is completed.

In Seoul, President Sygman Rhee declared in a statement to the Korean people that "the 16 United Nations participating in the Korean War are determined to fight with us jointly to punish the aggressors" if the Republic of Korea is invaded again.

While displaying no optimism for a lasting peace, Rhee said he was going along for a limited time, to see if the U. N. was capable of persuading the Chinese Reds to leave Korea and unify the land through negotiations. He added:

"If after the set period of time, we succeed in this objective, it shall be a really great feat; but when we fail the United Nations will join us in the undertaking of unifying Korea. . . ." . . . . . .

Rhee has declared he would not obstruct the truce for the first 90 days of a political conference due to meet by Oct. 26, or sooner while it wrestled with unification and other peace problems. After that time limit, he has threatened to take independent action.

Rhee's Aims Only Delayed

In his statement Tuesday he asked North Koreans to understand that he had delayed temporarily but not abandoned his aims of unifying the country.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles told a press conference he would fly to Korea this weekend to confer with Rhee on the coming political conference on a security pact between the two countries.

The Peiping radio, which has intermittently blasted both Rhee and Dulles in the past few days, announced today that Red China and North Korea have addressed a 2-point statement to five nations serving on the neutral repatriations commission.

The five—headed by India and including Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia—were told that the Communists do not recognize a statement by Rhee's government that it would not admit Indian troops and Red truce representatives into South Korea.

The Red broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the U. N. Command, including the South Korean army "absolutely cannot shirk the responsibility for providing protection which is incumbent upon it" under terms of the armistice.

Strikers Return To Atom Plants

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., July 28 (AP)—Union leaders agreed today to let the government mediate a wage dispute that had idled 6,000 workers at two atomic plants. Then the production employes began returning to work.

The AFL Atomic Trades and Labor Council, representing 3,500 workers at two of three main plants here, took the back-to-work action at the personal request of secretary of Labor Martin Durkin and Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss. It agreed to terms of a telegraphed plea from Durkin and Strauss: that President Eisenhower's newly appointed Atomic Energy Labor and Management Panel would enter the dispute.

A report to Eisenhower was promised by Aug 2.

De Gasperi May Try Again

Perhaps Einaudi will persuade De Gasperi to try again. Or he may call on some other Christian Democrat who might weld the coalition together again or attract Monarchist support. The crisis may, however, lead to a new general election.

De Gasperi's speech to the Chamber was primarily a rebuttal to a week-long attack on his past middle-of-the-road cabinet; a firm supporter of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and the proposed one-army European Defense Community.

Former Priest's Followers Ejected From Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 28 (AP)—Six followers of an excommunicated former Catholic priest were escorted off the University of Notre Dame campus today after announcing they intended to convert Notre Dame students to their beliefs.

The six said they were followers of Leonard Feeney, who was a Jesuit priest in Boston before he was excommunicated a year ago. His offense was preaching, in opposition to orders from the Pope, that salvation is impossible outside the Catholic Church.

About 70 students aided three deputy sheriffs in taking the visitors to their car after they refused a request by Notre Dame officials to leave voluntarily. There was a slight scuffle.

The visitors did not give their names. All were young men, dressed in black suits, white shirts and black ties. One of them said to the crowd:

"The first sign of your approaching damnation is that Notre Dame has Protestants on its football team."

The group tried unsuccessfully to distribute copies of a book by Feeney entitled "The Bread of Life."

When they first reached the campus they said a rosary in front of the university's library. They then tried to enter Sacred Heart Church on the campus, but by that time university officials, students and deputy sheriffs were on hand and blocked them.

The group said they came from St. Benedict's Center in Cambridge, Mass., where they said Feeney is now located.

House Passes Refugee Bill, Trims Ceiling

Limit Of 217,000 Set; Final Senate Action Is Scheduled Today

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The House tonight approved a trimmed-down version of President Eisenhower's request for authority to admit 240,000 "special quota" refugees from communism and other immigrants into the United States.

The House set the limit at 217,000, while the Senate worked into the night on its own version of the legislation.

Final Senate action on the bill was put over until tomorrow, however. Debate starting at 10 a.m. EST will be limited to 10 minutes on each amendment.

The House vote was 221,185.

The aliens would be admitted within the next three years and would be in addition to the regular quotas of newcomers from foreign lands.

"Must" Legislation

As passed by the House, the special quota group would take in 4,000 orphans under 10 years of age, including 1,000 Korean War waifs to be raised at the famous Boys Town in Nebraska.

The legislation was one of the last big obstacles in the way of congressional adjournment this weekend and was listed as a "must" on the administration's calendar for this session.

The House, off to an early start, beat the Senate to the punch in enacting the controversial bill which some Congress members have attacked as opening the door to Red agents to infiltrate this country.

Secretary of State Dulles sent the Senate a last-minute plea for passage of the measure, declaring that unrest in Soviet-occupied East Germany and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain "increases the urgency" for such a bill.

Proponents' Arguments

Proponents argued that in admitting persons who have fled from Communist lands, the United States would ease the strain on refugee-swollen Western Europe and enhance the prospects for peace.

Across the Capitol, Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) quarterbacked the administration's drive for passage in a speech declaring:

"Much whispering has been done to spread fear among our people that many of the refugees admitted to the United States would be Communist agents.

"Such charges cannot be supported by facts."

Watkins said every alien seeking admission would be thoroughly screened by American investigative agencies.

Two Boys Killed By Power Line

HAGERSTOWN, July 28 (AP)—Two young brothers were fatally burned today after coming in contact with a 33,000 volt power line at an electrical substation where they were playing.

The victims were Gary Lee Zombro, 6, and Ronald Merle Zombro, 5, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Zombro. Gary died at Washington County Hospital several hours after the incident. His younger brother died tonight.

The boys had crawled under a fence around the substation and climbed 10 feet onto the top of a circuit breaker into which the high-powered line fed, Potomac Edison Co. officials said.

Their 2½-year-old sister, Darlene, remained outside the enclosure.

Their mother and neighbors rushed to the scene after hearing a muffled explosion. The boys were lying on the ground with their clothing afire. Their shoes had been knocked off their feet and one shoe was found atop the circuit breaker.

Firemen, who entered the enclosure through use of a ladder, snuffed out the burning clothing. The youngsters were rushed to the hospital with severe burns over most of their bodies.

Koreans Get Free Food

TOKYO, Wednesday, July 29 (AP)—The first of 10,000 tons of gift food ordered delivered to South Korea by President Eisenhower was distributed today in Pusan.

Second Trucker Slain On Turnpike; "Maniac" Sought

PITTSBURGH, July 28 (AP)—Gunfire snuffed out the life of a second truck driver in three days as he slept in his cab parked alongside the Pennsylvania Turnpike today and state police said "there's a maniac loose" on the famed toll highway.

State Police Cpl. William Smith expressed belief the same person committed the murders. The same type of bullet—fired into the head—killed both auto carrier drivers as they napped with their shoes off.

Slaying of Harry Franklyn Pitts, 39, Bowling Green, Va., touched off an intense manhunt along the entire 360 miles of the super road and echoed in the state Legislature with demands for more police protection of motorists. Interchanges jammed as police searched cars.

Although there have been four killings on the turnpike since its opening 15 years ago, the two truckers are the only ones slain while napping. More than two million trucks used the turnpike last year. Drivers by the hundreds of thousands pull off the high speed road to sleep—just as safety signs suggest—but only the two have been molested.

Coroner Joseph R. Check said the bullet which killed Pitts was from a .32 automatic, the same kind which took the life of Lester B. Woodward, 30, of near Harrisburg, last Saturday while he was parked on the road. The bullet from Pitts' head was sent to Harrisburg for ballistic comparison with that which killed Woodward.

Bank Savings At Peak

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—Total deposits in the nation's 528 mutual savings banks reached a record high of $23,614,000,000 on June 30, according to Richard A. Pooth, president of he National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Pennsylvania Turnpike Death Scene

This is the auto carrier truck in which Harry Franklin Pitts, 39, Bowling Green, Va., was shot to death while he took a nap in the cab early yesterday near Laurel Hill Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Visible in the gravel are car tracks which state police think might have been made by the Killer's car. Pitts is the second trucker to be slain while napping on the turnpike in three days.

Dulles Says U. S. May Use UN Veto To Bar Red China

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles gave notice today that the United States will not trade admission of Red China into the United Nations for Korean unification. He said that if necessary this country may use the veto to bar the Peiping regime.

Dulles laid down this policy in announcing he is leaving Sunday by plane for Seoul to consult President Syngman Rhee in preparation for the Korean peace conference. He has asked a bi-partisan group of four senators to go with him to help negotiate with Rhee a promised United States-South Korea security treaty.

U. S. Might Reverse Position

At the peace conference, scheduled to be held by late October, Dulles said he would not be prepared to agree to the unification of divided Korea at the price of bringing Communist China into the U. N. and above all into the Security Council.

At a news conference Dulles told a questioner that if membership for Red China should reach a Security Council vote, the United States will consider itself free to reverse its previous position against wielding a veto to block the admission or recognition of applicant nations.

He added that this government would be reluctant to do this and doubted it would be necessary because so many other nations share the American opposition to the Peiping regime.

Conflict With Britain

The secretary's stand brought the Eisenhower administration into an apparent open conflict with Britain on this issue. Selwyn Lloyd, British minister of state, told Parliament yesterday the acceptance of Red China as advocated by Britain would be discussed with the other Western Allies prior to open negotiations on the issue.

Dulles said however that thus far the United States has had no official intimation of any British desire to consult on the subject.

The secretary's flying trip to Seoul, expected to require about a week, carries out his pledge of an early meeting with Rhee. This promise was announced during negotiations to prevail upon the South Korean leader to go along with the armistice.

Congress Tax Relief Bill Is Voted Down

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today voted down a House-approved provision giving additional tax relief to members of Congress.

Members may now deduct from their income taxes up to $3,000 a year for their living expenses in Washington.

The House provision, attached to the legislative appropriations bill, would have permitted unlimited deductions.

Sen. Williams (R-Del) had served notice he would fight this on the floor if the Appropriations Committee did not remove it. He contended it would largely benefit senators and House members who are wealthy and need little financial help.

Connecticut Man Dies At Age 127

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., July 28 (AP)—Isaac A. Alkas died today in a convalescent home at the age of 127 years.

His 90-year-old widow and records in the office of State Aid to the Blind gave his age at 127. Alkas, himself, however, used to contend he was three years younger, insisting he was born in Persia, now Iran, in March, 1829.

Alkas, blind for the past few years, came to the United States 50 years ago. Until he entered a convalescent home 27 years ago, he operated a farm.

E. Germans Flock To Get West Food

BERLIN, July 28 (AP)—Western food gifts drew 130,000 hungry East Germans to the Allied sectors of Berlin today. Some recipients were reported harassed by Communist police when they headed home. But two million are now expected to be fed in two weeks from the American-financed relief.

The flood of needy from Soviet-occupied territory defied threats of police reprisals and shrugged off ominous propaganda from Premier Otto Grotewohl's Communist government against the program.

They queued up from dawn to dark at 40 food giveaway centers in West Berlin. They followed 120,000 who swarmed across the East-West border when the project got underway yesterday.

City officials were overwhelmed by the influx—more than double the 60,000 a day they had counted on feeding during a 2-week period.

Red police in East Germany apparently feared to torpedo the relief by a concerted campaign of arrests and confiscations.

But Berlin informants said several East Germans carrying Western food were taken into custody at Soviet sector railway stations. Many others had to give their names and addresses when they were allowed back in the East by police sentries.

Fire Sweeps Resort Hotel, Killing Four Vacationers

ROSENDALE, N. Y., July 28 (AP) — Flames, fanned to fury by dawn winds, roared through two frame buildings of a Catskill Mountain resort hotel today, killing four vacationers.

At least nine guests were injured.

The deep wail of the horn served as an ear-piercing fire alarm to many of 250 sleeping guests in the Williams Lake Hotel.

About 120 of the guests were asleep in the 2-story main hotel building, a frame structure that blazed like tinder.

Many of them escaped by leaping from their bedrooms. However, one such plunge cost the life of Mrs. Theodore Eckerline of New York.

The other dead were trapped inside the building. They were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Matthews and their 9-year-old son, Kevin, of Brooklyn.

Cause of the fire was not determined. Unofficial estimates set damage in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It apparently originated in a lodge and spread to the nearby main hotel building.

Many guests fled cottages and other outbuildings on the hotel property as high winds sent sparks cascading across the area like tracer bullets.

One of these guests, Mrs. Charles W. Smith, said:

"It was awful. You could hear screams from the hotel, and the crackling of the flames could be plainly heard."

Conferees Agree On $34.3 Billions For U. S. Defense

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP) —A Senate-House conference committee agreed today on an appropriation of $34,371,541,000 for the Defense Department in the current fiscal year.

The compromise moved Congress substantially closer to adjournment this weekend.

Congress completed action on three other big money bills today, voting to appropriate about $2,600,000,000 for the operation of more than 30 government departments. Sharp restrictions on the public housing program were laid down in one of the measures.

House, Senate Must Act

The compromise on defense spending now goes back to the House and Senate for final approval. Both branches may vote on the bill tomorrow.

President Eisenhower asked for new appropriations of $36,171,288,000 for the Army, Navy and Air Force during the 12 months ending next June 30. This was about five billion less than President Truman recommended before he left office in January.

Ironing out differences between the Senate and House versions of the bill, the conference committee arrived at a figure $139,761,000 less than originally voted by the Senate and $62,599,500 less than the amount approved by the House.

Senate Cut Adopted

This came about because the House conferees accepted a Senate cut of $250,000,000 in the Defense Department's machine tools pool and at the same time succeeded in cutting back a number of Senate increases for the armed forces.

For the low-cost housing program, Eisenhower asked authority to go ahead with 35,000 housing units this year. The Senate and House compromised on 20,000 of the 62,000 units already contracted for. Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said this would prevent the federal housing administrator from entering into any new contracts with local authorities until after Feb. 1 at least.

U. N. And Reds To Begin POW Swap On Aug. 5

Armistice Commission Holds Second Meeting To Rush Safeguards

MUNSAN, Wednesday, July 29 (AP)—With the passions of the Korean War not yet cold, the joint Allied-Communist Armistice Commission meets for a second time today to rush safeguards for enforcing the truce.

The meeting was due to start in Panmunjom at 11 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday, EST).

The commission agreed at its first session Tuesday to start the eagerly awaited exchange of 74,000 Communist prisoners for 12,763 Allied prisoners, including 3,313 Americans, Aug. 5.

Meantime Red Cross teams from Allied and Communist sides were arriving in Korea. They will be allowed to visit prisoner camps in both North and South Korea.

Before the first 24 hours of uneasy quiet had settled over the battlefield Tuesday, commanders had started the withdrawal of opposing forces along the cease-fire line. The withdrawal must be completed by 10 p.m. tomorrow (8 a.m. Thursday, EST), forming a twisting demilitarized zone 2½ miles wide across the scarred waist of Korea.

Inspection To Follow

Inspection of the demilitarized zones by joint Allied-Red observer teams will be made immediately after the withdrawal is completed.

In Seoul, President Sygman Rhee declared in a statement to the Korean people that "the 16 United Nations participating in the Korean War are determined to fight with us jointly to punish the aggressors" if the Republic of Korea is invaded again.

While displaying no optimism for a lasting peace, Rhee said he was going along for a limited time, to see if the U. N. was capable of persuading the Chinese Reds to leave Korea and unify the land through negotiations. He added:

"If after the set period of time, we succeed in this objective, it shall be a really great feat; but when we fail the United Nations will join us in the undertaking of unifying Korea. . . ."

Rhee has declared he would not obstruct the truce for the first 90 days of a political conference due to meet by Oct. 26, or sooner while it wrestled with unification and other peace problems. After that time limit, he has threatened to take independent action.

Rhee's Aims Only Delayed

In his statement Tuesday he asked North Koreans to understand that he had delayed temporarily but not abandoned his aims of unifying the country.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles told a press conference he would fly to Korea this weekend to confer with Rhee on the coming political conference on a security pact between the two countries.

The Peiping radio, which has intermittently blasted both Rhee and Dulles in the past few days, announced today that Red China and North Korea have addressed a 2-point statement to five nations serving on the neutral repatriations commission.

The five—headed by India and including Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia—were told that the Communists do not recognize a statement by Rhee's government that it would not admit Indian troops and Red truce representatives into South Korea.

The Red broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the U. N. Command, including the South Korean army "absolutely cannot shirk the responsibility for providing protection which is incumbent upon it" under terms of the armistice.

Strikers Return To Atom Plants

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., July 28 (AP)—Union leaders agreed today to let the government mediate a wage dispute that had idled 6,000 workers at two atomic plants. Then the production employes began returning to work.

The AFL Atomic Trades and Labor Council, representing 3,500 workers at two of three main plants here, took the back-to-work action at the personal request of secretary of Labor Martin Durkin and Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss. It agreed to terms of a telegraphed plea from Durkin and Strauss: that President Eisenhower's newly appointed Atomic Energy Labor and Management Panel would enter the dispute.

A report to Eisenhower was promised by Aug 2.

French Hammer Indochina Reds From Air, Sea And Land

Union Forces Strive To Close Trap On Enemy

SAIGON, Indochina, July 28 (AP)—French Union forces hammered by air, sea and land today at a 3,000-man Vietminh regiment based near the coast of Central Indochina north of Hue, the capital of Annam province.

French officers said heavy fighting had developed in this biggest action of the Indochinse war since an armistice ended the shooting in Korea.

The French threw 10,000 men into the assault, hoping to close a ring around the Communist-led troops before darkness gave the enemy a chance to flee from entrenchments to nearby mountains.

Several Battalions Trapped

Several battalions of the enemy already have been surrounded and are being pounded by American-supplied B26 bombers and by warships firing from the South China sea, the French said. French tanks are on hand for the mopup.

The Vietminh regiment has been harassing communications between Hue and Quan Tri, 40 miles to the north, for several months. Though it has occupied several villages, the fight was reported centered 25 miles north of Hue.

The trap was set up over an area about seven miles long and five miles wide. Warships landed men along the northern and southern boundaries. Simultaneously, marching columns took up positions inland. Thirty-nine transport planes dropped parachutists into the region.

New Commissioner Arrives

The attack developed as Maurice Dejean, former French ambassador to Tokyo, arrived in Saigon to take up his job as France's new commissioner general in Indochina.

France is determined to bring an end to the 7-year-old war, either through force or by negotiations, Dejean said. He said he is profoundly convinced that peace is indivisible in Asia as well as in Europe and "I will follow with particular interest the development and the possible repercussions of the truce in Korea."

FIRE DESTROYS LAKESIDE RESORT—Fire roars throogh Williams Lake Hotel, levelling two frame structures of the Catskill Mountain lakeside resort near Rosendale, N. Y. Four vacationers perished in the blaze. Between 90 and 100 guests were asleep in one building and 23 others, mostly older people, in the other. First unofficial estimate of the damage placed it at one million dollars.

'Great Victory' Theme Is Pounded By Reds

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—Communist radios in Europe and Asia today pounded the propaganda theme of a "great victory" over imperialism in Korea.

From Premier Georgi Malenkov of the Soviet Union to Red correspondents in POW camps in North Korea, the line was the same—the armistice is a big victory for Communist forces.

Malenkov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today sent messages of congratulations to Red China's rulers, Mao Tze-tung and Chou En-lai:

"The signing of the truce and the end of the Korean War constitutes a great victory for the heroic Korean people and the valiant Chinese Peoples Volunteers . . . in the cause of defending peace in the Far East and throughout the world."

They sent similar messages yesterday to North Korean leader Kim Il Sung and the acting Foreign Minister Lee Don Gen.

Industry Confident About Future Although Guns Are Silent In Korea

Editors Note: What will be the effect of the Korean truce on business in the United States? To answer that question, The Associated Press queries industrialists in key industries across the nation. Their reply mostly was—confidence in the future. Here is the consensus.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Business leaders generally expect America's factories to go right on humming, although the guns in Korea have fallen silent.

Some concede that there may be a temporary period of adjustment—"a shifting of gears," as one executive put it. But most of the men who run industry are pretty confident about the future.

In Washington, defense officials said defense spending could be cut by as much as one billion dollars in the next year, but there were many businessmen who felt there would not be big cuts in defense contracts. "The nation can't afford to take a chance," these leaders declared.

The aircraft industry is among those which don't appear to expect any sizeable defense cutbacks.

"So far as I know," said Donald Douglas, president of Douglas Aircraft Co., "the truce will have no immediate effect on production. Present orders, both for military and civilian airplanes, will keep our plants at about the current level of activity for two to three years."

Steelmen, too, expect to keep busy, with near-capacity operations through the rest of the year. They pointed out that direct defense orders have accounted for only a relatively small proportion of the steel business. And they say they feel the nation won't relax its defense efforts because of uncertainties of the future.

Motor men are not perturbed. Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, declared the truce should have "very little influence" on military contract expenditures for the rest of this year.

"As for the longer term," Curtice remarked, "I believe the prosperity of the country is not dependent on war or defense expenditures."

"The Korean truce," said Chairman George V. Holton of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., "should not bring any substantial decrease in the demand for oil. What might happen would be a temporary reduction in demand for petroleum products."

J. P. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Rubber Co., commented that "the truce may signal a shifting of gears for the national economy and rubber industry, but we will hardly feel it because the shift is from full speed ahead to high cruising speed, and we will still be moving fast."

R. H. Macy & Co. President Jack I. Strauss acknowledged that "some temporary unsettlement in business may follow the truce," but added:

"At the moment, the main impact appears likely to be psychological."

The president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, Wade G. McCargo, said stores figure on a high level of business for the rest of 1953, with "a moderate and brief period of readjustment" following.

C. W. La Pierre, vice president of the General Eelectric Co., commented that some cutbacks may be coming, but added:

"It will probably be a long time before our country can feel safe enough to ease off on our defense buildup. If that time ever comes, we will undoubtedly be able to divert our energies to civilian production."

Textile manufacturers in New England remarked that the Korean War boom collapsed two years ago, so far as their industry was concerned.

N. Y. Cops Seek Germ Package

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—A woman forgot a parcel as she stepped off a city bus at 3:15 p.m. (EST) today.

Three hours later 60 patrolmen in 30 radio cars were stopping all buses on 1st and 2nd Aves. to search for the missing package.

Police said it is believed to contain two laboratory uniforms which have been contaminated with typhus germs. Exposure to the germs could cause very serious and prolonged fever.

Martha Washington Descendant, 73, Weds

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Historic Tudor Place was the scene today of the wedding of Dr. John R. Mott, 88, an international religious leader, and Miss Agnes Peter, 73, the great-great-great-granddaughter of Martha Washington.

The Rev. John R. Anschutz, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church, Georgetown, officiated in the drawing room of the famed mansion. Tudor Place, a huge house set atop a tree-covered hill on a half block of Georgetown, is now owned by the bride's brother, Armistead Peter Jr.

The mansion was built in the early 1800s by Thomas Peter and his wife, Martha Custis Peter, granddaughter of George Washington's wife.

Dr. Mott, a Nobel Peace Prize winner in 1946, has been lay leader of many national and international religious groups, including the World Council of Churches, which he helped found. This was his second marriage, his first wife having died.

Postal Increase Bill Is Shelved For This Year

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Congress today ditched, at least for this session, President Eisenhower's request for an increase in postal rates.

Eisenhower had placed a "must" tag on the legislation. It would raise the cost of a stamp on a first class letter from three to four cents and make other major changes in postal rates.

But with Congress hurrying toward an adjournment deadline at the end of the week and with little chance of getting enough vetoes for passage by then, the House Post Office Committee decided to put off further consideration of the bill until next year.

The postal bill had been considered the biggest stumbling block in meeting the adjournment deadline. Vigorous opposition to raising postal rates had cropped up among Republicans and Democrats on both sides of the Capitol.

Postmaster General Summerfield had given strong backing to the bill. He said the increase in first class letter rates and other recommended changes would add about 240 million dollars a year to post office revenues. The department has been running more than a milion dollars in debt every year.

Chairman Rees (R-Kan) of the House committee announced after a meeting of his unit today that since the Senate has decided not to begin hearings on the bill and since late House sessions have been called for the rest of the week, it is "impracticable to continue work on the bill at this time."

A. M. Papers Ask Ike For 'Break'

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The White House press office was requested today to consider holding some of President Eisenhower's news conferences late in the day to give morning newspapers an equal opportunity to play the news first.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty did not say what would be done about the request, which was made orally at his news conference by Edward T. Folliard, White House correspondent for the Washington Post, a morning paper.

Eisenhower has held 14 news conferences beginning with the first one on Feb. 17. All have been held in the morning except one on April 2, at 2:30 p.m., EST and another April 30 at 2 p.m. One was held at 11:15 a.m., the other at 9:30 a.m.

Folliard said the outlook seems to be that for the rest of this administration morning newspapers "will be getting warmed over news" as far as presidential news conferences are concerned.

In the Roosevelt and Truman administrations these interviews were alternated between morning and afternoon times. Usually they were held weekly.

Stratojet Breaks Record For Maine To England Run

FAIRFORD, England, July 28 (AP)—A B47 Stratojet bomber—borrowing from tactics of the old sailing ships—zipped from Maine to England today in 4¾ hours.

It was man's fastest crossing of the Atlantic from the United States, 37 minutes faster than it had ever been done before.

The 6-engine Boeing-built bomber latched on to previously charted winds of up to 104 miles an hour at altitudes of about six miles to better the previous record from the U. S. Air Force Base at Limestone, in Northern Maine, to this air base 80 miles west of London. The average speed for the 2,925-mile flight was reckoned at 616 miles an hour.

At the same time another B47 flew here from Goose Bay, Labradoor, some 2,480 miles, in 4 hours, 14 minutes for an average speed of 611 miles an hour.

The Air Force said this was the fastest known time for the route. A British-built twin-engine Canberrajet bomber once flew much the same route from Labrador at an average speed of 605 miles an hour.

Both B47s are from the 305th Bomb Wing, MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla.

The wing commander, Col. Elliott Vandevanter Jr., of Alexandria, Va., flew the plane from Labrador.

Vandevanter said both flights were designed to survey routes and study problems involved in the transfer of the 305th Wing to Fairford later this year. The new wing will relieve the B47s of the 306th Wing, which came here early in June for 90 days of combat training.

The B47 normally carries a crew of three—the plane commander; a co-pilot, who also serves as a radio engineer; the observer who triples as radar operator, bombardier and navigator.

Each of these two planes, however, carried a fourth man along, for the first time on a transatlantic hop. These men were this writer and Wesley Price of the Saturday Evening Post.

No Reason For Army Slash, Radford Says

OMAHA, July 28 (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford said today, "I can see no reason for marked reductions in our armed forces at this time," except that replacements for casualties no longer will be required.

The incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff made the statement in reply to reporters' questions about the effect of the Korean truce on armed service manpower requirements.

Radford and other members of the Joint Chiefs arrived at Offutt Air Force Base, headquarters of the Strategic Air Command, as they began their first inspection trip as a group.

Dulles Warns Iran's Premier

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles indirectly warned Iran's Premier Mossadegh today "that there is great concern" over the growing activities of the illegal Communist Tudeh party in the oil-rich country.

At the same time, he sharply criticized Israel on the ground that it added to Middle East tensions by moving its capital from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem despite American government objections.

Dulles gave notice the United States will refuse to move its embassy. Officials take the view that Israel's action undermines a United Nations move to make Jerusalem mainly an international city rather than a purely national one. Arab nations in the area consider Jerusalem one of their shrires and oppose Israel's move.

In talking about Iran at a news conference, Dulles hinted the United States may cut off economic aid unless Premier Mossadegh takes prompt steps to curb the Communist party in his homeland.

"These developments certainly make it more difficult for the United States to grant assistance to Iran," Dulles said.

French Hammer Indochina Reds From Air, Sea And Land

Union Forces Strive To Close Trap On Enemy

SAIGON, Indochina, July 28 (AP)—French Union forces hammered by air, sea and land today at a 3,000-man Vietminh regiment based near the coast of Central Indochina north of Hue, the capital of Annam province.

French officers said heavy fighting had developed in this biggest action of the Indochinse war since an armistice ended the shooting in Korea.

The French threw 10,000 men into the assault, hoping to close a ring around the Communist-led troops before darkness gave the enemy a chance to flee from entrenchments to nearby mountains.

Several Battalions Trapped

Several battalions of the enemy already have been surrounded and are being pounded by American-supplied B26 bombers and by warships firing from the South China sea, the French said. French tanks are on hand for the mopup.

The Vietminh regiment has been harassing communications between Hue and Quan Tri, 40 miles to the north, for several months. Though it has occupied several villages, the fight was reported centered 25 miles north of Hue.

The trap was set up over an area about seven miles long and five miles wide. Warships landed men along the northern and southern boundaries. Simultaneously, marching columns took up positions inland. Thirty-nine transport planes dropped parachutists into the region.

New Commissioner Arrives

The attack developed as Maurice Dejean, former French ambassador to Tokyo, arrived in Saigon to take up his job as France's new commissioner general in Indochina.

France is determined to bring an end to the 7-year-old war, either through force or by negotiations, Dejean said. He said he is profoundly convinced that peace is indivisible in Asia as well as in Europe and "I will follow with particular interest the development and the possible repercussions of the truce in Korea."

'Great Victory' Theme Is Pounded By Reds

LONDON, July 28 (AP)—Communist radios in Europe and Asia today pounded the propaganda theme of a "great victory" over imperialism in Korea.

From Premier Georgi Malenkov of the Soviet Union to Red correspondents in POW camps in North Korea, the line was the same—the armistice is a big victory for Communist forces.

Malenkov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today sent messages of congratulations to Red China's rulers, Mao Tze-tung and Chou En-lai:

"The signing of the truce and the end of the Korean War constitutes a great victory for the heroic Korean people and the valiant Chinese Peoples Volunteers . . . in the cause of defending peace in the Far East and throughout the world."

They sent similar messages yesterday to North Korean leader Kim Il Sung and the acting Foreign Minister Lee Don Gen.

FIRE DESTROYS LAKESIDE RESORT—Fire roars throogh Williams Lake Hotel, levelling two frame structures of the Catskill Mountain lakeside resort near Rosendale, N. Y. Four vacationers perished in the blaze. Between 90 and 100 guests were asleep in one building and 23 others, mostly older people, in the other. First unofficial estimate of the damage placed it at one million dollars.

Industry Confident About Future Although Guns Are Silent In Korea

Editors Note: What will be the effect of the Korean truce on business in the United States? To answer that question, The Associated Press queries industrialists in key industries across the nation. Their reply mostly was—confidence in the future. Here is the consensus.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Business leaders generally expect America's factories to go right on humming, although the guns in Korea have fallen silent.

Some concede that there may be a temporary period of adjustment—"a shifting of gears," as one executive put it. But most of the men who run industry are pretty confident about the future.

In Washington, defense officials said defense spending could be cut by as much as one billion dollars in the next year, but there were many businessmen who felt there would not be big cuts in defense contracts. "The nation can't afford to take a chance," these leaders declared.

The aircraft industry is among those which don't appear to expect any sizeable defense cutbacks.

"So far as I know," said Donald Douglas, president of Douglas Aircraft Co., "the truce will have no immediate effect on production. Present orders, both for military and civilian airplanes, will keep our plants at about the current level of activity for two to three years."

Steelmen, too, expect to keep busy, with near-capacity operations through the rest of the year. They pointed out that direct defense orders have accounted for only a relatively small proportion of the steel business. And they say they feel the nation won't relax its defense efforts because of uncertainties of the future.

Motor men are not perturbed. Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, declared the truce should have "very little influence" on military contract expenditures for the rest of this year.

"As for the longer term," Curtice remarked, "I believe the prosperity of the country is not dependent on war or defense expenditures."

"The Korean truce," said Chairman George V. Holton of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., "should not bring any substantial decrease in the demand for oil. What might happen would be a temporary reduction in demand for petroleum products."

J. P. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Rubber Co., commented that "the truce may signal a shifting of gears for the national economy and rubber industry, but we will hardly feel it because the shift is from full speed ahead to high cruising speed, and we will still be moving fast."

R. H. Macy & Co. President Jack I. Strauss acknowledged that "some temporary unsettlement in business may follow the truce," but added:

"At the moment, the main impact appears likely to be psychological."

The president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, Wade G. McCargo, said stores figure on a high level of business for the rest of 1953, with "a moderate and brief period of readjustment" following.

C. W. La Pierre, vice president of the General Eelectric Co., commented that some cutbacks may be coming, but added:

"It will probably be a long time before our country can feel safe enough to ease off on our defense buildup. If that time ever comes, we will undoubtedly be able to divert our energies to civilian production."

Textile manufacturers in New England remarked that the Korean War boom collapsed two years ago, so far as their industry was concerned.

N. Y. Cops Seek Germ Package

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—A woman forgot a parcel as she stepped off a city bus at 3:15 p.m. (EST) today.

Three hours later 60 patrolmen in 30 radio cars were stopping all buses on 1st and 2nd Aves. to search for the missing package.

Police said it is believed to contain two laboratory uniforms which have been contaminated with typhus germs. Exposure to the germs could cause very serious and prolonged fever.

Martha Washington Descendant, 73, Weds

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Historic Tudor Place was the scene today of the wedding of Dr. John R. Mott, 88, an international religious leader, and Miss Agnes Peter, 73, the great-great-great-granddaughter of Martha Washington.

The Rev. John R. Anschutz, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church, Georgetown, officiated in the drawing room of the famed mansion. Tudor Place, a huge house set atop a tree-covered hill on a half block of Georgetown, is now owned by the bride's brother, Armistead Peter Jr.

The mansion was built in the early 1800s by Thomas Peter and his wife, Martha Custis Peter, granddaughter of George Washington's wife.

Dr. Mott, a Nobel Peace Prize winner in 1946, has been lay leader of many national and international religious groups, including the World Council of Churches, which he helped found. This was his second marriage, his first wife having died.

Postal Increase Bill Is Shelved For This Year

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Congress today ditched, at least for this session, President Eisenhower's request for an increase in postal rates.

Eisenhower had placed a "must" tag on the legislation. It would raise the cost of a stamp on a first class letter from three to four cents and make other major changes in postal rates.

But with Congress hurrying toward an adjournment deadline at the end of the week and with little chance of getting enough vetoes for passage by then, the House Post Office Committee decided to put off further consideration of the bill until next year.

The postal bill had been considered the biggest stumbling block in meeting the adjournment deadline. Vigorous opposition to raising postal rates had cropped up among Republicans and Democrats on both sides of the Capitol.

Postmaster General Summerfield had given strong backing to the bill. He said the increase in first class letter rates and other recommended changes would add about 240 million dollars a year to post office revenues. The department has been running more than a million dollars in debt every year.

Chairman Rees (R-Kan) of the House committee announced after a meeting of his unit today that since the Senate has decided not to begin hearings on the bill and since late House sessions have been called for the rest of the week, it is "impracticable to continue work on the bill at this time."

A. M. Papers Ask Ike For 'Break'

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The White House press office was requested today to consider holding some of President Eisenhower's news conferences late in the day to give morning newspapers an equal opportunity to play the news first.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty did not say what would be done about the request, which was made orally at his news conference by Edward T. Folliard, White House correspondent for the Washington Post, a morning paper.

Eisenhower has held 14 news conferences beginning with the first one on Feb. 17. All have been held in the morning except one on April 2, at 2:30 p.m., EST and another April 30 at 2 p.m. One was held at 11:15 a.m., the other at 9:30 a.m.

Folliard said the outlook seems to be that for the rest of this administration morning newspapers "will be getting warmed over news" as far as presidential news conferences are concerned.

In the Roosevelt and Truman administrations these interviews were alternated between morning and afternoon times. Usually they were held weekly.

Stratojet Breaks Record For Maine To England Run

FAIRFORD, England, July 28 (AP)—A B47 Stratojet bomber—borrowing from tactics of the old sailing ships—zipped from Maine to England today in 4¾ hours.

It was man's fastest crossing of the Atlantic from the United States, 37 minutes faster than it had ever been done before.

The 6-engine Boeing-built bomber latched on to previously charted winds of up to 104 miles an hour at altitudes of about six miles to better the previous record from the U. S. Air Force Base at Limestone, in Northern Maine, to this air base 80 miles west of London. The average speed for the 2,925-mile flight was reckoned at 616 miles an hour.

At the same time another B47 flew here from Goose Bay, Labrador, some 2,480 miles, in 4 hours, 14 minutes for an average speed of 611 miles an hour.

The Air Force said this was the fastest known time for the route. A British-built twin-engine Canberrajet bomber once flew much the same route from Labrador at an average speed of 605 miles an hour.

Both B47s are from the 305th Bomb Wing, MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla.

The wing commander, Col. Elliott Vandevanter Jr., of Alexandria, Va., flew the plane from Labrador.

Vandevanter said both flights were designed to survey routes and study problems involved in the transfer of the 305th Wing to Fairford later this year. The new wing will relieve the B47s of the 306th Wing, which came here early in June for 90 days of combat training.

The B47 normally carries a crew of three—the plane commander; a co-pilot, who also serves as a radio engineer; the observer who triples as radar operator, bombardier and navigator.

Each of these two planes, however, carried a fourth man along, for the first time on a transatlantic hop. These men were this writer and Wesley Price of the Saturday Evening Post.

No Reason For Army Slash, Radford Says

OMAHA, July 28 (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford said today, "I can see no reason for marked reductions in our armed forces at this time," except that replacements for casualties no longer will be required.

The incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff made the statement in reply to reporters' questions about the effect of the Korean truce on armed service manpower requirements.

Radford and other members of the Joint Chiefs arrived at Offutt Air Force Base, headquarters of the Strategic Air Command, as they began their first inspection trip as a group.

Dulles Warns Iran's Premier

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles indirectly warned Iran's Premier Mossadegh today "that there is great concern" over the growing activities of the illegal Communist Tudeh party in the oil-rich country.

At the same time, he sharply criticized Israel on the ground that it added to Middle East tensions by moving its capital from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem despite American government objections.

Dulles gave notice the United States will refuse to move its embassy. Officials take the view that Israel's action undermines a United Nations move to make Jerusalem mainly an international city rather than a purely national one. Arab nations in the area consider Jerusalem one of their shrines and oppose Israel's move.

In talking about Iran at a news conference, Dulles hinted the United States may cut off economic aid unless Premier Mossadegh takes prompt steps to curb the Communist party in his homeland.

"These developments certainly make it more difficult for the United States to grant assistance to Iran," Dulles said.

No Interference By Justice Dept. In Probe Of U. N.

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—A House judiciary subcommittee today cleared the Justice Department of charges that it wilfully interferred with a New York grand jury investigation of Communist infiltration of the U. N. staff in 1952.

But it criticized the State Department for "an attitude of indifference" toward the entire situation.

The charges were aired last winter by members of the grand jury who contended the Justice Department tried to suppress a special report on which the jurors said they had agreed.

Report Issued Later

The report, which later was issued, called for assembling a new grand jury to push forward the probe of alleged infiltration of Reds among U. S. nationals on the payroll of the international organization.

Chairman Keating (R-NY) said his subcommittee's hearings "brought into sharp focus the confusion of responsibility which existed within the Department of State."

The report of his committee said the Justice Department "was drawn into this controversy by reason of its desire to cooperate with and back up the State Department, and that the situation created was the result primarily of an attitude of indifference to the problem by the State Department, coupled with the language of the United Nations charter.

Censure Not Merited

"It is not believed under all the circumstances, that the action of the Justice Department amounted to such willful inteference with the grand jury as to merit censure."

Keating said:

"The infestation of American Communists and their sympathizers in the United Nations and the seeming indifference of former responsible officials in the State Department is a matter of gravest national concern, especially when a federal grand jury is obliged to take matters into its own hands to expose the situation.

"The situation has now been entirely cleared up. I believe that our investigation contributed materially to this result."

Ghastly Mistake Costs Four Lives

WORCESTER, Mass., July 28 (AP)—A mother and four children perished by fire today because of a ghastly mistake.

The mother thought she had put out a fire started in a pillow by a bedtime cigarette—but the fire burned on inside the pillow, and burst out when all were asleep.

The dead were Mrs. Barbara A. F. Thoren, 40; Joyce Ann, 15, Richard F., 11, Elaine, 7, and John, 3.

Mrs. Thoren's husband, Chester, 41, and two other children, Judith, 15, twin of Joyce, and Stephen, 13, escaped. Thoren was injured slightly.

Mrs. Thoren and Joyce might have escaped but the mother went back for little Johnnie and Joyce returned for Elaine and Richard. The mother was found half on, half off the baby's bed. Joyce, Elaine and Richard, hands clapsed, were found just inside the front door.

Deputy Police Chief P. Frank Carroll said the fire started in the pillow.

Nehru Is Optimistic After Karachi Talks

NEW DELHI, India, July 27 (AP)—There will have to be more digging on problems between India and Pakistan, but Prime Minister Nehru said today he is very happy over the friendliness shown him at his conference with Prime Minister Mohammed Ali in Karachi.

"We have gone ahead a good deal on some problems and I hope they are nearer a solution," the Indian leader told newsmen on his return from the weekend parley. "Kashmir is the toughest problem."

Both India and Pakistan claim the storied border state of Kashmir. It has been the principal bone of contention between the two countries since Pakistan split from India in 1947 to form a separate nation in the British Commonwealth.

Mental Institution Site Change Urged

ANNAPOLIS, July 28 (AP)—Anne Arundel County Commissioners today urged the state to look somewhere else for a site for its new institution for the criminal insane.

They unanimously adopted a resolution objecting to locating the institution at Whitney's Landing in the center of the county near Crownsville.

At the same time Del. Lankford (D-Anne Arundel) protested the project to Gov. McKeldin and said he had been told by a state official that the land had been bought for a farm.

Lankford said he had assumed from a conversation with Nathan L. Smith, director of public improvements, that the farm would be in connection with Crownsville State Hospital. The hospital cares for Negro insane.

Tobey Is Buried At Temple, N. H.

TEMPLE, N. H., July 28 (AP)—Sen. Charles W. Tobey, one of New England's foremost statesmen, was buried today in a little sun-drenched cemetery near his hilltop farm where he often sang hymns with his friends.

The 73-year-old Republican who began his political career as selectman of this town of 400 persons was eulogized at simple funeral services as a man "equally at home in leading a crusade for Jesus Christ or in conducting a crusade against crime."

Tobey died of a heart condition at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital last Friday.

Vice President Richard Nixon, and 24 members of Congress sat in the white frame Temple Congregational Church as the Rev. Allen Lorimer of Montclair, N. J., who once preached in Manchester, N.H. said solemnly:

"We all remember his moral indignation at a man who sought to undermine American institutions. He was a unique apostle who would lead a congregation and lash forth at a criminal who violated the moral law."

Listeners recalled Tobey's prominent role on televised sessions of Senate Crime Investigating Committee hearings when he frequently quoted the Bible in criticizing criminals.

Dollar Stability

The dollar has been shrinking again—and probably will shrink more. But it would be better not to start shouting imprecations at Washington just yet. Actually, the administration has been doing pretty well as far as living costs are concerned—and so has the country.

The latest reading on the consumers' price index, covering the month up to June 15, stood at 114.5. That is, during the period in question it would have taken $1.14½ cents to buy what $1 bought during the 1947-1949 period. And it's true that the index has never been as high as that since before World War II, even allowing for the fact that the base period has been changed.

But it is only a shade higher—0.2 per cent—than it was last August and November. It is only 1 per cent higher than it was last June. It is 12.5 per cent higher than it was in June, 1950, before the Korean war started. Al of which is to say that the economy has been virtually stabilized durng this last year—and is still highly stable.

So the index reflects an achievement—and a remarkable achievement, considering that unemployment right now is close to an all-time low and that defense spending makes up a large part of a national output that stands at an all-time high. Granted that the incredible productive capacity of this nation is largely responsible for it, the calculations have worked out very well.

Rising food costs are to blame for most of the rise in the index. More increases are coming, and other living costs are slowly climbing because the inflationary effects of past policies are still being felt. But most workers have nothing to complain about, inasmuch as wages and salaries were up 10 per cent in the second quarter of this year as compared with a year ago. Those pay increases made up the increased living costs many times over.

Trojan Food

American attempt to get food to East Germany, and Russian efforts to prevent this, continue to tell a plain story to Germany and the world. Russian propaganda harps on the theme that the gifts are "fascist provocation," a "political device," "illegal and inadmissable." But if all this were true, it would be a hopeless task to make people believe it.

In East Germany, as everywhere behind the iron curtain, living standards have fallen sharply. East Germany formerly was a food-surplus area, supplying food for all Germany. Now its people do not get enough to eat. And a hungry person would rather have free food than slave propaganda.

The Russians, who are exceedingly clumsy when they are caught off balance, have been helping to put over the impression the U. S. is trying to create by their angry opposition. They insist that nobody in their zone is unemployed or hungry, but offer no explanation of why East Germans show such eagerness to get $1.20 worth of food free at the inconvenience of traveling to West Berlin and standing in line.

As soon as distribution of free food in West Berlin to East Berliners was started, forged food coupons were being circulated in large numbers. The forgery was so clever and was produced so quickly that it was obviously done by some public agency in the Soviet Zone.

The people of East Germany will hear about this. They are also hearing that large food shipments are on the way, and that other ways of getting it to needy persons in the Soviet Zone are being worked out. Meanwhile they are being warned by the Communists to refuse the "Greek gift" from the West.

The Reds formerly boasted of their own Trojan horse tactics. But they don't like it when the other side uses Trojan horses, especially edible ones.

There's Still Hope

Engineers are experimenting with an electronically controlled automobile that would steer itself along a prescribed route, stop itself upon aproaching a metal obstacle and turn out of its lane to pass a slower vehicle.

The gimmick in this dream is that autos would operate on specially constructed highways underlaid with electric cables making contact with the electronic gadgets in the cars. Thus motorists of tomorrow may be able to watch television, if their tastes run in that direction, play the futuramic version of bridge or otherwise keep themselves amused. The one thing they would not have to do is drive.

Therein may lie the key to the survival of the human race. If automobiles can be contrived to operate themselves, civilization as we know it still has a chance. Ever since the first electrics pointed their spindly wheels down the Main Streets of America more than 50 years ago, man has been hard pressed to control the successive automative marvels placed in his charge.

That he has never succeeded in mastering them is apparent in the nation's appalling record of traffic fatalities.

The one improvement the best automotive engineering brains haven't deveoped to date is complete elimination of the human element in driving. It is encouraging to learn that they are working on this problem.

Curbing A Killer

As far back as historical and other records of man's existence go, tuberculosis has been one of the leading killers. Modern progress in preventing and treating this disease has been excellent, but much remains to be done. Great encouragement is to be derived, therefore, from an announcement from Geneva of a 50 per cent drop in deaths from tuberculosis.

The 50 per cent figure is for the period between 1938 and 1950 in 21 countries with a population of 404,000,000. This is only 17 per cent of the world's population. Nevertheless, a sample of more than 400,000,000 persons is considered representative. The 50 per cent drop in deaths is characterized as "one of the most sensational developments ever recorded in the field of public health." Reduction of 47 per cent was recorded for the United States.

No single cause for this achievement is assigned. The decline was greatest in countries in which energetic efforts to detect and treat tuberculosis in its first stage are made. Public education and understanding, as well as medical facilities, are vital.

Lowering High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is not a simple condition. There are many causes, varying from excitement to kidney disease. The abnormality also has a variable effect upon different people; it attacks some early in life whereas others are not bothered until they have lived beyond the normal life expectancy. Some need medicine, but others do not and, so far as medication goes, there is no single remedy that lowers the level in all hypertensives.

At present, apresoline and hexamethonium are the most talked of drugs in this field. Both are potent and, unless used properly, treatment may be worse than the disease. I am not trying to be derogatory because the products are capable of lowering blood pressure. But the person must be impressed with the need for consulting those who have had experience in the use of these remedies.

Hexamethonium is the stronger of the two. It has been prescribed by many authorities thruout the country and one of the latest reports comes from a group at Baylor university, Houston, Tex. They tried it in 58 patients suffering from severe high blood pressure. After studying these individuals for four to 16 months, the physicians concluded that hexamethonium was effective, as all but 11 responded with a significant reduction in blood pressure. The same objectionable side reactions found by others were noted and were morelikely to occur when the dosage of the drug was built up too rapidly. Caution is necessary because after hexamethonium is administered, lowering of the reading is most noticeable in the standing rather than the supine position. Unless this is known, the victim becomesdizzy and may faint on arising. The most beneficial effects occurred in those with associated angina pectoris and headaches. In 18 of the most stubborn cases, a combination of hexamethonium and apresoline was used and there was a good response in 11.

Apresoline has been employed more extensively and many reports indicate that it is capable of reducing hypertension in its own right. The response varies, depending upon the height of the blood pressure, the duration of hypertension, and the age of the patient. In a group reported from the Cleveland clinic, 57 of 97 patients were helped; in one-fourth of the entire series the diastolic pressure fell to normal. Regardless of the remedy utilized, many complained of weakness, lassitude, and mild depression when the blood pressure began to drop. These symptoms usaully disappeared when the body adjusted to the change.

Remedies of this type are not the final answer to the problem of hypertension. They do not cure and, when discontinued, tension returns to its former level. They act as adjuncts to other measures that decrease blood pressure in a more natural fashion. By this we mean that the drugs cannot be expected to nullify the more basic causes of high blood pressure such as stress of living, anxiety, and too many responsibilities.

TOMORROW: A new remedy in Bell's palsy (facial paralysis).

DRY HANDS ON WET DAYS

B. V. writes: My hands perspire excessively but on rainy days they are dry. Could weather be responsible for moist hands?

REPLY

We know all too little about the relationship between the human body and the temperature, humidity, and barometric pressure. Your experience is contrary to the usual occurrence because most persons are more aware of sweating in humid weather, which decreases the rate of evaporation of perspiration from the skin.

TENDER SHINS

R. T. writes: What causes tenderness of the shin bone? I do not recall any bump or bruise.

REPLY

Spontaneous bone hemorrhage, neuritis, and bone infections are possibilities. Occasionally injury was so trivial as to be overlooked. Generalized aching also occurs during infections such as influenza. Now and then athletes develop shin splints after running on hard surfaces.

BRITTLE BONES

Mrs. W. writes: Can any medicine be given to help a child with blue sclera and brittle bones? She has had eight fractures so far.

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. This disturbance, osteogenesis imperfecta, is baffling and so far no cause or preventive measure has been determined.

HIGH TENSION

J. U. writes: Have you ever heard of emotional hypertension?

REPLY

Yes. Sustained emotional upsets can raise the blood pressure. Many of these individuals are in a constant anxiety state.

A NEW GROWTH

R. P. writes: Is a neoplastic growth the same as cancer?

REPLY

No. Any new growth is a neoplasm but only the malignant varities are cancerous.

Wilson Spoke Too Soon About Draft Cut; McCarthy Has Another 'Psycho' On His Staff; Holmes To Be Ambassador To Egypt

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Wilson's abrupt and unexpected promise to cut the monthly draft call from 23,000 to 15,000 after a Korean truce left his manpower experts tearing their hair in desperation. It also forced House Armed Services Chairman Dewey Short of Missouri to come out a few days later in effect denying Wilson's statement.

Inside fact is that Wilson didn't consult with his manpower experts before he held out false hope to the nation's draft-age young men. Because his experts say there just isn't going to be any great draft reduction.

Wilson's promise not only would leave the Armed Services under strength, they point out, but would also slow down voluntary enlistments. It is no secret that many men have been enlisting to beat the draft; so without the draft boards breathing down their necks, enlistments would be sure to fall off. This would leave the Armed Forces all the more short of men.

The manpower experts still hope to reduce the draft somewhat after the truce by cutting out rotation, but so many men will be leaving the service this year that there are no prospects of easing the draft for another 10 to 12 months.

Meanwhile, the Air Force is so short of money that it can't afford to take in the 9,600 ROTC graduates who are supposed to go on active duty this year. Under an agreement with Selective Service, these men were exempted from the draft on the condition that they would serve two years active duty after graduation.

However, the Air Force budget is so tight that it cannot afford 9,600 brand new second lieutenants without releasing 8,000 highly specialized reserve officers. The ROTC graduates cannot match the skills of the reservists. As a result, the Air Force has warned Secretary of Defense Wilson privately that the move would seriously cripple the Air Force's combat capabilities.

McCarthy's Unusual Staff

Senators are wise-cracking in Capitol cloakrooms that Senator McCarthy's staff would be a good place for a budding young psychiatrist. For it now develops that the Senator from Wisconsin has two staff members who have officially established neuroses.

When Cohn and Schine, the famed "Keystone Cops," galloped through Europe last winter winning headlines and bringing unfavorable criticism at every stop, many people thought their operations were a bit unusual. But now it's not only been established that Schine was deferred from the draft partly because he had a "schizoid personality," but another McCarthy staff member, Daniel Gerard Buckley, also has troubles of this nature.

Buckley, according to a report prepared for Senator Gillette of Iowa, got a certificate of disability from the Air Force for psychoneurosis. He reported sick 100 to 120 times during only 22 months in the Air Force and is now drawing disability pay because of the psychoneurosis.

The report was prepared by John P. Moore, chief counsel of the Senate Elections Subcommittee when Senator Gillette was chairman. It reads in part:

"Mr. Buckley was discharged from the Army Air Force on May 6, 1944. Certificate of disability discharge (honorable) for psychoneurosis, mixed type. Since then he has received compensation based upon a 30 per cent rating for a psychoneurosis. The last routine examination of the Veterans Administration was made on March 4, 1949, and based upon the diagnosis, the compensation rating was continued.

"While in the Army, from July 13, 1942, to May 6, 1944, Mr. Buckley was hospitalized six times for periods ranging from seven to twenty-seven days and, in addition, reported sick one hundred to one hundred and twenty times."

Buckley was dropped by the Gillette Committee on Dec. 8, 1951, and a few days later his record of phone calls shows that he put in one call to commentator Fulton Lewis, and four calls to Miss Jean Kerr, McCarthy's secretary. He then proceeded on Dec. 27 to issue a press release blasting the manner in which the Gillette Committee was handling its probe.

Later McCarthy hired him.

Tankers And Ambassadors

Brig Gen. Julius Holmes, political adviser to Eisenhower during the North African invasion and now U. S. Minister to London, will soon get promoted to be U. S. Ambassador to Egypt—though the appointment is not expected to be announced until after Congress adjourns. There's a good reason for the delay.

Holmes has been an able diplomat in London, also is not hurt by the fact that he married the daughter of kindly Ex-Gov. Henry Allen, once a power in Kansas Republican politics.

But there is one chapter in his career which Republican leaders don't want raked up in Senate debate. Holmes was a partner with ex-Congressman Joe Casey of Massachusetts in the now famous surplus tanker deal which netted tremendous profits for little investment. Casey, a Democrat, was excoriated in the press for his part in the tanker deal, but General Holmes, a Republican, got off with scarcely a mention.

Now Republicans fear that the Democrats may turn the tables and do to Holmes what they did to Casey when his name comes up for confirmation. That's the reason his appointment as Ambassador to Egypt is to be held up until after Congress adjourns.

Capitol Capers

Maryland's genial Sen. Glenn Beall is trying to ram a bill through Congress that would virtually force Washington auto owners to take out insurance. His bill would require owners, in case of an accident, to produce their auto insurance or post security for the damages out of their own pockets. The

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 28 (INS)—Are you a neurotic? If so, there are plans afoot to do something about you. Neurotics Anonymous, Inc., formed (it says here) to help the nation's 9,000,000 neurotics, will hold its first annual convention in Pittsburgh next Sunday at the hotel named for William Penn, who was not one.

Every member of the board of directors of Neurotics Anonymous, Inc., was one himself or herself, but shook it off. The founder of the non-profit organization, Dr. Perry D. Cook of Meadville, Pa., forwards some alarming statistics. Says that about 250,000 new patients are admitted to mental institutions each year, including 100,000 repeaters. Something must be done says the doctor. And beginning Sunday he'll try.

We wish "N. A." a lot of luck. It starts with one thing in its favor; a large potential membership. Millions will join, just to get in a club. And most of them will be eligible.

Once upon a time there was a fine school of liberal arts named Assumption College, of Worcester, Mass. There still is, actually, but largely in name only. Nature, in her most violent mood, disfigured the face of Assumption College until it is hardly recognizable. Only the heartbeat and the undefinable culture remain.

Last June 9 shortly before 5 p. m. the first tornado New England had had in 78 years chose the fine little college as its victim. In exactly 90 seconds, the patient work of a half a century was undone. Ten of 12 school buildings were demolished. One professor estimated that the old place had been struck with the equivalent of 17 atomic bombs.

President Eisenhower declared the surrounding area a national disaster zone. But Assumption College was not eligible for federal funds, though it had suffered destruction amounting to about four and a half million dollars, none of it covered by insurance. Some of the school's library books were found 25 miles from the catastrophe, so overpowering was the blast.

The job of rebuilding the school goes on, partially through the 'round-the-clock labors of a remarkable alumnus named Leopold Braun, the priest who was sent to Moscow in 1934 to serve at the Church of St. Louis, built by Catherine II in 1789 on what became the most dreaded street in the world—Malaya Lubianka. This was the street where Lavrenti Beria made his headquarters, and where his 12 cylinder bullet-proof Packard was the only car permitted to park.

Fr. Braun, a rugged looking man bereft of hair, is distressed these days not only with the task of raising funds to rebuild Assumption, but by the tone of the news stories that come out of Moscow and are printed here as the truth. He feels newspapers should remind their readers from time to time that all stories leaving Moscow must in some way reflect credit upon the Soviet Union or the mob that rules it, else the stories would be killed.

"Amid all the airy nothingness and false promises that come out o' Moscow, it should be recalled to us every now and then that all we can expect of Malenkov is more o' the same," he said. "And people ought to be informed periodically about the activities of the MVD and the even more sinister MGB, the counter-revolutionary punitive force that has the power to arrest entire villages suspected of harboring friends of liberation—and also has the means to destroy those villages.

"People ought to be told, too, that the Russian people are basically God-loving even after all these years of atheistic tyranny, but they have little hope of throwing off the Communist yoke at this time. You can't get a license to hunt a squirrel in Russia unless you are a member of the Communist elite. It is next to impossible to get a gun. It is a crime to own even a child's printing press, for words are weapons. More than 100 powerful radio stations are employed not to broadcast but just to jam the broadcasts of the west. Let these things be touched upon from time to time, lest we begin to believe some of the rosy stories sent to us from Moscow."

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Some of the observers here who are intimate with the White House staff and who write about things presidential and things political have recently fostered the notion of a dual personality in the White House — the "real Eisenhower" and, presumably, the "unreal Eisenhower." The theory is that often what is done by President Eisenhower is based on the doctrine of what's good politically and is not what he would do instinctively if politics were no consideration.

One can imagine the feelings of Eisenhower, the soldier, and Eisenhower, the newly indoctrinated politician, as he ordered the truce in Korea to be signed. As a soldier, he knows it's wrong — that it's a military defeat and that victory could have been won by destroying enemy bases and sources of supply from the air with a minimum loss of life. As a soldier, he knows that, since the enemy didn't get scared by NATO and the proposed European defense army right at its threshold in Europe, Soviet Russia wouldn't have involved itself in a third world war just to help out the Communist Chinese. As a soldier, he knows that the UN didn't "repel aggression," because the Communists in North Korea now have 1,000,000 Chinese soldiers there and they didn't have them in June 1950 when the "aggression" started.

Achieved Promise

As a soldier, moreover, General Eisenhower knows the difference between an armistice wherein you dictate terms of peace to the enemy, and a stalemate truce. For, when you are the victor, you and your own allies agree on the terms and then you call in the delegates from the enemy and tell them to sign on the dotted line. America did that in World War II and in World War I, and in every international war in which we have participated in more than 100 years of our history — a glorious military record.

But, as a politician, President Eisenhower made the "peace in Korea" which he promised on the political stump last year. As a politician, he — and his party — can crow about it and contend that the Democrats who palavered with the Communists in conferences for more than a year and a half failed to do what the Republicans did. Actually President Eisenhower agreed to most of the terms previously agreed to by President Truman. If this is a political victory for Mr. Eisenhower, it is also a vindication of President Truman, who was really the first to propose that our forces stop the fighting in and around the 38th Parallel and abandon the idea of a military victory.

As a politician, however, Mr. Eisenhower's troubles are just beginning. For the logic of what has happened in Korea is as plain as anything ever was in politics. To get the troops out of Asia brings a sigh of relief, but anybody who thinks the American voter in the last election was just concerned about Korea as a piece of geography has overlooked something. Back of the Korean issue, as anyone familiar with politics in past campaigns must concede, was the draft. The same politics which says, 'Get the boys home from Korea,' also commands the administration now to "Get the boys home from Europe, too." But the draft calls will go on. Or will President Eisenhower now advocate repeal of the draft law? As a soldier, he would say "no." As a politician, he may be tempted to say "yes."

Politically the Korean truce will plague Dwight Eisenhower for the remainder of his term. The Democrats are quiescent now but they will be vocal as the conference of UN delegates gradually demonstartes the hollowness of the claim that Korea was a "victory for collective security." In Asia, the white man has lost face — he has been beaten. He started toward the Yalu and then quit. To claim now that he meant only "to repel aggression at the 38th Parallel" is to say he has no business occupying the 2,300 square miles he at present holds north of the 38th Parallel — for, since he crossed the Parallel, why didn't he get all of the territory to the north?

Bradley Was Right

It was politics, just politics, that caused the Eisenhower administration to sign the truce in Korea. Last March General Bradley, in a speech at Palm Beach, let the cat out of the bag. He told of the plan to quit Korea. This correspondent criticized that address and was told by high officials that, while the speech had been "cleared" in a technical sense, it didn't represent administration policy. But Bradley, who is a golf pal of the President and accompanied him to Korea last December, knew whereof he spoke, and this correspondent publicly regrets that he misinterpreted what was at that time plainly a piece of big news — the decision of General Eisenhower to follow the Truman policy in Korea.

But, just as General Bradley once said, an enlarged war in Korea would be "the wrong war, at the wrong time and in the wrong place," so will the political forums of tomorrow soon be hearing the refrain that the armistice in Korea was "the wrong truce, at the wrong time and in the wrong place."

It would be well to wait till the congressional elections of 1954 — when the political orators let loose again — to determine just how much of a political boost the Republican party has gotten out of the Truman-Eisenhower truce in Korea.

These Days

States Rights In Russia

From the material coming out of Russia, it would seem that the schism between Beria and the orthodox Stalinists was over the question of states rights. Russia is a federation of nations, most of which have histories, traditions, customs, and languages of their own.

Such peoples as the Ukranians and Georgians have on many occasions exhibited separatist tendencies. Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and the areas of Finland taken during the general World War II period have been absorbed but not assimilated by Russia. The newer provinces, East Germany, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Chechoslovakia, still regard themselves as sovereign nations associated with Soviet Russia by Marxist ties and treaties.

Realized Dangers

Beria, as head of the secret police, with tentacles down to the grass roots of each area, must have realized the danger inherent in centralization within an empire. Or, he may have selected this issue to test his strength against the other members of the Troika. At any rate, he advocated a greater degree of states rights, of local autonomy, of slowing down the Russification of non-Russian areas.

Against his arguments was raised the orthodox credo of Marxism that the proletariat is universal, that it rejects nationalism as an evil device of the capitalists to suppress the workers, that the object of the Bolshevik Revolution was to produce a "One World" concept with the Kremlin at its heart. The Communist Manifesto proclaimed: "Workers of the world unite!" Stalin added to the slogan the concept of Russia as the fatherland of the revolution and the Kremlin as its citadel.

"Izvestia" stated the case against Beria in this orthodox language:

"V. I. Lenin and J. V. Stalin provided a profound Marxist approach to the national problem, establishing the theory underlying the Communist Party's national policy and arming the Party with the program on the national question. Carrying out this program, the Communist Party rallied the proletarians of Russia's many nationalities, headed by the Russian working class, under the banner of the Socialist Revolution, and led them in the storming of the landowners' and capitalists' regime."

Further, it said:

"National oppression and colonial enslavement, chauvinism and national enmity, fanned by the ruling classes for the purpose of disuniting and further plundering oppressed nations, are characteristic of the bourgeois state. National contradictions in the bourgeois countries are becoming more and more aggravated, the national liberation struggle of the peoples of the colonial and dependent countries is growing and spreading, and the disintegration of imperialism's colonial system continues.

Fraternal Support

"The indissoluble friendship of peoples and their fraternal cooperation and mutual assistance, which are developing in the U.S.S.R. under the banner of proletarian internationalism, are among the greatest achievements of the Communist Party and Soviet state, a source of the might and invincibility of our socialist motherland. In the friendly family of Soviet peoples the formerly oppressed nations have achieved an unprecedented political, economic and cultural flowering, thanks to the fraternal support and assistance of the great Russian people."

This then was the issue and over it Beria surely lost his status and probably his life. A man of extensive political experience, he would not have risked everything on this national question, as they call it, were it not that his worldwide espinage organization reported over prolonged periods and over a vast expanse that non-Russian peoples were finding the Kremlin oppressive and that nationalism as normal to mankind as breath itself, was reasserting itself with marked acceleration.

Appeasement vs Liberation

It was apparently a question of political timing and perhaps an undue regard for the sincerity of the American "liberation policy," which Beria must have assumed would be implemented once revolutionary movements asserted themselves in such areas as Czechoslovakia and East Germany. In this he erred because the United States had already, without notification, abandoned the "liberation policy," and had adopted a modification of Winston Churchill's policy of appeasement. Apparently Beria's penetration into the State Department is not as effective today as it was when Alger Hiss was its genius.

So Beria was liquidated and the orthodox Stalinists are in command. Nevertheless, the incident and its discussion in the Russian press and the explanations offered the peoples of the Soviet Union open to us a view of the essential weakness of this empire which is that the process of assimilation, constant since 1917 and until his death the special charge of Stalin, has not succeeded in destroying nationalism among federated and absorbed peoples.

Trojan Food

American attempt to get food to East Germany, and Russian efforts to prevent this, continue to tell a plain story to Germany and the world. Russian propaganda harps on the theme that the gifts are "fascist provocation," a "political device," "illegal and inadmissable." But if all this were true, it would be a hopeless task to make people believe it.

In East Germany, as everywhere behind the iron curtain, living standards have fallen sharply. East Germany formerly was a food-surplus area, supplying food for all Germany. Now its people do not get enough to eat. And a hungry person would rather have free food than slave propaganda.

The Russians, who are exceedingly clumsy when they are caught off balance, have been helping to put over the impression the U. S. is trying to create by their angry opposition. They insist that nobody in their zone is unemployed or hungry, but offer no explanation of why East Germans show such eagerness to get $1.20 worth of food free at the inconvenience of traveling to West Berlin and standing in line.

As soon as distribution of free food in West Berlin to East Berliners was started, forged food coupons were being circulated in large numbers. The forgery was so clever and was produced so quickly that it was obviously done by some public agency in the Soviet Zone.

The people of East Germany will hear about this. They are also hearing that large food shipments are on the way, and that other ways of getting it to needy persons in the Soviet Zone are being worked out. Meanwhile they are being warned by the Communists to refuse the "Greek gift" from the West.

The Reds formerly boasted of their own Trojan horse tactics. But they don't like it when the other side uses Trojan horses, especially edible ones.

There's Still Hope

Engineers are experimenting with an electronically controlled automobile that would steer itself along a prescribed route, stop itself upon aproaching a metal obstacle and turn out of its lane to pass a slower vehicle.

The gimmick in this dream is that autos would operate on specially constructed highways underlaid with electric cables making contact with the electronic gadgets in the cars. Thus motorists of tomorrow may be able to watch television, if their tastes run in that direction, play the futuramic version of bridge or otherwise keep themselves amused. The one thing they would not have to do is drive.

Therein may lie the key to the survival of the human race. If automobiles can be contrived to operate themselves, civilization as we know it still has a chance. Ever since the first electrics pointed their spindly wheels down the Main Streets of America more than 50 years ago, man has been hard pressed to control the successive automative marvels placed in his charge.

That he has never succeeded in mastering them is apparent in the nation's appalling record of traffic fatalities.

The one improvement the best automotive engineering brains haven't deveoped to date is complete elimination of the human element in driving. It is encouraging to learn that they are working on this problem.

Curbing A Killer

As far back as historical and other records of man's existence go, tuberculosis has been one of the leading killers. Modern progress in preventing and treating this disease has been excellent, but much remains to be done. Great encouragement is to be derived, therefore, from an announcement from Geneva of a 50 per cent drop in deaths from tuberculosis.

The 50 per cent figure is for the period between 1938 and 1950 in 21 countries with a population of 404,000,000. This is only 17 per cent of the world's population. Nevertheless, a sample of more than 400,000,000 persons is considered representative. The 50 per cent drop in deaths is characterized as "one of the most sensational developments ever recorded in the field of public health." Reduction of 47 per cent was recorded for the United States.

No single cause for this achievement is assigned. The decline was greatest in countries in which energetic efforts to detect and treat tuberculosis in its first stage are made. Public education and understanding, as well as medical facilities, are vital.

Lowering High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is not a simple condition. There are many causes, varying from excitement to kidney disease. The abnormality also has a variable effect upon different people; it attacks some early in life whereas others are not bothered until they have lived beyond the normal life expectancy. Some need medicine, but others do not and, so far as medication goes, there is no single remedy that lowers the level in all hypertensives.

At present, apresoline and hexamethonium are the most talked of drugs in this field. Both are potent and, unless used properly, treatment may be worse than the disease. I am not trying to be derogatory because the products are capable of lowering blood pressure. But the person must be impressed with the need for consulting those who have had experience in the use of these remedies.

Hexamethonium is the stronger of the two. It has been prescribed by many authorities thruout the country and one of the latest reports comes from a group at Baylor university, Houston, Tex. They tried it in 58 patients suffering from severe high blood pressure. After studying these individuals for four to 16 months, the physicians concluded that hexamethonium was effective, as all but 11 responded with a significant reduction in blood pressure. The same objectionable side reactions found by others were noted and were morelikely to occur when the dosage of the drug was built up too rapidly. Caution is necessary because after hexamethonium is administered, lowering of the reading is most noticeable in the standing rather than the supine position. Unless this is known, the victim becomesdizzy and may faint on arising. The most beneficial effects occurred in those with associated angina pectoris and headaches. In 18 of the most stubborn cases, a combination of hexamethonium and apresoline was used and there was a good response in 11.

Apresoline has been employed more extensively and many reports indicate that it is capable of reducing hypertension in its own right. The response varies, depending upon the height of the blood pressure, the duration of hypertension, and the age of the patient. In a group reported from the Cleveland clinic, 57 of 97 patients were helped; in one-fourth of the entire series the diastolic pressure fell to normal. Regardless of the remedy utilized, many complained of weakness, lassitude, and mild depression when the blood pressure began to drop. These symptoms usaully disappeared when the body adjusted to the change.

Remedies of this type are not the final answer to the problem of hypertension. They do not cure and, when discontinued, tension returns to its former level. They act as adjuncts to other measures that decrease blood pressure in a more natural fashion. By this we mean that the drugs cannot be expected to nullify the more basic causes of high blood pressure such as stress of living, anxiety, and too many responsibilities.

DRY HANDS ON WET DAYS

B. V. writes: My hands perspire excessively but on rainy days they are dry. Could weather be responsible for moist hands?

REPLY

We know all too little about the relationship between the human body and the temperature, humidity, and barometric pressure. Your experience is contrary to the usual occurrence because most persons are more aware of sweating in humid weather, which decreases the rate of evaporation of perspiration from the skin.

TENDER SHINS

R. T. writes: What causes tenderness of the shin bone? I do not recall any bump or bruise.

REPLY

Spontaneous bone hemorrhage, neuritis, and bone infections are possibilities. Occasionally injury was so trivial as to be overlooked. Generalized aching also occurs during infections such as influenza. Now and then athletes develop shin splints after running on hard surfaces.

BRITTLE BONES

Mrs. W. writes: Can any medicine be given to help a child with blue sclera and brittle bones? She has had eight fractures so far.

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. This disturbance, osteogenesis imperfecta, is baffling and so far no cause or preventive measure has been determined.

HIGH TENSION

J. U. writes: Have you ever heard of emotional hypertension?

REPLY

Yes. Sustained emotional upsets can raise the blood pressure. Many of these individuals are in a constant anxiety state.

A NEW GROWTH

R. P. writes: Is a neoplastic growth the same as cancer?

REPLY

No. Any new growth is a neoplasm but only the malignant varities are cancerous.

Wilson Spoke Too Soon About Draft Cut; McCarthy Has Another 'Psycho' On His Staff; Holmes To Be Ambassador To Egypt

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Wilson's abrupt and unexpected promise to cut the monthly draft call from 23,000 to 15,000 after a Korean truce left his manpower experts tearing their hair in desperation. It also forced House Armed Services Chairman Dewey Short of Missouri to come out a few days later in effect denying Wilson's statement.

Inside fact is that Wilson didn't consult with his manpower experts before he held out false hope to the nation's draft-age young men. Because his experts say there just isn't going to be any great draft reduction.

Wilson's promise not only would leave the Armed Services under strength, they point out, but would also slow down voluntary enlistments. It is no secret that many men have been enlisting to beat the draft; so without the draft boards breathing down their necks, enlistments would be sure to fall off. This would leave the Armed Forces all the more short of men.

The manpower experts still hope to reduce the draft somewhat after the truce by cutting out rotation, but so many men will be leaving the service this year that there are no prospects of easing the draft for another 10 to 12 months.

Meanwhile, the Air Force is so short of money that it can't afford to take in the 9,600 ROTC graduates who are supposed to go on active duty this year. Under an agreement with Selective Service, these men were exempted from the draft on the condition that they would serve two years active duty after graduation.

However, the Air Force budget is so tight that it cannot afford 9,600 brand new second lieutenants without releasing 8,000 highly specialized reserve officers. The ROTC graduates cannot match the skills of the reservists. As a result, the Air Force has warned Secretary of Defense Wilson privately that the move would seriously cripple the Air Force's combat capabilities.

McCarthy's Unusual Staff

Senators are wise-cracking in Capitol cloakrooms that Senator McCarthy's staff would be a good place for a budding young psychiatrist. For it now develops that the Senator from Wisconsin has two staff members who have officially established neuroses.

When Cohn and Schine, the famed "Keystone Cops," galloped through Europe last winter winning headlines and bringing unfavorable criticism at every stop, many people thought their operations were a bit unusual. But now it's not only been established that Schine was deferred from the draft partly because he had a "schizoid personality," but another McCarthy staff member, Daniel Gerard Buckley, also has troubles of this nature.

Buckley, according to a report prepared for Senator Gillette of Iowa, got a certificate of disability from the Air Force for psychoneurosis. He reported sick 100 to 120 times during only 22 months in the Air Force and is now drawing disability pay because of the psychoneurosis.

The report was prepared by John P. Moore, chief counsel of the Senate Elections Subcommittee when Senator Gillette was chairman. It reads in part:

"Mr. Buckley was discharged from the Army Air Force on May 6, 1944. Certificate of disability discharge (honorable) for psychoneurosis, mixed type. Since then he has received compensation based upon a 30 per cent rating for a psychoneurosis. The last routine examination of the Veterans Administration was made on March 4, 1949, and based upon the diagnosis, the compensation rating was continued.

"While in the Army, from July 13, 1942, to May 6, 1944, Mr. Buckley was hospitalized six times for periods ranging from seven to twenty-seven days and, in addition, reported sick one hundred to one hundred and twenty times."

Buckley was dropped by the Gillette Committee on Dec. 8, 1951, and a few days later his record of phone calls shows that he put in one call to commentator Fulton Lewis, and four calls to Miss Jean Kerr, McCarthy's secretary. He then proceeded on Dec. 27 to issue a press release blasting the manner in which the Gillette Committee was handling its probe.

Later McCarthy hired him.

Tankers And Ambassadors

Brig Gen. Julius Holmes, political adviser to Eisenhower during the North African invasion and now U. S. Minister to London, will soon get promoted to be U. S. Ambassador to Egypt—though the appointment is not expected to be announced until after Congress adjourns. There's a good reason for the delay.

Holmes has been an able diplomat in London, also is not hurt by the fact that he married the daughter of kindly Ex-Gov. Henry Allen, once a power in Kansas Republican politics.

But there is one chapter in his career which Republican leaders don't want raked up in Senate debate. Holmes was a partner with ex-Congressman Joe Casey of Massachusetts in the now famous surplus tanker deal which netted tremendous profits for little investment. Casey, a Democrat, was excoriated in the press for his part in the tanker deal, but General Holmes, a Republican, got off with scarcely a mention.

Now Republicans fear that the Democrats may turn the tables and do to Holmes what they did to Casey when his name comes up for confirmation. That's the reason his appointment as Ambassador to Egypt is to be held up until after Congress adjourns.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 28 (INS)—Are you a neurotic? If so, there are plans afoot to do something about you. Neurotics Anonymous, Inc., formed (it says here) to help the nation's 9,000,000 neurotics, will hold its first annual convention in Pittsburgh next Sunday at the hotel named for William Penn, who was not one.

Every member of the board of directors of Neurotics Anonymous, Inc., was one himself or herself, but shook it off. The founder of the non-profit organization, Dr. Perry D. Cook of Meadville, Pa., forwards some alarming statistics. Says that about 250,000 new patients are admitted to mental institutions each year, including 100,000 repeaters. Something must be done says the doctor. And beginning Sunday he'll try.

We wish "N. A." a lot of luck. It starts with one thing in its favor: a large potential membership. Millions will join, just to get in a club. And most of them will be eligible.

Once upon a time there was a fine school of liberal arts named Assumption College, of Worcester, Mass. There still is, actually, but largely in name only. Nature, in her most violent mood, disfigured the face of Assumption College until it is hardly recognizable. Only the heartbeat and the undefinable culture remain.

Last June 9 shortly before 5 p. m. the first tornado New England had had in 78 years chose the fine little college as its victim. In exactly 90 seconds, the patient work of a half a century was undone. Ten of 12 school buildings were demolished. One professor estimated that the old place had been struck with the equivalent of 17 atomic bombs.

President Eisenhower declared the surrounding area a national disaster zone. But Assumption College was not eligible for federal funds, though it had suffered destruction amounting to about four and a half million dollars, none of it covered by insurance. Some of the school's library books were found 25 miles from the catastrophe, so overpowering was the blast.

The job of rebuilding the school goes on, partially through the 'round-the-clock labors of a remarkable alumnus named Leopold Braun, the priest who was sent to Moscow in 1934 to serve at the Church of St. Louis, built by Catherine II in 1789 on what became the most dreaded street in the world—Malaya Lubianka. This was the street where Lavrenti Beria made his headquarters, and where his 12 cylinder bullet-proof Packard was the only car permitted to park.

Fr. Braun, a rugged looking man bereft of hair, is distressed these days not only with the task of raising funds to rebuild Assumption, but by the tone of the news stories that come out of Moscow and are printed here as the truth. He feels newspapers should remind their readers from time to time that all stories leaving Moscow must in some way reflect credit upon the Soviet Union or the mob that rules it, else the stories would be killed.

"Amid all the airy nothingness and false promises that come out of Moscow, it should be recalled to us every now and then that all we can expect of Malenkov is more of the same," he said. "And people ought to be informed periodically about the activities of the MVD and the even more sinister MGB, the counter-revolutionary punitive force that has the power to arrest entire villages suspected of harboring friends of liberation—and also has the means to destroy those villages.

"People ought to be told, too, that the Russian people are basically God-loving even after all these years of atheistic tyranny, but they have little hope of throwing off the Communist yoke at this time. You can't get a license to hunt a squirrel in Russia unless you are a member of the Communist elite. It is next to impossible to get a gun. It is a crime to own even a child's printing press, for words are weapons. More than 100 powerful radio stations are employed not to broadcast but just to jam the broadcasts of the west. Let these things be touched upon from time to time, lest we begin to believe some of the rosy stories sent to us from Moscow."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Some of the observers here who are intimate with the White House staff and who write about things presidential and things political have recently fostered the notion of a dual personality in the White House — the "real Eisenhower" and, presumably, the "unreal Eisenhower." The theory is that often what is done by President Eisenhower is based on the doctrine of what's good politically and is not what he would do instinctively if politics were no consideration.

One can imagine the feelings of Eisenhower, the soldier, and Eisenhower, the newly indoctrinated politician, as he ordered the truce in Korea to be signed. As a soldier, he knows it's wrong — that it's a military defeat and that victory could have been won by destroying enemy bases and sources of supply from the air with a minimum loss of life. As a soldier, he knows that, since the enemy didn't get scared by NATO and the proposed European defense army right at its threshold in Europe, Soviet Russia wouldn't have involved itself in a third world war just to help out the Communist Chinese. As a soldier, he knows that the UN didn't "repel aggression," because the Communists in North Korea now have 1,000,000 Chinese soldiers there and they didn't have them in June 1950 when the "aggression" started.

Achieved Promise

As a soldier, moreover, General Eisenhower knows the difference between an armistice wherein you dictate terms of peace to the enemy, and a stalemate truce. For, when you are the victor, you and your own allies agree on the terms and then you call in the delegates from the enemy and tell them to sign on the dotted line. America did that in World War II and in World War I, and in every international war in which we have participated in more than 100 years of our history — a glorious military record.

But, as a politician, President Eisenhower made the "peace in Korea" which he promised on the political stump last year. As a politician, he — and his party — can crow about it and contend that the Democrats who palavered with the Communists in conferences for more than a year and a half failed to do what the Republicans did. Actually President Eisenhower agreed to most of the terms previously agreed to by President Truman. If this is a political victory for Mr. Eisenhower, it is also a vindication of President Truman, who was really the first to propose that our forces stop the fighting in and around the 38th Parallel and abandon the idea of a military victory.

As a politician, however, Mr. Eisenhower's troubles are just beginning. For the logic of what has happened in Korea is as plain as anything ever was in politics. To get the troops out of Asia brings a sigh of relief, but anybody who thinks the American voter in the last election was just concerned about Korea as a piece of geography has overlooked something. Back of the Korean issue, as anyone familiar with politics in past campaigns must concede, was the draft. The same politics which says, 'Get the boys home from Korea," also commands the administration now to "Get the boys home from Europe, too." But the draft calls will go on. Or will President Eisenhower now advocate repeal of the draft law? As a soldier, he would say "no." As a politician, he may be tempted to say "yes."

Politically the Korean truce will plague Dwight Eisenhower for the remainder of his term. The Democrats are quiescent now but they will be vocal as the conference of UN delegates gradually demonstartes the hollowness of the claim that Korea was a "victory for collective security." In Asia, the white man has lost face — he has been beaten. He started toward the Yalu and then quit. To claim now that he meant only "to repel aggression at the 38th Parallel" is to say he has no business occupying the 2,300 square miles he at present holds north of the 38th Parallel — for, since he crossed the Parallel, why didn't he get all of the territory to the north?

Bradley Was Right

It was politics, just politics, that caused the Eisenhower administration to sign the truce in Korea. Last March General Bradley, in a speech at Palm Beach, let the cat out of the bag. He told of the plan to quit Korea. This correspondent criticized that address and was told by high officials that, while the speech had been "cleared" in a technical sense, it didn't represent administration policy. But Bradley, who is a golf pal of the President and accompanied him to Korea last December, knew whereof he spoke, and this correspondent publicly regrets that he misinterpreted what was at that time plainly a piece of big news — the decision of General Eisenhower to follow the Truman policy in Korea.

But, just as General Bradley once said, an enlarged war in Korea would be "the wrong war, at the wrong time and in the wrong place," so will the political forums of tomorrow soon be hearing the refrain that the armistice in Korea was "the wrong truce, at the wrong time and in the wrong place."

It would be well to wait till the congressional elections of 1954 — when the political orators let loose again — to determine just how much of a political boost the Republican party has gotten out of the Truman-Eisenhower truce in Korea.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

States Rights In Russia

From the material coming out of Russia, it would seem that the schism between Beria and the orthodox Stalinists was over the question of states rights. Russia is a federation of nations, most of which have histories, traditions, customs, and languages of their own.

Such peoples as the Ukranians and Georgians have on many occasions exhibited separatist tendencies. Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and the areas of Finland taken during the general World War II period have been absorbed but not assimilated by Russia. The newer provinces, East Germany, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Chechoslovakia, still regard themselves as sovereign nations associated with Soviet Russia by Marxist ties and treaties.

Realized Dangers

Beria, as head of the secret police, with tentacles down to the grass roots of each area, must have realized the danger inherent in centralization within an empire. Or, he may have selected this issue to test his strength against the other members of the Troika. At any rate, he advocated a greater degree of states rights, of local autonomy, of slowing down the Russification of non-Russian areas.

Against his arguments was raised the orthodox credo of Marxism that the proletariat is universal, that it rejects nationalism as an evil device of the capitalists to suppress the workers, that the object of the Bolshevik Revolution was to produce a "One World" concept with the Kremlin at its heart. The Communist Manifesto proclaimed: "Workers of the world unite!" Stalin added to the slogan the concept of Russia as the fatherland of the revolution and the Kremlin as its citadel.

"Izvestia" stated the case against Beria in this orthodox language:

"V. I. Lenin and J. V. Stalin provided a profound Marxist approach to the national problem, establishing the theory underlying the Communist Party's national policy and arming the Party with the program on the national question. Carrying out this program, the Communist Party rallied the proletarians of Russia's many nationalities, headed by the Russian working class, under the banner of the Socialist Revolution, and led them in the storming of the landowners' and capitalists' regime."

Further, it said:

"National oppression and colonial enslavement, chauvinism and national enmity, fanned by the ruling classes for the purpose of disuniting and further plundering oppressed nations, are characteristic of the bourgeois state. National contradictions in the bourgeois countries are becoming more and more aggravated, the national liberation struggle of the peoples of the colonial and dependent countries is growing and spreading, and the disintegration of imperialism's colonial system continues.

Fraternal Support

"The indissoluble friendship of peoples and their fraternal cooperation and mutual assistance, which are developing in the U.S.S.R. under the banner of proletarian internationalism, are among the greatest achievements of the Communist Party and Soviet state, a source of the might and invincibility of our socialist motherland. In the friendly family of Soviet peoples the formerly oppressed nations have achieved an unprecedented political, economic and cultural flowering, thanks to the fraternal support and assistance of the great Russian people."

This then was the issue and over it Beria surely lost his status and probably his life. A man of extensive political experience, he would not have risked everything on this national question, as they call it, were it not that his worldwide espinage organization reported over prolonged periods and over a vast expanse that non-Russian peoples were finding the Kremlin oppressive and that nationalism as normal to mankind as breath itself, was reasserting itself with marked acceleration.

Appeasement vs Liberation

It was apparently a question of political timing and perhaps an undue regard for the sincerity of the American "liberation policy," which Beria must have assumed would be implemented once revolutionary movements asserted themselves in such areas as Czechoslovakia and East Germany. In this he erred because the United States had already, without notification, abandoned the "liberation policy," and had adopted a modification of Winston Churchill's policy of appeasement. Apparently Beria's penetration into the State Department is not as effective today as it was when Alger Hiss was its genius.

So Beria was liquidated and the orthodox Stalinists are in command. Nevertheless, the incident and its discussion in the Russian press and the explanations offered the peoples of the Soviet Union open to us a view of the essential weakness of this empire which is that the process of assimililation, constant since 1917 and until his death the special charge of Stalin, has not succeeded in destroying nationalism among federated and absorbed peoples.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

A truce in Korea, as this is written, is reported to be only a matter of hours away, and all of us should be thinking about just what a truce will mean.

The first thing, and the reason we are so anxious to obtain a truce is that the actual fighting and shedding of blood will stop. Being a peaceful people we regret the tragedies of wars, even when we realize that there is no other alternative.

End of the fighting will be a blessing to the families who have sons in Korea and those who have sons about to enter the armed services.

Other results of the truce will probably be of more questionable value.

President Rhee, for very good reasons of his own, was opposed to a truce on the conditions originally suggested, but now that he has been given renewed assurances by President Eisenhower that this government will continue to work for the unification of Korea, this time by peaceful means, he has grudgingly given his consent.

Ready For War

The United States enters into the negotiations in complete sincerity and as Secretary of State Dulles said, "we are not suppliants. We are ready for honorable peace. But if the Communists want war we must be ready for that too."

In other words, the future of peace in Korea, and for that matter the rest of the world, is strictly in the hands of the Communists. Because of their past conduct, I am sure none of us are too confident that they will abide by the terms of the Korean truce.

Providing that there is no new outbreak of the war this government will be faced with a number of new problems in Asia immediately after the armistice is agreed to.

The entire future of Asia will be at stake, and the future of Asia is directly dependent upon the future of Europe, and primarily of Germany.

In other words, if the West should lose Germany to the Soviet zone of power, the Communists could use that country's tremendous industrial potential to promote its aims in Asia.

Germany Is Key

Without increased industrial capacity it is unlikely that the Communists could successfully wage a large campaign throughout Asia. But with the resources of Germany at her command, our position would be greatly weakened.

Among the other problems which will confront us is that of Red China. We may expect a move by some of our allies to ease the embargo and other restrictions against the present Chinese government.

Several of our allies have had extensive trade with China and other countries in the Orient, and their economy is severely affected. Japan too will most likely be looking toward the Chinese markets to find a place for its products.

Ticklish Position

This will put us in a ticklish position because we want to continue opposing Red China, yet at the same time we desire to see the economic prosperity of our friends and Japan.

To deny them the right of the Chinese markets might put us in a position where we would be forced to grant increased foreign aid under the Mutual Security Program—a program which the Congress desires to see ended as quickly as possible.

How well we Americans handle these difficult problems may well determine the security of the world, and while I am confident no one has all the answers at this time, we may be sure that the midnight oil in the State Department and the White House will be burning throughout the months to come.

Beall Informs City On Amendment's Fate

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall informed the Mayor and Council by letter Monday that the Senate upheld an amendment to a bill that would eliminate the necessity of channelling of defense projects into critical areas.

He stated he had received the Mayor and Council's telegram opposing passage of the amendment.

The senator added the amendment was adopted by the Armed Services Committee of the Senate and when the bill came before the Senate, a group, including him, moved to strike it out.

However, "we lost by a vote of 25 to 62 and although the bill is still before the Senate, it does not appear that we will be successful," the senator added.

The senator said he would continue his efforts to assist in bringing economic prosperity to the Cumberland area.

The Mayor and Council in other business have authorized Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long to advertise for bids for 1,200 feet of two and one-half inch fire hose and 300 feet of one and one-half inch fire hose.

The hose must pass the National Board of Fire Underwriters test of 400 pound static pressure and 175 pounds working pressure. It must come in 50 feet sections.

The trustees of the city's sinking funds reported at the end of the fiscal year on June 30 the fund was $2,619,267.11, of which $2,585,756.44 was in bonds.

The wild barrier islands of South Carolina's coast have a storm-warning system of their own. When marshmen hear a big bull alligator bellowing in August or September, long after the saurian mating season, they believe he is predicting a hurrican roaring up from the Caribbean.

Merry-Go-Round

same regulation, adopted in some states, has tripled the volume of auto insurance. Incidentally, Beall not only introduced the bill, but conducted the hearings on it all by himself. . . . Presidential Assistant Gabriel Tauge has dispatched a letter to Senate Banking Chairman Homer Capehart of Indiana, expressing "great interest" in his plan to give business firms broad new tax relief. What Capehart wants to do is grant a blanket, five-year tax write-off for all new business investment. This was supposed to be a wartime measure to stimulate defense production. Since it saved businessmen millions of dollars, Capehart thinks it's a good idea for peacetime, too. . . . Congressmen, who believe in economy for everyone else, are wasting thousands of dollars on unnecessary printing. Instead of printing up one bill with the names of all the sponsors, the House orders separate bills printed up with the name of one sponsor on each. For example, 15 Congressmen joined in sponsoring an amendment to the Social Security laws. So 15 identical bills were printed up. One bill with 15 names would have cost approximately $700. The cost for 15 separate bills, however, was more than $10,000. . . . Congressmen are peeved at President Eisenhower's chief Congressional Liaison man, Gen. Wilton "Slick" Persons, because he spends all his time on the Senate side. Congressmen feel Persons doesn't consider them important enough to bother with.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

A truce in Korea, as this is written, is reported to be only a matter of hours away, and all of us should be thinking about just what a truce will mean.

The first thing, and the reason we are so anxious to obtain a truce is that the actual fighting and shedding of blood will stop. Being a peaceful people we regret the tragedies of wars, even when we realize that there is no other alternative.

End of the fighting will be a blessing to the families who have sons in Korea and those who have sons about to enter the armed services.

Other results of the truce will probably be of more questionable value.

President Rhee, for very good reasons of his own, was opposed to a truce on the conditions originally suggested, but now that he has been given renewed assurances by President Eisenhower that this government will continue to work for the unification of Korea, this time by peaceful means, he has grudgingly given his consent.

Ready For War

The United States enters into the negotiations in complete sincerity and as Secretary of State Dulles said, "we are not suppliants. We are ready for honorable peace. But if the Communists want war we must be ready for that too."

In other words, the future of peace in Korea, and for that matter the rest of the world, is strictly in the hands of the Communists. Because of their past conduct, I am sure none of us are too confident that they will abide by the terms of the Korean truce.

Providing that there is no new outbreak of the war this government will be faced with a number of new problems in Asia immediately after the armistice is agreed to.

The entire future of Asia will be at stake, and the future of Asia is directly dependent upon the future of Europe, and primarily of Germany.

In other words, if the West should lose Germany to the Soviet zone of power, the Communists could use that country's tremendous industrial potential to promote its aims in Asia.

Germany Is Key

Without increased industrial capacity it is unlikely that the Communists could successfully wage a large campaign throughout Asia. But with the resources of Germany at her command, our position would be greatly weakened.

Among the other problems which will confront us is that of Red China. We may expect a move by some of our allies to ease the embargo and other restrictions against the present Chinese government.

Several of our allies have had extensive trade with China and other countries in the Orient, and their economy is severely affected. Japan too will most likely be looking toward the Chinese markets to find a place for its products.

Ticklish Position

This will put us in a ticklish position because we want to continue opposing Red China, yet at the same time we desire to see the economic prosperity of our friends and Japan.

To deny them the right of the Chinese markets might put us in a position where we would be forced to grant increased foreign aid under the Mutual Security Program—a program which the Congress desires to see ended as quickly as possible.

How well we Americans handle these difficult problems may well determine the security of the world, and while I am confident no one has all the answers at this time, we may be sure that the midnight oil in the State Department and the White House will be burning throughout the months to come.

Beall Informs City On Amendment's Fate

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall informed the Mayor and Council by letter Monday that the Senate upheld an amendment to a bill that would eliminate the necessity of channelling of defense projects into critical areas.

He stated he had received the Mayor and Council's telegram opposing passage of the amendment.

The senator added the amendment was adopted by the Armed Services Committee of the Senate and when the bill came before the Senate, a group, including him, moved to strike it out.

However, "we lost by a vote of 25 to 62 and although the bill is still before the Senate, it does not appear that we will be successful," the senator added.

The senator said he would continue his efforts to assist in bringing economic prosperity to the Cumberland area.

The Mayor and Council in other business have authorized Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long to advertise for bids for 1,200 feet of two and one-half inch fire hose and 300 feet of one and one-half inch fire hose.

The hose must pass the National Board of Fire Underwriters test of 400 pound static pressure and 175 pounds working pressure. It must come in 50 feet sections.

The trustees of the city's sinking funds reported at the end of the fiscal year on June 30 the fund was $2,619,267.11, of which $2,585,756.44 was in bonds.

The wild barrier islands of South Carolina's coast have a storm-warning system of their own. When marshmen hear a big bull alligator bellowing in August or September, long after the saurian mating season, they believe he is predicting a hurrican roaring up from the Caribbean.

Merry-Go-Round

same regulation, adopted in some states, has tripled the volume of auto insurance. Incidentally, Beall not only introduced the bill, but conducted the hearings on it all by himself. . . . Presidential Assistant Gabriel Tauge has dispatched a letter to Senate Banking Chairman Homer Capehart of Indiana, expressing "great interest" in his plan to give business firms broad new tax relief. What Capehart wants to do is grant a blanket, five-year tax write-off for all new business investment. This was supposed to be a wartime measure to stimulate defense production. Since it saved businessmen millions of dollars, Capehart thinks it's a good idea for peacetime, too. . . . Congressmen, who believe in economy for everyone else, are wasting thousands of dollars on unnecessary printing. Instead of printing up one bill with the names of all the sponsors, the House orders separate bills printed up with the name of one sponsor on each. For example, 15 Congressmen joined in sponsoring an amendment to the Social Security laws. So 15 identical bills were printed up. One bill with 15 names would have cost approximately $700. The cost for 15 separate bills, however, was more than $10,000. . . . Congressmen are peeved at President Eisenhower's chief Congressional Liaison man, Gen. Wilton "Slick" Persons, because he spends all his time on the Senate side. Congressmen feel Persons doesn't consider them important enough to bother with.

For fast, efficient dishwashing—with or without wiping— no washing powder can touch this new Lux Liquid Detergent. One canful will wash more dishes than several boxes of the most popular laundry powder. And thrifty Lux Liquid is almost as mild on your hands as Lux Toilet Soap.

Women tell us that washing dishes with new Lux Liquid Detergent makes even sticky pots and pans seem less of a chore.

This can in your kitchen is the next best thing to a dishwashing machine.

Just a few drops wash the dishes. One dishwashing will show you how little you have to use.

Now on top of being fast, thorough and thrifty, this new Lux Liquid Detergent is mild. It's almost as mild as Lux Toilet Soap—imagine that! Lux Liquid smells nice, too, and never makes you sneeze.

Naturally a living room is no place to stack dishes. But this specially posed photograph shows how dishes can get in the way of things you enjoy—and the number of dishes shown here is about the weekly average for a family of four. Dishwashing is a big job!

Packed in a can as it should be— with a dripless spout

Won't break like a bottle. Won't get soggy or take up room like a box. And the dripless spout keeps the liquid from dripping down the side of the can.

For fast, efficient dishwashing—with or without wiping— no washing powder can touch this new Lux Liquid Detergent. One canful will wash more dishes than several boxes of the most popular laundry powder. And thrifty Lux Liquid is almost as mild on your hands as Lux Toilet Soap.

Women tell us that washing dishes with new Lux Liquid Detergent makes even sticky pots and pans seem less of a chore.

This can in your kitchen is the next best thing to a dishwashing machine.

And no wonder! Lux Liquid is designed especially for dishwashing—not for doing Monday's wash. It gets the job done quickly because it soaks the dishes clean. Gets between the clinging grease and the dish. Dissolves the grease.

Just a few drops wash the dishes. One dishwashing will show you how little you have to use.

Now on top of being fast, thorough and thrifty, this new Lux Liquid Detergent is mild. It's almost as mild as Lux Toilet Soap—imagine that! Lux Liquid smells nice, too, and never makes you sneeze.

You get a Lever Brothers guarantee, of course. You can have your money back if you aren't pleased with the quick, shining results. But we honestly think you'll love it!

LEVER BROTHERS

Wash the other pair the* Lux way —in pure, gentle Lux Flakes. Do this for several weeks—and you'll see the difference Lux Flakes care makes.

Commissioners Refute Claim On Road Work

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday took exception to the remarks made by a volunteer fire company chief who charged the county's failure to build a road caused a family's home to be lost in flames.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board answered remarks repeatedly made by Van Malone, chief of District 16, fire company at North Branch after the home of Adrian Ralston burned on Williams Road.

Malone said his fire company was delayed in getting to the fire from North Branch, on Oldtown Road, because the truck had to go into Cumberland and then out Williams Road.

Would Have Saved Time

Malone charged the unit could have been there quicker had the county opened a road that leads from the old Jane Frazier home to Williams Road. The county has ignored numerous requests to open this road, Malone was quoted as saying.

Getty refuted these remarks by pointing out that in 1950 a group of people affected by this road, which is called the Messick Road, appeared before the County Commissioners, asking that it be opened.

They were informed that rights-of-way 40 feet in width must be obtained and presented to the County Commissioners before it could be included in its work schedule, Getty said.

Later, he understood, the rights-of-way were obtained, but were lost by the person who was entrusted to deliver them to the commissioners. This was no fault of the commissioners, Getty pointed out.

Another Attempt

At the present time, Getty said he had been informed, James A. Avirett, local attorney who owns property in that section, is again obtaining the rights-of-way.

When these are presented the commissioners, the road will be included in the work program, Board President William L. Lemmert said.

County Roads Cost $1,233 Per Working Day

The cost of operating the County Roads Department each working day during the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $1,233.29, according to the annual report of J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, made to the Allegany County Commissioners yesterday morning.

The total cost of operating the Roads Department during the 12 months beginning July 1, 1952, and ending June 30 was $299,689.53.

The Roads Department works five days a week 51 weeks each year. One week the department is idle as employes go on vacation. Time off is also granted for holidays. Walker prepared his figures on the basis of 243 work days.

Chapman's comprehensive report was commended by Board President William H. Lemmert.

Labor, of course, was the largest single expenditure, accounting for $146,527 of the total. This was broken down to $12,210 a month and $602 a day.

Next largest expenditure was for material for roads. This amounted to $82,984.

Spent on equipment was $34,949 of which $9,926 for gas; $1,707 for oil and grease; $566, fuel oil; $3,232, tires; $191, batteries; $5,955, insurance; $6,072, parts, and $7,296, labor.

Other expenditures included $329 for tools; $28,984, miscellaneous; $1,522, sick pay, and $4,362, vacations.

Chapman listed the various items which are included in the above totals that accounted for most of the money spent by the Roads Department.

Stone was $40,293; asphalt, $26,768; gasoline, $10,363; pipe, $5,641; lumber, $3,092; steel, $1,448; new tires, $1,467; repair parts, $13,945.

New equipment bought during the year cost the county as follows: Sedan, $383, plus old car; loader, $1,607; four-wheel drive truck, $9,140; motor patcher, $3,467; compressor, $435; hydro-lift, $3,594; sawette, $200; salt spreader, $614; dump truck, $3,485; two snow plows, $1,335, and used mower, $500.

The Windward Islands in the British West Indies archipelago were so named because they lie full in the path of the cooling northeast trade winds, says the National Geographic Society. The Leeward Island chain to the north is less exposed to the prevailing winds, hence its name.

Two Men Given Jail Terms In Circuit Court

A bad check artist and a man charged with statutory burglary were sentenced yesterday morning in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson.

Both men, arrested last month, waived action of the grand jury and were tried on criminal informations filed by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

Robert Sadler, 49, of Fairfax, Va., charged with forgery, was sentenced to Allegany County jail for 32 days and told by Judge Henderson to make restitution for a $50 bogus check cashed at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

He was arrested here on June 27, and since he served the time, will be turned over to West Virginia authorities on another bad check count.

Walter J. L. Hodil was sentenced to 40 days in jail on a charge of statutory burglary. He was charged with breaking and entering the home of George Coddington, of Eckhart, and taking jewelry valued at $40.

He was taken into custody and committed to county jail June 23. Since he served his sentence while awaiting trial, Hodil is being released and sent back to Buffalo, N. Y., to report for induction into armed forces.

Sadler was taken into custody by Detective Lt. James E. Van after officials of Rosenbaum's Store said he had tried to cash a $50 check there. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the First National Bank, Alexandria, Va., on which the checks were drawn, reported that Sadler's account there had been closed.

4-H Tractor Competition Set Aug. 27

Prizes To Be Given To Fair Winners

Members of the Allegany County 4-H Tractor Maintenance Club will be given an opportunity to demonstrate their skill in the operators contest slated August 27 during the annual Cumberland Fair.

The event, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, will get underway at 1:30 p. m. Guy Gienger, agriculture engineer from the University of Maryland has been asked to sit in as a judge of the contest.

The competition, Steger noted, is open to any 4-H Club boy regularly enrolled by last July 1 in the maintenance club. Rules of the contest will be the same as set up for state wide tractor operators contests and full detail may be obtained from Steger, with whom entries must be made.

The contest will consist of four parts:

(1) Spotting drawbar, must drive tractors from starting line, drive over to machine to be pulled and fasten tongue of machine to tractor.

(2) Drive tractor with machine hitched out of shed, over an obstacle course which simulates road and gates.

(3) Back machine into shed.

(4) Belt up tractor to a machine and run machine sufficient times to determine how well done. Judging will be based on skill of operations, safety of operation and time needed in each of four divisions of contest.

Top prize, Steger noted, will be $15; second prize, $12; third, $10; fourth $8 and four other prizes of $5 each.

If a sufficient number of entries is received an elimination contest will be held to select the top eight and another contest will be run between these top eight for prize money.

Last year's winner was Edward Miller, Midland.

Allies Other Than U. S. And ROK Contributed Only 40,000 To 50,000 Men To Korean Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 28 (AP)—U. N. ground forces sent to Korea, other than those of the United States and South Korea, were somewhere between 40 and 50 thousand men, according to the best available information here.

These came from 15 of 60 member nations, approximately half of them from the British Commonwealth. No exact figures were available on the size of the United States and South Korean forces except in terms of divisions.

The United States contributed six infantry and one Marine division—plus an undisclosed number of supporting troops—and South Korea had 16 ready combat divisions at the time of the armistice.

This information came partially from U. N. official reports and partially from figures obtained directly from the participating countries.

In addition to the ground forces, many of the same 15 countries also contributed either air or naval assistance or both. A 16th country—South Africa—provided a fighter squadron, but no ground or naval forces.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr, chief U. S. delegate, recently told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that 10 of every 100 men in the forward zone in Korea came from U. N. countries other than the United States. He did not give any figures, however.

The U. N. itself has issued periodic surveys, but has given specific figures for only part of the participating countries. For others it has merely listed "ground forces" or "one combat unit," without further information.

The largest fighting unit, in addition to United States and South Korean forces, was the oversized British Commonwealth Division which numbered approximately 20,000 men. Britain supplied about 10,000 of these, with the others coming from Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Next to Britain, Canada has the largest force in Korea with approximately 8,000 there at all times. Australia had a total of 5,500 men in Korea, about half of them ground forces. New Zealand supplied a ground force of about 2,000.

SAYS U. S. MAY USE VETO—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles tells a news conference in Washington yesterday that the U. S. has the right to veto any move to grant the Chinese Communists a U. N. seat. He said he'll go to Korea next Sunday to meet South Korean President Syngman Rhee to discuss truce problems and negotiate a U. S.-Korean security pact.

MacArthur Bests Ex-GI

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 28 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur got in the last word today in an oral exchange with an ex-corporal who represents small stockholders in big corporations.

Calmly, but in direct language, the retired 5-star general told Lewis D. Gilbert of New York City that it was none of Gilbert's business what MacArthur did with his money.

The exchange enlivened an otherwise routine stockholders' meeting of Remington Rand Inc. MacArthur didn't hold stock in the company. The general replied that under the corporation's by-laws a director need not hold stock.

"I am an employe and a servant of the company, and not one of its owners," MacArthur said. "I'm not as fortunate as you are, Mr. Gilbert."

MacArthur said his investment funds were in government bonds, and added:

"As to what I do with funds I may acquire in the future, it is neither your business, Mr. Gilbert, nor anyone else's."

Gilbert raised his voice above the resulting applause to say he would introduce a resolution next year to require that all directors hold at least 100 shares.

MacArthur, elected chairman last year, is paid $45,000 a year.

Fashion Bombshell Is Hurled By Dior

PARIS, July 28 (AP) — Christian Dior today threw a bombshell into the middle of the Paris fashion openings by drastically shortening skirts to barely below the knee.

He made radical changes also in the waistline, and boldly announced the beginning of a new cycle in feminine dress.

Whether women will again follow the lead of the man who revolutionized fashions with the new look remains to be seen. But the newest Dior clothes bear so little resemblance to those women are currently wearing that old wardrobes will have to be thrown out if the new style succeeds.

Lopping off skirts won't be enough—there's a whole new cut that drapes the waistline loosely between the top of the hips and the bottom of the bust.

The designer's own name for his 1953 creation is the "Live Line." His two new silhouettes he calls "Eiffel Tower" and "Cupola." One is skimpily slim, the other bell-skirted.

Soviet-Greek Trade Pact

ATHENS, Greece, July 28 (AP)—Soviet and Greek representatives tonight signed the first trade agreement between their countries since before the war.

It provides for the exchange of goods to the value of 20 million dollars. Greece will send tobacco, cotton and rice to the Soviet Union in exchange for petroleum products, timber, fish and caviar.

(end of season)

Farrady Post exploded for eight runs in the fourth inning to defeat Fort Cumberland Post of Cumberland by the score of 9-5 yesterday at Frostburg and advanced within a game of the leaders in the torrid race of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League.

The 8-run outburst enabled Hugh Nolan to register his first win of the season in the league. Farrady Post defeated Harry Iser, who boasted a 4-0 record and had beaten the Mountain City nine in three previous outings.

Frostburg coupled walks to Harris and Rafferty with a hit batsman, singles by "Barney" Spearman, Arch Lennox, "Rickey" Harris and "Bobby" Blank with three errors for their eight tallies in the big fourth frame.

Nolan struck out six, issued three passes and yielded seven hits, including a two-bagger by Jim Hoffman and a triple by Dorcil Kline.

500 Witness Contest

The Mountain City aggregation banged Iser for eight blows, two of which were credited to Spearman who larruped a triple and single. The Cumberland hurler gave up seven passes and fanned three. Both pitchers hit one batsman.

Five hundred persons witnessed the contest at the Frostburg Ball Park.

The leaders and runners-up have one more game on their schedule before the conclusion of the regular season. Farrady Post plays Grantsville Thursday at 5:30 at the Frostburg Ball Park while Cumberland hosts Midland Friday at 5:30 at Fort Hill Field. Unless Grantsville spills Frostburg the race will not be decided until the final day and then there's the possibility of a tie. If Frostburg wins Thursday Cumberland would have to lose its final game for the race to end in a tie, thus necessitating a playoff for the title. Fort Cumberland could sew it up by winning Friday's contest.

Midland Is Victor, 15-5

Midland Post rallied for six runs in the first inning and seven runs in the third to trounce Grantsville Post on the Garrett Countians' field by the score of 15-5.

Gray and Spiker headed the Midland attack with three hits each while Rogish and Winters was holding the home team to five bingles, including doubles by S. Morgan and Beachy.

Rogish got credit for the win, although relieved by Winters. Fred Colaw was charged with the loss.

A's Beat Browns

PHILADELPHIA, July 28 (AP) — Ray Murray's homer with Cass Michaels on base in a weird eighth inning gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 9-7 win over the St. Louis Browns tonight.

Murray's two-run game-winning homer was sandwiched in between the three strikeouts racked up in the eighth by loser Don Larsen. Larsen, who contributed three singles and a run batted in to the St. Louis cause, fanned Gus Zernial, walked Michaels and then fanned Ed Mc Ghee as Michaels stole second. Then came Murray's big blast. Morrie Martin struck out to end the inning.

Johnny Podres Posts 7th Win For Brooklyn

Dodgers Swamp Cubs, 13-2; Hodges, Snider, Furillo Hit Homers

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP) — Johnny Podres, 20-year-old Brooklyn southpaw, rode a slick four-hitter to his seventh straight victory today as the first-place Dodgers paralyzed home run power and a feeble Chicago defense for a 13-2 romp over the Cubs.

The Dodgers, victorious in 14 of their last 16 games, had the game bagged in the second inning when they pushed across seven unearned runs against starter Johnny Klippstein.

Three of the four Cub hits were by Ransom Jackson, all singles. Roy Smalley smacked a double. Podres held the Bruins to one hit after the fourth, Jackson's eighth-inning single.

The Brooks' scoring spree included three runs on a wild, bases-loaded throw by shortstop Smalley and two tallies on Duke Snider's 19th homer of the season.

Gil Hodges smashed his 24th homer with a Dodger mate aboard in the third and Carl Furillo's 13th homer drove across two more Brooklyn runs in the fifth.

Podres, hurling his third straight complete game for a 7-2 record, had the Cubs under control all the way. His only trouble came in issuing two lead off walks to Ralph Kiner, resulting in single Chicago runs in the second and fourth innings.

Mary Downey Scores In Ohio

Mrs. Maurice Glick Also Cops Match

CINCINNATI, July 28 (AP) — Hot shooting Mae Murray, Rutland, Vt., put on the main show today as 16 of the nation's top golfers advanced through the first round of match play in the Women's Western Amateur Tournament.

The petite Miss Murray, former member of the Davis Cup team, fired a five-under-par 70 over the Camargo Country Club's 6,523-yard course, to whip Mrs. Dorothy Germain Porter of Havertown, Pa., 2 up.

It was a women's competition course record for Camargo.

The opening round, played in such blazing heat that a contestant collapsed, saw defending champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., advance to the second round. Mrs. Burt Weil of Cincinnati, the tournament medalist, however, was a first round casualty.

Miss Claire Doran of Cleveland, the current Ohio State champion, knocked Mrs. Weil out of the running with a 3 and 2 triumph. Miss Doran was five over par. Miss Riley, shooting par golf, eliminated Jane Hopkins of Cleveland, 2 and 1.

Other results today included:

Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., defeated Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 5 and 4.

Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, defeated Mrs. Harold Bycott, Wheeling, W. Va., 6 and 5.

Mrs. Maurice Glick, Pikesville, Md., defeated Mrs. Dolly McCarthy, Cincinnati, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Paul Dye, Indianapolis, defeated Miss Berridge Long, Huntington, W. Va., 4 and 3.

Chicago Defeats Boston Sox, 4-2

BOSTON, July 28 (AP) — Homers by Sam Mele and Minnie Monoso enabled the Chicago White Sox to tighten their second-place grip by dampening the flaming spirits of the Boston Red Sox with a 4-2 victory tonight before 35,385—Fenway Park's largest crowd of the season. By so doing, the White Sox snapped the seven-game winning pitching streak of their discarded Hector Skinney Brown.

Mele belted Brown for a two-run homer in the fourth inning and Minoso drove into the left field screen in the fifth. Sturdy Harry Dorish toyed with his former Boston teammates until the eighth when, after giving up two runs, he was replaced by Sandy Consuegra.

The victory was only the White Sox' third in their last nine regular games and the setback the Red Sox' third in 13.

Yanks Trim Indians, 4-2

Collins, McDougald Wallop Home Runs

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—Home runs by Joe Collins and Gil McDougald helped the New York Yankees break their Cleveland jinx tonight as they defeated the Indians 4-2 for the first time in seven games before the largest New York crowd of the season, 57,461.

After watching the world champions build a 4-0 lead in the first six innings the Indians scored twice and routed Whitey Ford in the seventh only to have Big Chief Allie Reynolds come in and end the uprising.

Collins put the Yanks in front in a hurry as he blasted an early Wynn offering into the lower right field seats in the first inning. McDougald put one in the left field seats in the third and the Yanks picked up two more in the sixth when with one out Yogi Berra walked and scored on a double by Irv Noren. Gene Woodling was purposely passed and Bill Martin fouled out, but Phil Rizzuto singled through the center to score Noren.

Frostburg Upsets Cumberland In Legion League Battle, 9-5

Farrady Post Scores Eight Times In 4th

Shaves Ft. Cumberland Lead To Single Game; 500 Witness Contest

Friday Game
Midland at Cumberland
(end of season)

Farrady Post exploded for eight runs in the fourth inning to defeat Fort Cumberland Post of Cumberland by the score of 9-5 yesterday at Frostburg and advanced within a game of the leaders in the torrid race of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League.

The 8-run outburst enabled Hugh Nolan to register his first win of the season in the league. Farrady Post defeated Harry Iser, who boasted a 4-0 record and had beaten the Mountain City nine in three previous outings.

Frostburg coupled walks to Harris and Rafferty with a hit batsman, singles by "Barney" Spearman, Arch Lennox, "Rickey" Harris and "Bobby" Blank with three errors for their eight tallies in the big fourth frame.

Nolan struck out six, issued three passes and yielded seven hits, including a two-bagger by Jim Hoffman and a triple by Dorcil Kline.

500 Witness Contest

The Mountain City aggregation banged Iser for eight blows, two of which were credited to Spearman who larruped a triple and single. The Cumberland hurler gave up seven passes and fanned three. Both pitchers hit one batsman.

Five hundred persons witnessed the contest at the Frostburg Ball Park.

The leaders and runners-up have one more game on their schedule before the conclusion of the regular season. Farrady Post plays Grantsville Thursday at 5:30 at the Frostburg Ball Park while Cumberland hosts Midland Friday at 5:30 at Fort Hill Field. Unless Grantsville spills Frostburg the race will not be decided until the final day and then there's the possibility of a tie. If Frostburg wins Thursday Cumberland would have to lose its final game for the race to end in a tie, thus necessitating a playoff for the title. Fort Cumberland could sew it up by winning Friday's contest.

Midland Is Victor, 15-5

Midland Post rallied for six runs in the first inning and seven runs in the third to trounce Grantsville Post on the Garrett Countians' field by the score of 15-5.

Gray and Spiker headed the Midland attack with three hits each while Rogish and Winters was holding the home team to five bingles, including doubles by S. Morgan and Beachy.

Rogish got credit for the win, although relieved by Winters. Fred Colaw was charged with the loss.

A's Beat Browns

PHILADELPHIA, July 28 (AP) — Ray Murray's homer with Cass Michaels on base in a weird eighth inning gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 9-7 win over the St. Louis Browns tonight.

Murray's two-run game-winning homer was sandwiched in between the three strikeouts racked up in the eighth by loser Don Larsen. Larsen, who contributed three singles and a run batted in to the St. Louis cause, fanned Gus Zernial, walked Michaels and then fanned Ed Mc Ghee as Michaels stole second. Then came Murray's big blast. Morrie Martin struck out to end the inning.

Johnny Podres Posts 7th Win For Brooklyn

Dodgers Swamp Cubs, 13-2; Hodges, Snider, Furillo Hit Homers

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP) — Johnny Podres, 20-year-old Brooklyn southpaw, rode a slick four-hitter to his seventh straight victory today as the first-place Dodgers paralyzed home run power and a feeble Chicago defense for a 13-2 romp over the Cubs.

The Dodgers, victorious in 14 of their last 16 games, had the game bagged in the second inning when they pushed across seven unearned runs against starter Johnny Klippstein.

Three of the four Cub hits were by Ransom Jackson, all singles. Roy Smalley smacked a double. Podres held the Bruins to one hit after the fourth, Jackson's eighth-inning single.

The Brooks' scoring spree included three runs on a wild, bases-loaded throw by shortstop Smalley and two tallies on Duke Snider's 19th homer of the season.

Gil Hodges smashed his 24th homer with a Dodger mate aboard in the third and Carl Furillo's 13th homer drove across two more Brooklyn runs in the fifth.

Podres, hurling his third straight complete game for a 7-2 record, had the Cubs under control all the way. His only trouble came in issuing two lead off walks to Ralph Kiner, resulting in single Chicago runs in the second and fourth innings.

Mary Downey Scores In Ohio

Mrs. Maurice Glick Also Cops Match

CINCINNATI, July 28 (AP) — Hot shooting Mae Murray, Rutland, Vt., put on the main show today as 16 of the nation's top golfers advanced through the first round of match play in the Women's Western Amateur Tournament.

The petite Miss Murray, former member of the Davis Cup team, fired a five-under-par 70 over the Camargo Country Club's 6,523-yard course, to whip Mrs. Dorothy Germain Porter of Havertown, Pa., 2 up.

It was a women's competition course record for Camargo.

The opening round, played in such blazing heat that a contestant collapsed, saw defending champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., advance to the second round. Mrs. Burt Weil of Cincinnati, the tournament medalist, however, was a first round casualty.

Miss Claire Doran of Cleveland, the current Ohio State champion, knocked Mrs. Weil out of the running with a 3 and 2 triumph. Miss Doran was five over par. Miss Riley, shooting par golf, eliminated Jane Hopkins of Cleveland, 2 and 1.

Other results today included:

Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., defeated Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 5 and 4.

Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, defeated Mrs. Harold Bycott, Wheeling, W. Va., 6 and 5.

Mrs. Maurice Glick, Pikesville, Md., defeated Mrs. Dolly McCarthy, Cincinnati, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Paul Dye, Indianapolis, defeated Miss Berridge Long, Huntington, W. Va., 4 and 3.

Chicago Defeats Boston Sox, 4-2

BOSTON, July 28 (AP) — Homers by Sam Mele and Minnie Monoso enabled the Chicago White Sox to tighten their second-place grip by dampening the flaming spirits of the Boston Red Sox with a 4-2 victory tonight before 35,385—Fenway Park's largest crowd of the season. By so doing, the White Sox snapped the seven-game winning pitching streak of their discarded Hector Skinney Brown.

Mele belted Brown for a two-run homer in the fourth inning and Minoso drove into the left field screen in the fifth. Sturdy Harry Dorish toyed with his former Boston teammates until the eighth when, after giving up two runs, he was replaced by Sandy Consuegra.

The victory was only the White Sox' third in their last nine regular games and the setback the Red Sox' third in 13.

Yanks Trim Indians, 4-2

Collins, McDougald Wallop Home Runs

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP)—Home runs by Joe Collins and Gil McDougald helped the New York Yankees break their Cleveland jinx tonight as they defeated the Indians 4-2 for the first time in seven games before the largest New York crowd of the season, 57,461.

After watching the world champions build a 4-0 lead in the first six innings the Indians scored twice and routed Whitey Ford in the seventh only to have Big Chief Allie Reynolds come in and end the uprising.

Collins put the Yanks in front in a hurry as he blasted an early Wynn offering into the lower right field seats in the first inning. McDougald put one in the left field seats in the third and the Yanks picked up two more in the sixth when with one out Yogi Berra walked and scored on a double by Irv Noren. Gene Woodling was purposely passed and Bill Martin fouled out, but Phil Rizzuto singled through the center to score Noren.

Williams Will Find Boston Bazoos Sweeter Than Korea Bazookas

Ted Leaves Marines, Headed For Boston

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The Marine Corps today ordered Ted Williams back to Fenway Park and baseball's most celebrated citizen set out for Boston to resume his twice-interrupted career.

"I'm anxious to get back in the lineup," Williams told a crowded news conference. "I can already hear those guys with the bazoos in left field—and that's all right with me."

No matter how loud the Fenway Park jockeys blow on the bazoos, it will be a far sweeter sound to Williams than the bazookas he listened to in Korea, where he flew 38 combat missions before returning to the United States.

Tall and tanned, the 34-year-old Boston Red Sox outfielder looked in the peak of condition as he received his deactivation orders from Marine Col. Kenneth B. Chapell. Williams said he's rusty and that he doesn't know when he'll return to the lineup, but you got the idea it won't be far off.

The former captain said he was driving to Boston today and would confer tomorrow with Joe Cronin, general manager of the Red Sox.

"After all," he said, "I don't even know if they want me or not."

Williams came up with Boston in 1939 and two years later hit .406, making him the last major leaguer to better .400. He went into the Marines in World War II, missing the 1943, 1944 and 1945 baseball campaigns. When he got back in 1946, he hit .342.

Never under .300 in any season, Williams was down to .318 in 1951.

Giovanelli, a buzz-saw type of boxer, has had six fights this year and won them all. He also won his last seven scraps of 1952.

Dean Of American Golf Caddies Dies

BROOKLYN, July 28 (AP) — Joe Horgan, 72, dean of America's golf caddies, died at Kings County Hospital here last night.

New York born, Horgan began carrying clubs back before the first United States championships were played in 1895 and he caddied for many of the game's great champions of the old days.

He was the favorite U. S. caddy of Harry Vardon, the famous English stylist of the early part of the century, and old Joe always boasted—without contradiction—that Vardon never lost a match while he had the Briton's clubs. Vardon won the U. S. Open in 1900.

Four State Champs Will Be Crowned

Thirteen trophies will be offered to the top shooters in the thirty-third West Virginia State Trapshooting Tournament that will get under way Friday at the traps of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, it was announced yesterday by Tony Francis, chairman.

Four of the trophies will be donated by the Amateur Trapshooting Association and will go to the winners of the West Virginia singles, handicap, doubles and all-around championships.

The Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, which will play host to approximately 100 state and out-of-the-state gunners for the sixth time in seven years, will offer a total of nine trophies in the open events. Winners of ATA trophies will not be eligible for the prizes offered by the club.

Four latest model Remington auto angling traps that are capable of throwing targets at 72 different angles will be in use during the three-day shoot.

The shoot opens Friday at 1 p. m. with a warmup program consisting of 100 16-yard targets, 50 handicap and 25 pairs of doubles. At 11 a. m. EDT, Saturday, the state championship program of 200 16-yard targets will be fired. Sunday's schedule lists 50 pairs of doubles and the 100 handicap, 17 to 25 yards, commencing at 11 a. m., EDT.

Chairman Francis estimates that 40,000 targets will be thrown during the three-day program.

Four Pros To Assist

Four professionals, namely, R. J. Dickey and Norman Powell, of Remington Arms Company; George Bolton and James Gurley, of Western Winchester, and Jack Spade, of the Federal Arms Company, will assist in runing the events.

The public is invited to attend. The Ridgeley Club includes a lunch room and all other modern conveniences to accommodate the gunners as well as the spectators.

West Virginia Shoot Will Open Friday, 13 Trophies Offered At Ridgeley Traps

Four State Champs Will Be Crowned

Thirteen trophies will be offered to the top shooters in the thirty-third West Virginia State Trapshooting Tournament that will get under way Friday at the traps of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, it was announced yesterday by Tony Francis, chairman.

Four of the trophies will be donated by the Amateur Trapshooting Association and will go to the winners of the West Virginia singles, handicap, doubles and all-around championships.

Ridgeley Host 6th Time

The Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, which will play host to approximately 100 state and out-of-the-state gunners for the sixth time in seven years, will offer a total of nine trophies in the open events. Winners of ATA trophies will not be eligible for the prizes offered by the club.

Four of trophies will go to winners in Class A, B, C and D in the 16-yards competition, three will go to winners in three handicap divisions, 17-19, 20-22 and 23-25 yards, one will go to high gun on 400 targets and one will be presented to the high doubles shooter.

Four latest model Remington auto angling traps that are capable of throwing targets at 72 different angles will be in use during the three-day shoot.

The shoot opens Friday at 1 p. m. with a warmup program consisting of 100 16-yard targets, 50 handicap and 25 pairs of doubles. At 11 a. m. EDT, Saturday, the state championship program of 200 16-yard targets will be fired. Sunday's schedule lists 50 pairs of doubles and the 100 handicap, 17 to 25 yards, commencing at 11 a. m., EDT.

Chairman Francis estimates that 40,000 targets will be thrown during the three-day program.

Four Pros To Assist

Four professionals, namely, R. J. Dickey and Norman Powell, of Remington Arms Company; George Bolton and James Gurley, of Western Winchester, and Jack Spade, of the Federal Arms Company, will assist in runing the events.

The public is invited to attend. The Ridgeley Club includes a lunch room and all other modern conveniences to accommodate the gunners as well as the spectators.

Puerto Rican Girl To Leave U. S., Her Dream Unrealized

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — A 12-year-old Puerto Rican girl who came to the United States to "stay till I'm a big girl" learned today she must return home without realizing her dream.

The girl, Cesar Rivera of near San Juan, arrived in Baltimore by plane Sunday. The trip had been arranged by Joe Bona, 67-year-old Baltimorean who became a friend of the Rivera family during World War II.

However, after the little girl arrived Bona was hospitalized with a heart ailment and now is too ill to care for her.

The bright-eyed youngster flew alone to New York, missed a connection to Baltimore but finally reached the city Sunday, a half a day behind schedule.

There was no one at the port to meet her. Alone in a strange land whose language she barely understood, Cesar still made her predicament understood. And a search was started.

Hours later it was determined that Bona was hospitalized and too ill even to be told the child had arrived.

The story pieced together by police and airlines employes was that Bona met the girl's family during the war while on a construction project in Puerto Rico.

The Riveras liked Bona and later he offered to help Cesar get an education.

More than a month ago, he went to an airlines office in Baltimore and arranged for her plane ticket. Last week he met a plane he thought was bringing her to Baltimore. But she was not aboard. Bona became ill at the airport and later was admitted to the hospital.

Learning of the girl's plight, other members of the Bona family agreed to care for her until they could arrange for her return flight.

Parents Of Seriously Ill Twins Are Sought

TAKOMA PARK, Md., July 28 (AP)—Two-months-old Frank and Sara are seriously ill and police of five states and the District of Columbia have been asked to locate their parents.

The twin babies were left at a Takoma Park child care nursery last Friday by a couple described by Mrs. Elsie May Brinkley, nursery operator, as "Spanish speaking."

She said the man gave the name "P. Nichols," said he was from Baltimore and that he was about to take his wife to Michigan for special treatment for arthritis.

Salisbury Polio Victim Is Home After Two Years

SALISBURY, July 28 (AP)—Charles Theis came home today, flat on his back, grinning from ear to ear, with a tear now and then as his neighbors waved and cheered him on.

He came home in an iron lung, still so paralyzed from the polio attack that hit him almost two years ago that he can hardly move a muscle.

"I feel fine," he said at the end of the delicate four-hour job of moving him here 106 miles from Baltimore. "I could ride another 100 miles," he said.

"All I want now is to get the rest of the way home."

The 25-year-old polio victim will try to take that last short step from Deershead State Hospital, but it is a long step for a man who can barely turn his head or move his fingers.

Until he has gathered the strength for it, he will at least be close to his family—his wife and their two youngsters, his father, friends, associates in the finance office where he worked.

Neighbors who had heard he was coming waited on curbs along the route of the moving van which brought him home in the iron lung.

Trooper Robert Burkhart, in a State Police patrol car, piloted the motorcade into the curving drive up to the hospital at 1:55 p.m.

Doctors, nurses and other members of the hospital staff greeted him. His father, Irving, was there. So was his two-year-old son, Stevie. So, too, was Mrs. Pearl Collins, who had reared him from the time he was 11 until he married five years ago.

The special crew of ten men moved the iron lung gently from the truck into a hospital elevator, which lifted it to the second floor. They rolled it into a special room, an isolation room cleared to make way for the big machine and the other equipment which helps Theis draw his breath.

He was on familiar ground, for the hospital is built on a spot where Charles Theis camped when he was a Boy Scout. It is on the shore of Johnson's Lake, his old swimming hole.

At Deershead, he was given over to the care of Miss Rose Marie Bishop, who was one of the first nurses to learn about the operation of an iron lung when she was on the staff of Childrens Hospital School in Baltimore.

MOTHER ARRESTED AFTER REUNION—Mrs. Gwendolyn Infanti, 22, San Antonio, Tex., hugs her son John, 3, in a police station in Philadelphia yesterday after she, her mother and her aunt, all of Texas, were held for a police hearing after an in-law dispute over custody of the boy. Police Inspector Albert Dubois said the young divorcee faces charges of contempt of court and assault and battery after she allegedly took the boy from her former husband's home and tried to drive off, knocking down her former mother-in-law and sister-in-law in the try.

Md. Oyster Haul Put At 2.6 Million Bushels

ANNAPOLIS, July 28 (AP)—Maryland's 1952-53 oyster catch was fixed precisely today at 2,642,147 and one-quarter bushels.

Senate Approves Sale Of U. S. Food Abroad

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the House today a bill authorizing the President to sell up to a half billion dollars worth of surplus farm products aboard for foreign currencies.

Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan) told the Senate the measure would broaden similar authority written into the foreign aid bill.

Packer's Assault Hearing Delayed

CRISFIELD, Md., July 28 (AP)—A hearing scheduled for Richard Christy, prominent Crisfield seafood packer accused of assault on a State Health Department inspector was postponed today and both sides agreed to talk the incident over.

Magistrate H. J. Herman Sterlisg, before whom the case was to be heard, said Prentis Davis, attorney for Christy, asked for a later trial date. State officials agreed. They were reported interested in at least an apology from the seafood packer.

William P. Murray, the inspector, said Christy, president of George A. Christy and Son, knocked him down and manhandled him July 20 after becoming incensed at suggestions Murray made for changes at the plant.

Murray obtaised warrants from Magistrate Arthur Dryden in Princess Anne charging Christy with assault and obstructing an officer.

Last Saturday Magistrate Dryden shifted the case here.

Christy denied he harmed Murray. The packer said he just told Murray to leave the plant.

"Skunk Roach" Invades Capital, May Be In State

COLLEGE PARK, July 28 (AP)—A cockroach which throws off an offensive odor, like a skunk, has been found in Washington and may have spread to Maryland, insect experts reported today.

The experts identified the creature as the Madeira roach. It's a native of the tropics.

Maryland entomologists at the University of Maryland are keeping their noses to the wind. They say if one of the insects has reached the District of Columbia it probably has already found its way into Maryland.

This "skunk roach" thrives on apples, carrots and dogfood.

There are about 13.8 cows for every 100 persons in the United States.

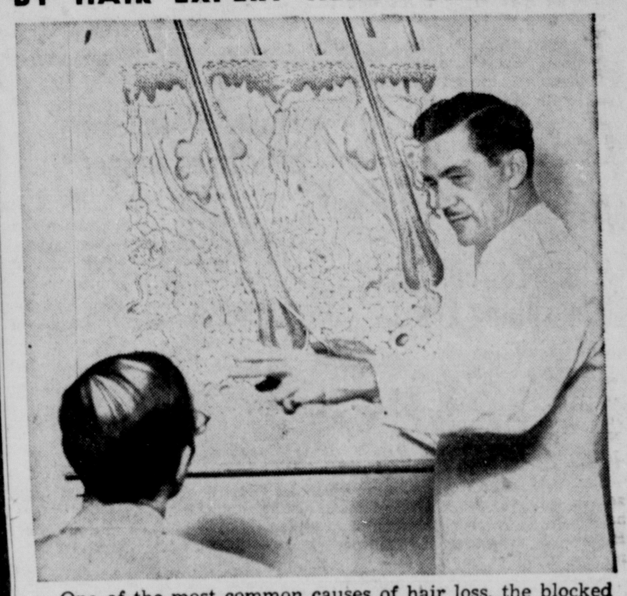
WHY YOU GO BALD DEMONSTRATED BY HAIR EXPERT HERE TOMORROW



One of the most common causes of hair loss, the blocked follicle, is explained to a balding man by trichologist G. S. Bishop. Bishop's organization is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

Where you're growing fuzz you can usually grow real hair, trichologist says . . .

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 28 — New home treatment methods for growing thicker hair — and preventing baldness — will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., this Thursday, July 30.

Trichologist J. M. Coyle, who represents Bishop Hair Experts, will be in charge. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. Thursday at the Hotel Fort Cumberland.

Examine You Free

In making the announcement at the home office of Bishop Hair Experts, director G. S. Bishop said:

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to ease your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to tae care of your hair. If your case is beyond the scope of Bishop home treatment, Mr. Coyle will tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

His method of home treatment, Bishop said, should not be confused with "mail order courses."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting treatment," he said. "There is no cure-all for every scalp disorder. Each of the 18 disorders that cause most baldness requires a special treatment."

Bishop says that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the nearest Bishop office.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Bishop trichologist at regular intervals."

Satisfy 90%

Does Bishop grow hair? Best evidence that he does is that his organization expanded quickly from one office to 13 affiliated offices in North America: Cincinnati, Miami, Jacksonville, Tampa, Atlanta, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Montreal, Mexico City. And in addition to these permanent offices, their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in many other cities.

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declares Bishop. "We satisfy more than 90 per cent of our clients.

"But overcoming the average man's initial skepticism is really hard. He's usually quite desperate — and definitely baldish — by the time he nerves himself to consult a Bishop trichologist. All the time he's losing hair, he justifies his neglect with one of the old superstitions about hair: That baldness is hereditary, that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss.

"What's worse, all the time he's losing hair, he keeps right on with the bad habits of hair care that cause him to lose hair.

Guarantee Satisfaction

"To overcome the average man's skepticism, we now offer a 30-DAY GUARANTEE," Bishop says. "You must be satisfied with results by the end of 30 days or your money will be refunded."

If you're worried about your hair, call the Hotel Fort Cumberland tomorrow for Mr. Coyle's suite number, then come see him between 2 and 9 p. m. for a free examination.

Puerto Rican Girl To Leave U. S., Her Dream Unrealized

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — A 12-year-old Puerto Rican girl who came to the United States to "stay till I'm a big girl" learned today she must return home without realizing her dream.

The girl, Cesar Rivera of near San Juan, arrived in Baltimore by plane Sunday. The trip had been arranged by Joe Bona, 67-year-old Baltimorean who became a friend of the Rivera family during World War II.

However, after the little girl arrived Bona was hospitalized with a heart ailment and now is too ill to care for her.

The bright-eyed youngster flew alone to New York, missed a connection to Baltimore but finally reached the city Sunday, a half a day behind schedule.

There was no one at the port to meet her. Alone in a strange land whose language she barely understood, Cesar still made her predicament understood. And a search was started.

Hours later it was determined that Bona was hospitalized and too ill even to be told the child had arrived.

The story pieced together by police and airlines employes was that Bona met the girl's family during the war while on a construction project in Puerto Rico.

The Riveras liked Bona and later he offered to help Cesar get an education.

More than a month ago, he went to an airlines office in Baltimore and arranged for her plane ticket. Last week he met a plane he thought was bringing her to Baltimore. But she was not aboard. Bona became ill at the airport and later was admitted to the hospital.

Learning of the girl's plight, other members of the Bona family agreed to care for her until they could arrange for her return flight.

Parents Of Seriously Ill Twins Are Sought

TAKOMA PARK, Md., July 28 (AP)—Two-months-old Frank and Sara are seriously ill and police of five states and the District of Columbia have been asked to locate their parents.

The twin babies were left at a Takoma Park child care nursery last Friday by a couple described by Mrs. Elsie May Brinkley, nursery operator, as "Spanish speaking."

She said the man gave the name "P. Nichols," said he was from Baltimore and that he was about to take his wife to Michigan for special treatment for arthritis.

Salisbury Polio Victim Is Home After Two Years

SALISBURY, July 28 (AP)—Charles Theis came home today, flat on his back, grinning from ear to ear, with a tear now and then as his neighbors waved and cheered him on.

He came home in an iron lung, still so paralyzed from the polio attack that hit him almost two years ago that he can hardly move a muscle.

"I feel fine," he said at the end of the delicate four-hour job of moving him here 106 miles from Baltimore. "I could ride another 100 miles," he said.

"All I want now is to get the rest of the way home."

The 25-year-old polio victim will try to take that last short step from Deershead State Hospital, but it is a long step for a man who can barely turn his head or move his fingers.

Until he has gathered the strength for it, he will at least be close to his family—his wife and their two youngsters, his father, friends, associates in the finance office where he worked.

Neighbors who had heard he was coming waited on curbs along the route of the moving van which brought him home in the iron lung.

Trooper Robert Burkhart, in a State Police patrol car, piloted the motorcade into the curving drive up to the hospital at 1:55 p.m.

Doctors, nurses and other members of the hospital staff greeted him. His father, Irving, was there. So was his two-year-old son, Stevie. So, too, was Mrs. Pearl Collins, who had reared him from the time he was 11 until he married five years ago.

The special crew of ten men moved the iron lung gently from the truck into a hospital elevator, which lifted it to the second floor. They rolled it into a special room, an isolation room cleared to make way for the big machine and the other equipment which helps Theis draw his breath.

He was on familiar ground, for the hospital is built on a spot where Charles Theis camped when he was a Boy Scout. It is on the shore of Johnson's Lake, his old swimming hole.

At Deershead, he was given over to the care of Miss Rose Marie Bishop, who was one of the first nurses to learn about the operation of an iron lung when she was on the staff of Childrens Hospital School in Baltimore.

MOTHER ARRESTED AFTER REUNION—Mrs. Gwendolyn Infanti, 22, San Antonio, Tex., hugs her son John, 3, in a police station in Philadelphia yesterday after she, her mother and her aunt, all of Texas, were held for a police hearing after an in-law dispute over custody of the boy. Police Inspector Albert Dubois said the young divorcee faces charges of contempt of court and assault and battery after she allegedly took the boy from her former husband's home and tried to drive off, knocking down her former mother-in-law and sister-in-law in the try.

Md. Oyster Haul Put At 2.6 Million Bushels

ANNAPOLIS, July 28 (AP)—Maryland's 1952-53 oyster catch was fixed precisely today at 2,642,147 and one-quarter bushels.

The oysters and the watermen who harvested them contributed $106,411 to the state treasury.

Senate Approves Sale Of U. S. Food Abroad

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the House today a bill authorizing the President to sell up to a half billion dollars worth of surplus farm products aboard for foreign currencies.

Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan) told the Senate the measure would broaden similar authority written into the foreign aid bill.

Packer's Assault Hearing Delayed

CRISFIELD, Md., July 28 (AP)—A hearing scheduled for Richard Christy, prominent Crisfield seafood packer accused of assault on a State Health Department inspector was postponed today and both sides agreed to talk the incident over.

Magistrate H. J. Herman Sterlisg, before whom the case was to be heard, said Prentis Davis, attorney for Christy, asked for a later trial date. State officials agreed. They were reported interested in at least an apology from the seafood packer.

William P. Murray, the inspector, said Christy, president of George A. Christy and Son, knocked him down and manhandled him July 20 after becoming incensed at suggestions Murray made for changes at the plant.

Murray obtaised warrants from Magistrate Arthur Dryden in Princess Anne charging Christy with assault and obstructing an officer.

Last Saturday Magistrate Dryden shifted the case here.

Christy denied he harmed Murray. The packer said he just told Murray to leave the plant.

"Skunk Roach" Invades Capital, May Be In State

COLLEGE PARK, July 28 (AP)—A cockroach which throws off an offensive odor, like a skunk, has been found in Washington and may have spread to Maryland, insect experts reported today.

The experts identified the creature as the Madeira roach. It's a native of the tropics.

Maryland entomologists at the University of Maryland are keeping their noses to the wind. They say if one of the insects has reached the District of Columbia it probably has already found its way into Maryland.

This "skunk roach" thrives on apples, carrots and dogfood.

There are about 13.8 cows for every 100 persons in the United States.

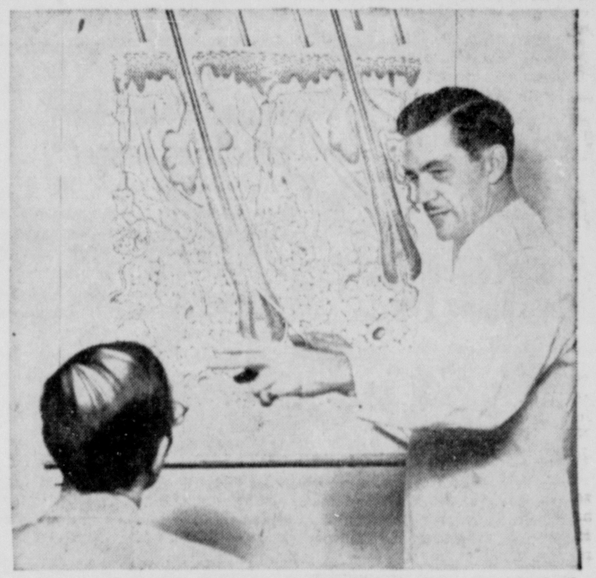
WHY YOU GO BALD DEMONSTRATED BY HAIR EXPERT HERE TOMORROW



One of the most common causes of hair loss, the blocked follicle, is explained to a balding man by trichologist G. S. Bishop. Bishop's organization is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

Where you're growing fuzz you can usually grow real hair, trichologist says . . .

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 28 — New home treatment methods for growing thicker hair — and preventing baldness — will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., this Thursday, July 30.

Trichologist J. M. Coyle, who represents Bishop Hair Experts, will be in charge. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. Thursday at the Hotel Fort Cumberland.

Examine You Free

In making the announcement at the home office of Bishop Hair Experts, director G. S. Bishop said:

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to ease your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to tae care of your hair. If your case is beyond the scope of Bishop home treatment, Mr. Coyle will tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

His method of home treatment, Bishop said, should not be confused with "mail order courses."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting treatment," he said. "There is no cure-all for every scalp disorder. Each of the 18 disorders that cause most baldness requires a special treatment."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 28 (INS)—No offer was sufficiently tempting to Anita Bjork to bring her to the U. S. after her "Miss Julie," made in Sweden, won her so much praise. But the young Swedish actress listened to Nunnally Johnson and will join Gregory Peck and Rita Gam in "Night People" in Munich. This won't take her as far from home.

The Bjork girl has had the same type training that made Garbo and Bergman such fine actresses. She also has the same charm and beauty that the two older stars had when they played in their first American films.

Here's one for the books: Mike Todd can't get permission from the board of directors to use his own Todd Ao process for his play, "A Night in Venice"!

I think the reason Mike gets the turndown for his own process is that the executive committee including Joseph Schenck, George Skouras and Rodgers and Hammerstein don't want anything to take the shine off "Oklahoma" when it makes its film debut in Todd Ao.

Mike had wanted to film his "Night in Venice," which is currently appearing at New York's Jones Beach, in color and three-D immediately, and, of course, he wanted to use his own development. But he saw the light after the boys talked to him.

That fine little actor, Tim Considine, 10-year-old son of John Considine and Carmen Pantages Considine, won't have to worry about where his ice cream soda money is coming from this summer vacation.

Timmy gets two big jobs at MGM. First, he plays the neglected son of a social couple in Greer Garson's "Miss Baker's Dozen."

Next, the third generation star of the famed Considine and Pantages show business families, goes into "Executive Suite" with a whole passle of stars.

Larry Finley's MOP was crowded last Friday night to do honor to popular Wolfie Gilbert, one of America's top song writers. Never was Harry Ruby as witty as when he talked of the song writing business.

One of the most touching moments was the appearance of Lillian, widow of Gus Edwards, who has been very ill. While she was at the microphone Wolfie wrote a beautiful poem which he read. It's amazing the ease with which he dashes off verse.

He says he can't even remember how many songs he's written, but most of us remember "Ramona," "Down Yonder," "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee," etc., etc.

Larry presented Wolfie with a plaque for the great work he has done as the local head of ASCAP and Mrs. Wolfie with a birthday cake.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Norman Krasnas expect another baby. Mrs. Krasnas is the former Erle Jolson (Mrs. Al Jolson). They have three adopted children, one of their own, and this one will make five.

Milton Berle told friends in Las Vegas that the reason he didn't marry Ruth Cosgrove in Nevada is because his mother phoned to say she had broken her leg and couldn't be there with them, but they'll marry when they get back to New York.

Jane Powell and Elaine Stewart motored to Arrowhead Springs for Gene Nelson's show. However, Jane wasn't there for the opening night — I hear, at the suggestion of her studio.

Rumor is hot again that Doris Duke and Piano Player Joe Castro will marry in Europe. They are certainly always together.

Veteran Producer Adolph Zukor is reading the final galley proofs of his book, "The Public Is Never Wrong." What a lot Mr. Zukor can tell.

A postcard from Madrid from Governor Warren, Mrs. Warren, and the girls, says they are leaving for Paris, then England and the Scandinavian countries. They are having a wonderful time.

Don Hartman in La Jolla to look at "Three Angels" at the La Jolla Playhouse. Paramount owns the original story, "Angels Cooking."

Bob Cobb, just back from Billings, Montana, where the natives named their ball park Cobb Park, in honor of their favorite son.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

1-NO TRUMP IS A FORCE

IT SEEMS almost paradoxical to most players, familiar with the procedures of past years, that a 1-No Trump response to an opening suit bid can be a positive one-time force upon the opener to bid again. Such is the case with the relatively new Roth-Stone system, which has stirred up great controversy in the United States while being used to win many championship tournaments.

The reason for the forcing feature of the Roth-Stone 1-No Trump reply is quite logical when understood. One reason is that, with less than a certain minimum count, yet a bit too much to pass, the partner of the suit opener must first bid 1-No Trump. He may even have a four-card fit for the suit if it is a minor, or a three-card fit for it if it is a major, a major never being opened unless of at least five cards. The minor may even be a three-card suit, to avoid opening a four-card major, which is never done.

After such a 1-No Trump response, the opener must bid any secondary suit he holds. He must not rebid the first suit unless it is of at least six cards. If he had opened with a major of five cards, he must bid a three-card minor on his second turn, if he has a 5-3-3-2 distribution, to avoid making his suit seem longer than five cards. This then sets the stage for the 1-No Trump responder to act next according to his judgment. In the system, these rebids are worked out quite precisely, giving very definite information.

Another unusual feature of this system is that a responder must not bid a two-over-one suit call, such as 2-Clubs over 1-Diamond, unless his hand is strong enough to guarantee he will make another bid on his second turn, after the opener rebids, unless that rebid is directly into game or slam.

Similar provisions apply to a "free bid" over an intervening opponent's bid. If it is at the one level it shows at least 11 points by the 4-3-2-1 count and guarantees a second bid unless the opener goes straight to game or slam. If it is at the two level, in a new suit, it assures at least 12 points and virtually commits the partnership to at least a game contract. If it is a raise to two in the opener's suit, it shows at least 10 points and is forcing upon partner unless the latter had made a "psychic" bid. If it has to be at the level of three or four in a new suit, it shows at least the equivalent of an opening bid with a five-card or longer suit. If it is three or four in the opener's suit, it is on at least 12 points, the maximum for a standard single raise. Having passed once doesn't alter these minimums. Lacking them, and finding no other fully qualified bid, the potential responder must pass and await developments.

Tomorrow's Question

Most players use a jump bid in a new suit, over partner's original call, to show great strength. Can you understand a method which prescribes that such a bid proclaims weakness, as a defensive measure? That feature of the controversial Roth-Stone system, successful in many American tournaments, will be explained tomorrow.

Judge Orders Woman to Diet

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 28 (AP)—Judge Fred R. Perkins yesterday ordered a 29-year-old woman to reduce her weight.

Evidence was given him that since Mrs. Filomena Ciaremello Skinner suffered a fall at work about five years ago her weight went from 155 to 225 pounds. She has been drawing disability payments under the workmen's compensation program.

Judge Perkins ordered her to return to work. In addition, he told her in a written opinion that she was to cut her weight to 200 pounds in the next six weeks or he would cut off her compensation payments.

The payments will be discontinued, he added, unless she is down to 190 pounds in 10 weeks. She now is receiving $18 a week. He ordered that reduced at $10.63.

"It is the duty of the employe," he said, "drastically to reduce her weight or to regard the continuance of such obesity as a luxury taking her out of the realm of employment for reasons unconnected with her original injury."

Ever since 1899, when a horseless carriage in New York struck down the first known motor vehicle traffic victim, American cities have been trying to teach pedestrians better street crossing habits.

You can steal the fashion scene with a new velvet cap and gloves in a dark, fall color!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The first bloom has gone from summer pastels and they have lost some of their enchantment. Summer darks have acquired a slight gray pall and no longer can be depended upon for dramatic impact. But the hot weather is still waxing and it's too warm to go into fall clothes. What can a gal do to put a keen edge on her mid-summer smartness?

Well, now is the time to steal the fashion scene with spanking freshness spiked with subtle, new fall transition touches.

Velvet Cap Or Beret

Stop at the hat bar in your favorite store and pick out a bit of velvet, shaped into something soft and becoming to replace that tired-looking straw. Awaiting your choice are charming little cap styles and berets. And be sure to get a pair of crocheted gloves in the same dark color. Black, blue or brown will give an exciting new fillip to your pastels — and they'll be accessories you can wear through fall into winter.

While you're about it, get a new velvet bow, too, to add "one touch of fall" to your blouses.

It's also time to give those flowery and white trinkets a rest. Put them away until June comes again. Gold and silver jewelry has a bright new appeal after the preponderance of summery gewgaws that everyone has been wearing. If you haven't invested in a pair of hoop earrings, now is the time as the fashion is still very much in vogue.

Another freshening touch for your summer frocks can be supplied by a new, dark-colored belt. The popular elasticized types can act as a waist-minimizer while supplying new color interest. Contour belts that dip from the hips in back, rise at the side and maintain normal position in front are big news for fall. Some are handsomely jeweled and metal-trimmed and well worth noting for turning a basic frock into a distinctive costume.

With just such touches as these — and your very best, most impeccable grooming—you can give your appearance fresh importance and take the lead in the current fashion tableau.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow: Potent source of charm.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 28 (INS)—No offer was sufficiently tempting to Anita Bjork to bring her to the U. S. after her "Miss Julie," made in Sweden, won her so much praise. But the young Swedish actress listened to Nunnally Johnson and will join Gregory Peck and Rita Gam in "Night People" in Munich. This won't take her as far from home.

The Bjork girl has had the same type training that made Garbo and Bergman such fine actresses. She also has the same charm and beauty that the two older stars had when they played in their first American films.

Here's one for the books: Mike Todd can't get permission from the board of directors to use his own Todd Ao process for his play, "A Night in Venice"!

I think the reason Mike gets the turndown for his own process is that the executive committee including Joseph Schenck, George Skouras and Rodgers and Hammerstein don't want anything to take the shine off "Oklahoma" when it makes its film debut in Todd Ao.

Mike had wanted to film his "Night in Venice," which is currently appearing at New York's Jones Beach, in color and three-D immediately, and, of course, he wanted to use his own development. But he saw the light after the boys talked to him.

Daytime Giveaway

A short time ago NBC television was faced with a full-fledged revolt on the part of its affiliates because it had seriously neglected daytime programming while CBS-TV was going great guns. NBC hurriedly — much too hurriedly — dipped into its capacious wallet and pulled out $3,000,000 to build itself a daytime schedule.

Part of the structure, a rickety one, is now on view. Frankly, I think we're all better out of doors in the fresh air. Let's take, for example, "Glamour Girl," a half-hour emanation from Hollywood at 10:30 a. m. Monday through Friday. This is a Cinderella show, a fairly exact copy of "Queen For A Day"—as if we needed another one.

John Crosby

Four females, covetous both of the camera and the earthly rewards promised the winner, are dredged out of the studio audience and tell the housewives at home why they want to be glamorous. (The word "glamor" or its derivatives was used roughly forty-two times the day I listened). The reasons range from the pitiable to the comic. A Scotswoman wanted to be the most glamorous grandmother around. A widow wanted to capture a man. A Japanese-American girl wanted a dinner dress because she'd never owned one. A woman who worked in educational radio and television for Indianapolis, said that her face and hair had deteriorated seriously after eighteen months of California sun and wanted both to be restored to their former beauty so the schoolchildren in Indianapolis wouldn't be too shocked when she got home.

An emcee named Harry Babbitt, who looks quite a lot like Bob Crosby, presides over these glamor-seeking ladies, asking terribly tired questions. "Where are you from?" "Why do you want to be glamorous?" "What's your name?" Or, in the case of the Scotswoman: "What do the men wear under the kilts?" ("Go up Waverley steps any windy day and you'll find the answer," retorted the Scotswoman).

Eventually, an applause meter determines which one of these ladies is the most deserving of glamor—the Indianapolis educator was deemed most worthy that particular day—and the lucky lady is turned over to the beauticians and the dress shops. I must say they do quite a job on the ladies. The feature of each show is the presentation of the preceding day's winner after she has been glamorized. They're coiffed, cosmetized, sheathed, shod, and furred to within an inch of their lives. Must scare the pants off their husbands when they get home. Then they get loaded with presents—trips to Hawaii and such all—and return to their presumably humdrum lives.

This was radio at its silliest, giving the housewife at home the vicarious thrill of a trip to Hawaii. I hate to see it fasten itself on television. But I'm afraid it will. On daytime television today, besides "Glamour Girl," you'll find "Strike It Rich," "Bride And Groom," "Double Or Nothing," "The Big Payoff" and "Break The Bank"—every one of which specializes in giving things away, chiefly to women.

The original radio giveaways, if memory serves, were rather indiscriminate affairs. You just loaded down anyone who happened to be passing through the studio at the time with whatever loot you could chivvy from the sponsor for free. Then came the hard luck story, a refinement that has spread to most of the more successful giveaways. Giveaways acquired a kind of phoney respectability by associating themselves with tragedy, a sort of immunity from criticism

I'm against free handouts on the air as an excuse for programming. It's easy. It's cheap. It's fairly popular. But already too many hours of time on both major TV networks are given over to them. The alternative, in increasing measure, is soap opera. NBC has just launched one and is planning a couple more. Giveaway and soap opera, the bane of the daytime radio, are taking over daytime television.

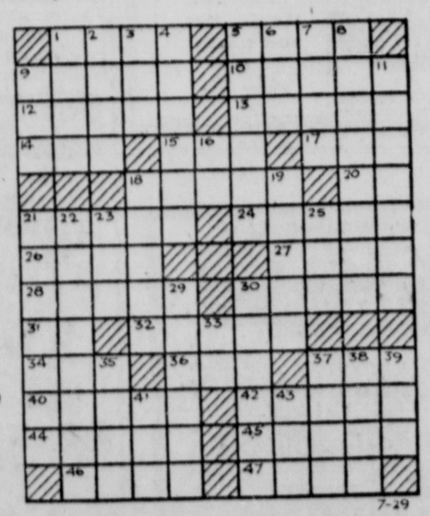
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

M O Q Q A Z P R N W F L D O O T W A R J W O W F F T Z F Q Y M—U Q N R P W.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AND EVERY TREE WHICH OVERHANGS THEE STARTS AWAY—OVID.

Midland Man Is Charged With Theft

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Distributed By INS)

Peace d'resistance.

Back at Lake Success we suggested that only the nations who signed the last peace treaty could fight the next war.

Last week or so-so Senator Knowland reversed the formula by taking down the scaffolding before he put up the wallpaper.

Knowland says only the nations who fought in Korea can sign the peace treaty. Senator, that's going to eliminate some of our fiercest Allies.

Fifteen nations offered us token assistance. A token will get you a ride on the subway.

But the other thirty or forty gumbeaters half-aloof was better than none. When the gong rang they ran.

A Midland man, Robert Loar of Railroad Street, was released under $1,000 bond Monday in Trial Magistrates Court for allegedly stealing household goods from a Dan's Mountain home last month.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason said Loar is accused of "breaking and entering the house of John Lohr on June 29 with intent to steal, take, and carry away personal property."

Loar was bound over to the October grand jury. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya preferred the charge.

Freed Under Bond

In another case, Eugene Jeffries, Frostburg, was freed under $1,000 bond in connection with a tavern burglary July 18. He also faces grand jury action.

Arrested in the same incident was Glenn Whitfield, 16, of Maple Street Extended, Frostburg. Magistrate J. Milton Dick released him into the custody of Sgt. Lloyd S. Truly of the Frostburg Police Department.

Three others, James McKee, 58, and his sons, Howard, 22, and Lawrence, 19, are being held in county jail. About $158 was taken from the tavern of "Big Lou" Riley after he was locked in a washroom.

James and Lawrence McKee are charged with receiving stolen goods. Jeffries, Howard McKee and Whitfield are accused of burglary.

Held For Shooting

In Garrett County, Guy C. McRobie, Vindex, is being detained at Oakland in default of $2,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Authorities said he admitted firing a .22 calibre bullet which lodged in the back of his brother-in-law, Claude Rohrbaugh. The bullet was removed at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

McRobie was arrested earlier this month at the home of a neighbor, Philip Duckworth. A family squabble was blamed for the shooting.

State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover said McRobie confessed to firing a shotgun with a pumpkin ball in the direction of Rohrbaugh. Both men had been drinking, he added.

Market Displays Strength Under Leadership Of Rails

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP) — The Stock Market staged a good demonstration of strength today under the leadership of steels. Lagging railroads were the greatest drawback in the market.

As viewed by the bare statistics, the stock market closed slightly lower.

The market fell away yesterday in a moderate manner as the cease fire in Korea became effective. At the opening today there was a rebound that brought a good showing of plus signs.

At the finish on the higher side were steels, rubbers, radio-televisions, most chemicals and oils, and the air lines.

Railroads were lower along with utilities. The motors, which had been depressed early in the session, made a steady showing at the close. Aircraft and coppers were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents and closed at $106.40. The industrial component of the average posted a gain of 30 cents, but that was canceled out by a decline of 50 cents in the railroads. Utilities were down a dime.

The list was composed of 1,076 individual issues, only 15 less than yesterday, with 319 gainers and 477 losers. There were 4 new highs and 84 new lows for the year registered during the day.

Volume came to 1,080,000 shares as compared with 1,210,000 shares yesterday, both well below average.

Midland Man Is Charged With Theft

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Distributed By INS)

Peace d'resistance.

Back at Lake Success we suggested that only the nations who signed the last peace treaty could fight the next war.

Last week or so-so Senator Knowland reversed the formula by taking down the scaffolding before he put up the wallpaper.

Knowland says only the nations who fought in Korea can sign the peace treaty. Senator, that's going to eliminate some of our fiercest Allies.

Fifteen nations offered us token assistance. A token will get you a ride on the subway.

But the other thirty or forty gumbeaters half-aloof was better than none. When the gong rang they ran.

A Midland man, Robert Loar of Railroad Street, was released under $1,000 bond Monday in Trial Magistrates Court for allegedly stealing household goods from a Dan's Mountain home last month.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason said Loar is accused of "breaking and entering the house of John Löhr on June 29 with intent to steal, take, and carry away personal property."

Loar was bound over to the October grand jury. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya preferred the charge.

Freed Under Bond

In another case, Eugene Jeffries, Frostburg, was freed under $1,000 bond in connection with a tavern burglary July 18. He also faces grand jury action.

Arrested in the same incident was Glenn Whitfield, 16, of Maple Street Extended, Frostburg. Magistrate J. Milton Dick released him into the custody of Sgt. Lloyd S. Truly of the Frostburg Police Department.

Three others, James McKee, 58, and his sons, Howard, 22, and Lawrence, 19, are being held in county jail. About $158 was taken from the tavern of "Big Lou" Riley after he was locked in a washroom.

James and Lawrence McKee are charged with receiving stolen goods. Jeffries, Howard McKee and Whitfield are accused of burglary.

Held For Shooting

In Garrett County, Guy C. McRobie, Vindex, is being detained at Oakland in default of $2,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Authorities said he admitted firing a .22 calibre bullet which lodged in the back of his brother-in-law, Claude Rohrbaugh. The bullet was removed at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

McRobie was arrested earlier this month at the home of a neighbor, Philip Duckworth. A family squabble was blamed for the shooting.

State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover said McRobie confessed to firing a shotgun with a pumpkin ball in the direction of Rohrbaugh. Both men had been drinking, he added.

Market Displays Strength Under Leadership Of Rails

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP) — The Stock Market staged a good demonstration of strength today under the leadership of steels. Lagging railroads were the greatest drawback in the market.

As viewed by the bare statistics, the stock market closed slightly lower.

The market fell away yesterday in a moderate manner as the cease fire in Korea became effective. At the opening today there was a rebound that brought a good showing of plus signs.

At the finish on the higher side were steels, rubbers, radio-televisions, most chemicals and oils, and the air lines.

Railroads were lower along with utilities. The motors, which had been depressed early in the session, made a steady showing at the close. Aircraft and coppers were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents and closed at $106.40. The industrial component of the average posted a gain of 30 cents, but that was canceled out by a decline of 50 cents in the railroads. Utilities were down a dime.

The list was composed of 1,076 individual issues, only 15 less than yesterday, with 319 gainers and 477 losers. There were 4 new highs and 84 new lows for the year registered during the day.

Volume came to 1,080,000 shares as compared with 1,210,000 shares yesterday, both well below average.

Woman's Sentence Doubled In Appeal Over Child-Beating

Grandmother To Serve 18 Months In Reformatory

Madeline Hannas' Conviction Upheld

The appeal of a Wiley Ford, W. Va., woman, convicted of beating and kicking her 15-months-old grandson, backfired yesterday morning in Circuit Court when her sentence was doubled.

Mrs. Madeline Hannas, the 45-year-old defendant, was appealing a nine-months sentence for assault handed down by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick on July 15.

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday upped her sentence to a period not to exceed 18 months, following a hearing Saturday. He had postponed a decision pending a report from West Virginia authorities.

Her sentence will be served in the Maryland Reformatory for Females.

Victim of the assault was Dennis Sulser, son of Mrs. Blanche Sulser, a daughter of Mrs. Hannas. One of the star witnesses on Saturday for the state's case, handled by James Getty, assistant state's attorney, was 14-year-old Donald Teets, 1316 Virginia Avenue.

Boy Watched Incident

Police Lt. R. R. Johnston testified that after bringing the woman to headquarters and charging her with being drunk and assaulting her grandson, Teets, an eyewitness, told of the South End incident which occurred on July 14.

The boy noted that he saw the defendant kick the baby, after leaving a Virginia Avenue store. Later when she left a market further south on the avenue, she dropped her groceries, the boy said.

Teets told how he obtained a cardboard box and picked up the groceries for her. Later the boy said she walked so fast toward Wiley Ford that the small boy could not keep up with her and she ended by dragging him by the arm.

Assault Repeated

She stopped, Teets testified, and roughly twirled the child around by the arm. Teets said he went to her and warned he would "take a club" to her if she beat or mistreated the child again.

At the River Avenue and Roberts Street intersection, the Teets boy said Mrs. Hannas again kicked the child when he sat down.

Then he told Judge Henderson, "I took a club to her." Upon cross-examination by Edward J. Ryan, counsel for Mrs. Hannas, it was revealed he hit her with a small board.

Denies Intoxication

At this time Lt. Johnston arrived on the scene and arrested her. Several eyewitnesses to the incident which took place from the 1300-block on Virginia Avenue over River Avenue to Roberts Street also testified.

Mrs. Hannas, in taking the stand on her defense stated she was only dusting the child's clothes off after he had been sitting in the dirt. She also claimed she was not intoxicated, and that she had drunk only one beer.

In passing sentence, Judge Henderson warned Mrs. Hannas that she must refrain from the use of intoxicants after she has served her time.

Sgt. Shober Asks Transfer

In a letter to Police Commissioner John J. Long, Sgt. Frank A. Shober yesterday requested a transfer from a night to a day platoon on the Cumberland Police Department.

Sgt. Shober's letter pointed out he had indicated in the past his desire to utilize his 26 years of service in the department to transfer from the 1 to 9 a. m. platoon to the 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. platoon.

He added he understood that such a request for transfer, if granted, means he would have to relinquish his sergeant's rating, and added he was prepared to make the sacrifice if necessary.

Commissioner Long, who praised Sgt. Shober as an able officer, said he has asked Chief R. E. Flynn to make the change as soon as possible.

The difficulty, officials said, is that the day platoon already has a sergeant—John H. Newhouse, who has more seniority than Sgt. Shober, and a sergeant must be assigned to the 1 to 9 platoon to take charge when the lieutenant has his days off.

5 District Highway Projects Listed

See Voices Objections To SRC Plan

Delegate Says Added Taxes, Fees Unwanted

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, yesterday said there were three main reasons why he voted against the State Roads Commission's 12-year program in the recent session of the General Assembly.

The first reason, Delegate See said, was that he did not like the idea of imposing an additional cent on the state gasoline tax.

The second, he said, was that he did not like the idea of license fees being raised $5 and $7.

Dislikes Fund Distribution

The third and final reason, the delegate said, was that he did not like the way gasoline taxes are divided in Maryland.

See said 50 per cent of all gasoline taxes are allocated to the state, 30 per cent to Baltimore City and the remaining 20 per cent to the 23 counties.

Baltimore City, he said, gets entirely too big a share of the gasoline tax. He added, however, that the division was made long before he entered the Legislature, and that it would be difficult to change the system, due to the power Baltimore has in the Legislature.

Favors McCoole Job

Delegate See said he has no argument with Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., on the overall 12-year program, but merely wants to reverse the priorities of projects planned on McMullen Highway and the Westernport-McCoole road.

On Monday, See sent a telegram to Russell H. McCain, SRC chairman, endorsing Senator Robert B. Kimble's request that the Westernport-McCoole job be given top priority.

Declaring motorists are already overburdened on taxes on vehicles —which are essential in today's life—See said he is and always has been in favor of good roads, but does not favor the present division of taxes.

Whitworth Gives Outline Of Plan By Committee

McCoole-Westernport Road Tops Program

Del. Horace P. Whitworth Jr., yesterday explained five projects have been assured Allegany County in the first four-year phase of the State Roads Commission's 12-year road improvement program.

One of them is the Westernport-McCoole Road, the delegate said. This piece of highway has been receiving much attention as Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County and Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County House delegation, have written to Russell McCain, chairman of the SRC, advocating work on it.

Whitworth pointed out that he was on the sub-committee of the House of Delegates Ways and Means Committee which during the past session of General Assembly formulated the 12-year program.

Five Projects Assured

During the formation of the program in the committee Whitworth said McCain assured him of five Allegany County projects in the first four years.

The Westernport to McCoole project will run for 4.84 miles on State Route 135. The road will be widened from 18 feet to 24 feet and curves will be modified. The estimated cost will be $652,000 for construction; $98,000 for engineering, and $50,000 for rights-of-way.

Another project to which McCain agreed during the first four years was on Route 36 from Westernport to Phoenix Hill, a distance of 2.55 miles. Curves will be modified and the highway will be resurfaced. The cost is estimated at $225,000.

The third is from U. S. Route 40, Whitworth explained, 2.33 miles to Corriganville for modifying curves, resurfacing and making the roadway 22 feet wide at all places at a cost of $435,000.

Lists Other Jobs

The fourth, Whitworth listed, is from Corriganville to Barrelville on Route 36 for modifying curves and resurfacing at a cost of $474,000.

The fifth project is on Route 36 from Barrelville to Morantown, a distance of 3.72 miles, which will be resurfaced and have the curves eased at a cost of $560,000.

This is a total of $2,494,000 scheduled for this county under the first four years, Whitworth said.

Whitworth also noted that the House Ways and Means Committee sponsored the program and when the bill came for a vote in the House two of Allegany County's delegates voted against it, one of whom was Chairman See and the other, Del. Lester B. Reed of Mt. Savage.

Reed Notes Reasons For SRC Stand

Believes Motorists Treated Unfairly

Delegate Lester B. Reed of the Allegany County Delegation last night said he favors many aspects of the overall 12-year program advocated by the State Roads Commission but voted against the measure at the General Assembly for several reasons.

The Mt. Savage delegate said he always has been in favor of good roads and road improvements but that he voted against the huge undertaking because:

1. The tax burden or cost of the program is placed entirely upon the motorists. He believes this to be inequitable because good highways benefit everybody, not just the motoring public.

2. He objects to the increase in the tax on gasoline plus the increase on automobile license fees as is provided in the bill.

3. He believes the SRC figured on spending too much money for engineering and supervision.

4. He termed the division of money to be spent as unfair to the various counties involved. For example he noted in the whole program Frederick County which has a total population of approximately 69,000 gets 7½ per cent while Allegany County with a population of about 90,000 is allowed only 4 per cent.

Reed, a service station operator, calculates the average motorist spends from $100 to $110 each year on taxes and license fees.

The delegate said he had sent a telegram to Sen. Robert B. Kimble endorsing the state senator's request that first priority in Allegany County program be given to the McCoole-Westernport road instead of the McMullen Highway which had been designated the No. 1 job to be started in the county.

County Members To Attend 4-H Camp Aug. 3-8

At least 51 Allegany County 4-H Club members plan to attend the "Five Glorious Days" of 4-H Club Week, August 3 to 8 on the University of Maryland campus, College Park.

Thirty-nine girls under supervision of Miss Thelma Allin, assistant home demonstration agent, and 12 boys led by Charles Llewellyn, McCoole, expect to participate in the five-day program.

A bus will leave from Van Meter's store in Cresaptown at 8:30 a. m. Monday and will pick up members in Cumberland at 8:45 a. m. in front of the Court House.

At Flintstone members will be picked up at Willison's store. Some 1200 girls and boys are expected to attend Club Week this year, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, and their activities will include daily classes in homemaking and agriculture.

Two of the features of the week include a tour of the nation's capital Thursday while Friday a pageant, state 4-H dress review and All-Star Consecration will take place.

4-H Dairy Calves To Be Inspected

On Friday an inspection of calves, scheduled for showing at the Cumberland Fair next month, will be made on the farms of Allegany County 4-H Dairy Calf Club members.

Making the tour will be Dr. C. N. Foose, local veterinarian, and Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent. About 24 calves, Steger noted, will be tested for Bang's disease and tuberculosis in compliance with Maryland health regulations. Steger pointed out that about 18 club members will be visited during the inspection.

Disabled Vets Training Ends In July 1956

Training programs for disabled World War I veterans must be completed by July 25, 1956 under terms of Public Law 16 providing rehabilitation training, Veterans Administration said.

This fact, VA said, gives significance to the month of July this year for vetgrans of World War II who may be eligible for such training but may not yet have started it.

Veterans with a service connected disability who commence vocational training under provisions of Public Law 16 during the current month will thus have a maximum of three years training which they may be able to take, since none of that training may extend beyond the 1956 date.

Disabled World War II veterans who have been planning to take t' is type of vocational training were advised to consult with officials at the nearest VA offic about their plans.

Veterans eligible for vocational rehabilitation are those who have suffered a service connected disability which has resulted in a handicap and a need for vocational training to overcome the handicap resulting.

Polio Cases In Maryland Now Total 95

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — Health authorities today reported that Maryland has recorded 95 polio cases so far this year, but said it was too early to tell whether the state will have a bad polio season.

Fifty-four of the cases were listed as paralytic, and 41 as nonparalytic.

Dr. Edward Davens, chief of the Bureau of Preventive Medicine in the State Health Department, said the relatively large number of less serious nonparalytic cases is "grounds for congratulation."

He said the total number was running somewhat higher than last year but was still below the "critical incidence" level established by the Public Health Department.

Twenty-seven of the cases were reported in Baltimore, with 14 listed as paralytic and 13 as nonparalytic.

Montgomery County, one of the hardest hit areas, has recorded 25 cases. But county health officer L. V. Ellicott emphasized that the figure included 13 cases at Chestnut Lodge Sanitarium in Rockville which were listed as polio but which are still considered "in doubt" by doctors.

In Baltimore County, 14 paralytic and 10 nonparalytic cases have been listed so far.

Dr. Ross Davies, assistant health commissioner in Baltimore, said it was too early to tell whether the city's 14 paralytic cases point toward a bad season. He observed that the disease does not usually reach its peak until late summer or early fall.

Police Heads Air Case On Loitering

Closed Session Held In City Hall Office Of Commissioner Long

Following a meeting yesterday, Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long promised an early answer to two local businessmen who sought public apologies for arrests on charges of loitering.

Commissioner Long described the meeting, held at 4:20 p. m. in his office in City Hall as arranged "to get all the facts of the case."

He said the facts were presented and he will give an answer.

No action was taken at the meeting, he said, adding that if any action is forthcoming, it will come from his letter of reply to Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the two men.

He said the answer will be given "as soon as possible."

The meeting was scheduled by Long after Ryan appeared before the Mayor and Council Monday, demanding a public apology from the Police Department for two of five men arrested last Wednesday on North Liberty Street on charges of loitering.

Dismisses Charges

The next day, Magistrate J. Milton Dick dismissed charges against the five men, including William F. LaNeve and Abe Loundy, who sought the apologies.

Present at the meeting were Commissioner Long, Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, Lt. James E. Van, who arrested the men in front of 19 North Liberty Street on orders of the commissioner, and Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor.

Ryan, Loundy and LaNeve comprised the group seeking redress.

Melvin "Hook" Treiber was present to represent his father-in-law, who operates the business at 19 North Liberty Street.

Also attending were Frederick D. Steiding, president of the Cumberland Office Supply Company, and Samuel Wertheimer, manager of the Medical Arts Pharmacy, North Liberty Street businessmen.

Long said Steiding and Wertheimer, who made the original complaints, reiterated their objections to loitering on North Liberty Street.

Complaints Are General

Wertheimer said he and Steiding have complained to the Police Department on a number of occasions about loitering on North Liberty Street, but said the complaints were general and not directed at any individual.

The complaints, he stressed, were directed at the general location on the street and were made after customers of both businesses had complained on numerous occasions.

The complaints, Wertheimer said, had been made many times, with nothing done.

There has been no loitering on the street since the arrests, he added.

The commissioner told representatives of the press and radio, "I'll see you boys later" when the meeting opened.

Loundy and LaNeve remarked that Ryan walked out of the meeting before it broke up about 5 p.m.

No Apology Given

Loundy said Lt. Van did not apologize and said "It looks like another trial" in describing the meeting.

Asked if an apology was given, LaNeve replied, "H— no."

Ryan said he and his clients stayed in the meeting as long as their presence had any meaning and then walked out.

He said the city officials by that time had all of the facts and that there were "no two sides to the question."

"We knew it was wrong," he said in commenting on the arrests, "and it was our contention that it was up to the commissioner to apologize."

The local unit will show color films of its two-week summer field training at Camp A. P. Hill, Va., at the local State Armory Monday at 9:30 p. m. Friends and families of unit members are invited to view the first showing of the motion picture.

Yesterday the unit enlisted another member to the company. He is John E. Lewis, 23, of 221 Race Street, a Korean War veteran with four years service in the Army. He was enlisted as a corporal and is a graduate of Fort Hill High School.

Company officers said there are still many vacancies in the unit for eligible young men of 17 years of age and up. The company has access to over 150 service schools for teaching different trades and occupations.

Move May Speed Construction Of New Addition

3 College Projects Also Under Study

State officials yesterday uncorked a bottleneck which has long held up the construction of a new $250,000 addition at Miners Hospital in Frostburg by authorizing the purchase of additional land.

Robert W. Sheckells of Cumberland, building engineer for the Department of Budget and Procurement and a representative of the Department of Public Improvements, gave the go-ahead signal yesterday at a conference with hospital authorities.

Attending were F. Morton Clark, planning engineer of the State Planning Commission; A. Charles Stewart, president of the hospital board of directors, and Michael J. Byrnes, secretary-treasurer of the board.

Money Has Been Available

Money for the new addition—to be used primarily for maternity and juvenile patients—has been available for some time, but architectural and engineering difficulties have helped hold up the completion of plans.

Sheckells said the purchase of additional land, consisting of four tracts adjoining the Skidmore property on which the addition will stand, will allow work to proceed.

The board told the state officials that the four adjoining tracts, measuring 72 by 222 feet all told, could be bought at a cost of $3,729.60.

The engineer told the board that Nathan C. Smith, director of the Department of Public Improvements, had instructed him to authorize the board to buy the land if he felt it advisable.

Meanwhile, George Layman, commander of Farrady Post 24, American Legion at Frostburg, announced that the post had sent a telegram to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin protesting the delay in getting construction under way.

Sheckells and Clark also discussed $700,000 worth of proposed construction projects at Frostburg State Teachers College with college officials.

Three Buildings Sought

Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, has asked for a men's residence hall, a second women's residence hall, and a central dining room.

The State Board of Education has okayed all three projects and has asked the Planning Commission to recommend that Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin set aside money for the construction in next year's budget.

Most urgently needed, said Miss Compton, is the men's residence hall, since the college now has some 50 resident male students and no college-owned quarters for them.

James L. Reid, supervisor of school plants division for the State Board of Education, who attended yesterday's conference at the college, will appear before the Plan-

Youth Breaks Neck In Freak Diving Mishap

Lonaconing Boy Saved By Lifeguard

An alert lifeguard saved the life of a Lonaconing youth who broke his neck in a freak diving accident late yesterday at the Frostburg Swimming Pool.

Wayne Murphy, 18, was in "fairly good" condition last night at Miners Hospital, where he was in a traction arrangement designed to reduce pressure on his spinal column from a cracked vertebra in his neck.

Hit Inner Tube

Nineteen-year-old Allan Robison of Frostburg, lifeguard at the pool, pulled the helpless youth from the water after he saw Mudphy strike his head on a rubber inner tube. The accident happened at 5:40 p. m.

Charles Pinto, manager of the pool, said Murphy had tried to dive through an inner tube which another boy had pushed toward him.

His arms went through the tube, but his head struck the outer rim of the tube. Stunned, he slid on through the tube into the water beneath.

Robison, who had been watching the stunt from his lifeguard perch above the water, saw that Murphy was helpless in the water, dived in and pulled him out.

Expected To Recover

The crowd of about 100 persons in the pool apparently failed to realize anything was wrong until they saw Robison pull Murphy's limp form from the water.

Pinto called the Durst Ambulance Service, which took the boy to Miners Hospital, where he regained full consciousness, although he was paralyzed from the waist down. The condition was expected to be temporary.

If Robison had not seen the incident, said Pinto, the youth probably would have drowned, since those in the water were unable to see that he was in trouble.

Weather

Temperature stretched up to close 90 degrees yesterday, but an ideal humidity percentage and comfortable fresh breezes kept conditions at perfect levels. High reading was 89 degrees yesterday according to Constitution Park weather station; low was 67, and at 8 p. m. mercury stood at 80. Humidity at 6 p. m. was a dry 32.5 per cent. The Weather Bureau says today will be fair with thermometers tipping 84 to 90 degrees for high.

Trooper Lemuel E. Porter of Pikesville promoted to first class and assigned to duty at Aberdeen.

Sgt. Thomas F. Smith of the division of identification promoted to detective sergeant.

State's Farmers Scan Skies For Rain As Crops Grow Thirsty Again

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP)—Many Maryland farmers were scanning the skies anxiously again today for more rain.

About the only hope the weatherman could give them was for scattered showers and thunderstorms Thursday or Friday. No general, day-long rains were in sight.

Almost a week has passed now since the heavy downpour last Wednesday night and Thursday morning brought relief from nearly seven weeks of dry weather and rescued crops from a critical shortage of moisture.

Already, pastures and hay fields are beginning to need more rain badly. More rain might help the sweet corn crop from winding up a near failure. Field corn certainly could use more rain.

County agents in two of Maryland's richest farming counties—Carroll and Frederick—said the situation would become critical again in 10 days to 2 weeks if there are no good, soaking rains.

These counties have had no more showers since last week's "beautiful rain." Some other sections of the state have had light showers.

The weekly crop report issued today by the University of Maryland Farm Extension Service and the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reflected the life-saving effect of last week's rain.

The corn crop responded well, it said. Soybeans made a rapid recovery. Tobacco had withstood the dry weather well. Clover revived rapidly.

The tomato crop benefitted greatly, but yields will be cut somewhat. Late-planted sweet corn fields benefitted considerably, but early fields produced only half a crop and there may be some permanent damage to the later crop. Sweet potatoes were not badly hurt. Dry weather cut the quantity of cucumbers. It hurt the size and quality of cantaloups, now being harvested. The rain may have saved the watermelon crop. It brightened peach and apple prospects.

The big damage factors noted in the report were the seared pastures, the failure of alfalfa to come back strongly after the rain, and the possibility of permanent damage to sweet corn.

In Frederick and Carroll Counties it was the hay and pasture situation which bothered farmers most, because they specialize in dairy operations.

"Pastures need quite a bit more rain," said Roy Castle, assistant farm agent for Frederick County. "That is where you notice the effects of the dry weather most—in the hay fields and permanent pastures.

"One farmer told me he is grazing 130 acres of pasture to give his 50 head of cattle enough to eat. Normally, 25 acres of pasture would carry that many cows."

Castle said the corn crop is at a point where it particularly needs more moisture. It is tasseling.

"Any lack of moisture between now and the time corn matures will be damaging," he said.

William Allenberg, assistant farm agent in Carroll County, was the one who talked about last week's "beautiful rain."

It came just in time to restore the crops grown for commercial canning, except for sweet corn, he said. There are some signs even it may recover, he said, but it is likely it will be the crop that suffered most.

This estimate did not take pastures into consideration.

"There is a terrific shortage in pastures," Allenberg said. "It was a case where they were too far gone, and it is the bad time of year for them to make a comeback."

This leaves dairy farmers faced with a serious shortage of hay next winter. To make up for lack of pasturage, they already have fed some of the hay they harvested earlier this season. Then the dry weather cut the second growth of hay and it will take a lot more rain to give them another good stand before the season closes.

Woman's Sentence Doubled In Appeal Over Child-Beating

Grandmother To Serve 18 Months In Reformatory

Madeline Hannas' Conviction Upheld

The appeal of a Wiley Ford, W. Va., woman, convicted of beating and kicking her 15-months-old grandson, backfired yesterday morning in Circuit Court when her sentence was doubled.

Mrs. Madeline Hannas, the 45-year-old defendant, was appealing a nine-months sentence for assault handed down by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick on July 15.

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday upped her sentence to a period not to exceed 18 months, following a hearing Saturday. He had postponed a decision pending a report from West Virginia authorities.

Her sentence will be served in the Maryland Reformatory for Females.

Victim of the assault was Dennis Sulser, son of Mrs. Blanche Sulser, a daughter of Mrs. Hannas. One of the star witnesses on Saturday for the state's case, handled by James Getty, assistant state's attorney, was 14-year-old Donald Teets, 1316 Virginia Avenue.

Boy Watched Incident

Police Lt. R. R. Johnston testified that after bringing the woman to headquarters and charging her with being drunk and assaulting her grandson, Teets, an eyewitness, told of the South End incident which occurred on July 14.

The boy noted that he saw the defendant kick the baby, after leaving a Virginia Avenue store. Later when she left a market further south on the avenue, she dropped her groceries, the boy said.

Teets told how he obtained a cardboard box and picked up the groceries for her. Later the boy said she walked so fast toward Wiley Ford that the small boy could not keep up with her and she ended by dragging him by the arm.

Assault Repeated

She stopped, Teets testified, and roughly twirled the child around by the arm. Teets said he went to her and warned he would "take a club" to her if she beat or mistreated the child again.

At the River Avenue and Roberts Street intersection, the Teets boy said Mrs. Hannas again kicked the child when he sat down.

Then he told Judge Henderson, "I took a club to her." Upon cross-examination by Edward J. Ryan, counsel for Mrs. Hannas, it was revealed he hit her with a small board.

Denies Intoxication

At this time Lt. Johnston arrived on the scene and arrested her. Several eyewitnesses to the incident which took place from the 1300-block on Virginia Avenue over River Avenue to Roberts Street also testified.

Mrs. Hannas, in taking the stand on her defense stated she was only dusting the child's clothes off after he had been sitting in the dirt. She also claimed she was not intoxicated, and that she had drunk only one beer.

In passing sentence, Judge Henderson warned Mrs. Hannas that she must refrain from the use of intoxicants after she has served her time.

Sgt. Shober Asks Transfer

In a letter to Police Commissioner John J. Long, Sgt. Frank A. Shober yesterday requested a transfer from a night to a day platoon on the Cumberland Police Department.

Sgt. Shober's letter pointed out he had indicated in the past his desire to utilize his 26 years of service in the department to transfer from the 1 to 9 a. m. platoon to the 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. platoon.

He added he understood that such a request for transfer, if granted, means he would have to relinquish his sergeant's rating, and added he was prepared to make the sacrifice if necessary.

Commissioner Long, who praised Sgt. Shober as an able officer, said he has asked Chief R. E. Flynn to make the change as soon as possible.

The difficulty, officials said, is that the day platoon already has a sergeant—John H. Newhouse, who has more seniority than Sgt. Shober, and a sergeant must be assigned to the 1 to 9 platoon to take charge when the lieutenant has his days off.

5 District Highway Projects Listed

See Voices Objections To SRC Plan

Delegate Says Added Taxes, Fees Unwanted

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, yesterday said there were three main reasons why he voted against the State Roads Commission's 12-year program in the recent session of the General Assembly.

The first reason, Delegate See said, was that he did not like the idea of imposing an additional cent on the state gasoline tax.

The second, he said, was that he did not like the idea of license fees being raised $5 and $7.

Dislikes Fund Distribution

The third and final reason, the delegate said, was that he did not like the way gasoline taxes are divided in Maryland.

See said 50 per cent of all gasoline taxes are allocated to the state, 30 per cent to Baltimore City and the remaining 20 per cent to the 23 counties.

Baltimore City, he said, gets entirely too big a share of the gasoline tax. He added, however, that the division was made long before he entered the Legislature, and that it would be difficult to change the system, due to the power Baltimore has in the Legislature.

Favors McCoole Job

Delegate See said he has no argument with Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., on the overall 12-year program, but merely wants to reverse the priorities of projects planned on McMullen Highway and the Westernport-McCoole road.

On Monday, See sent a telegram to Russell H. McCain, SRC chairman, endorsing Senator Robert B. Kimble's request that the Westernport-McCoole job be given top priority.

Declaring motorists are already overburdened on taxes on vehicles —which are essential in today's life—See said he is and always has been in favor of good roads, but does not favor the present division of taxes.

Whitworth Gives Outline Of Plan By Committee

McCoole-Westernport Road Tops Program

Del. Horace P. Whitworth Jr., yesterday explained five projects have been assured Allegany County in the first four-year phase of the State Roads Commission's 12-year road improvement program.

One of them is the Westernport-McCoole Road, the delegate said. This piece of highway has been receiving much attention as Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County and Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County House delegation, have written to Russell McCain, chairman of the SRC, advocating work on it.

Whitworth pointed out that he was on the sub-committee of the House of Delegates Ways and Means Committee which during the past session of General Assembly formulated the 12-year program.

Five Projects Assured

During the formation of the program in the committee Whitworth said McCain assured him of five Allegany County projects in the first four years.

The Westernport to McCoole project will run for 4.84 miles on State Route 135. The road will be widened from 18 feet to 24 feet and curves will be modified. The estimated cost will be $652,000 for construction; $98,000 for engineering, and $50,000 for rights-of-way.

Another project to which McCain agreed during the first four years was on Route 36 from Westernport to Phoenix Hill, a distance of 2.55 miles. Curves will be modified and the highway will be resurfaced. The cost is estimated at $225,000.

The third is from U. S. Route 40, Whitworth explained, 2.33 miles to Corriganville for modifying curves, resurfacing and making the roadway 22 feet wide at all places at a cost of $435,000.

Lists Other Jobs

The fourth, Whitworth listed, is from Corriganville to Barrelville on Route 36 for modifying curves and resurfacing at a cost of $474,000.

The fifth project is on Route 36 from Barrelville to Morantown, a distance of 3.72 miles, which will be resurfaced and have the curves eased at a cost of $560,000.

This is a total of $2,494,000 scheduled for this county under the first four years, Whitworth said.

Whitworth also noted that the House Ways and Means Committee sponsored the program and when the bill came for a vote in the House two of Allegany County's delegates voted against it, one of whom was Chairman See and the other, Del. Lester B. Reed of Mt. Savage.

Reed Notes Reasons For SRC Stand

Believes Motorists Treated Unfairly

Delegate Lester B. Reed of the Allegany County Delegation last night said he favors many aspects of the overall 12-year program advocated by the State Roads Commission but voted against the measure at the General Assembly for several reasons.

The Mt. Savage delegate said he always has been in favor of good roads and road improvements but that he voted against the huge undertaking because:

1. The tax burden or cost of the program is placed entirely upon the motorists. He believes this to be inequitable because good highways benefit everybody, not just the motoring public.

2. He objects to the increase in the tax on gasoline plus the increase on automobile license fees as is provided in the bill.

3. He believes the SRC figured on spending too much money for engineering and supervision.

4. He termed the division of money to be spent as unfair to the various counties involved. For example he noted in the whole program Frederick County which has a total population of approximately 69,000 gets 7½ per cent while Allegany County with a population of about 90,000 is allowed only 4 per cent.

Reed, a service station operator, calculates the average motorist spends from $100 to $110 each year on taxes and license fees.

The delegate said he had sent a telegram to Sen. Robert B. Kimble endorsing the state senator's request that first priority in Allegany County program be given to the McCoole-Westernport road instead of the McMullen Highway which had been designated the No. 1 job to be started in the county.

County Members To Attend 4-H Camp Aug. 3-8

At least 51 Allegany County 4-H Club members plan to attend the "Five Glorious Days" of 4-H Club Week, August 3 to 8 on the University of Maryland campus, College Park.

Thirty-nine girls under supervision of Miss Thelma Allin, assistant home demonstration agent, and 12 boys led by Charles Llewellyn, McCoole, expect to participate in the five-day program.

A bus will leave from Van Meter's store in Cresaptown at 8:30 a. m. Monday and will pick up members in Cumberland at 8:45 a. m. in front of the Court House.

At Flintstone members will be picked up at Willison's store. Some 1200 girls and boys are expected to attend Club Week this year, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, and their activities will include daily classes in homemaking and agriculture.

Two of the features of the week include a tour of the nation's capital Thursday while Friday a pageant, state 4-H dress review and All-Star Consecration will take place.

4-H Dairy Calves To Be Inspected

On Friday an inspection of calves, scheduled for showing at the Cumberland Fair next month, will be made on the farms of Allegany County 4-H Dairy Calf Club members.

Making the tour will be Dr. C. N. Foose, local veterinarian, and Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent. About 24 calves, Steger noted, will be tested for Bang's disease and tuberculosis in compliance with Maryland health regulations. Steger pointed out that about 18 club members will be visited during the inspection.

Disabled Vets Training Ends In July 1956

Training programs for disabled World War I veterans must be completed by July 25, 1956 under terms of Public Law 16 providing rehabilitation training, Veterans Administration said.

This fact, VA said, gives significance to the month of July this year for veterans of World War II who may be eligible for such training but may not yet have started it.

Veterans with a service connected disability who commence vocational training under provisions of Public Law 16 during the current month will thus have a maximum of three years training which they may be able to take, since none of that training may extend beyond the 1956 date.

Disabled World War II veterans who have been planning to take t is type of vocational training were advised to consult with officials at the nearest VA offic about their plans.

Veterans eligible for vocational rehabilitation are those who have suffered a service connected disability which has resulted in a handicap and a need for vocational training to overcome the handicap resulting.

Polio Cases In Maryland Now Total 95

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP) — Health authorities today reported that Maryland has recorded 95 polio cases so far this year, but said it was too early to tell whether the state will have a bad polio season.

Fifty-four of the cases were listed as paralytic, and 41 as nonparalytic.

Dr. Edward Davens, chief of the Bureau of Preventive Medicine in the State Health Department, said the relatively large number of less serious nonparalytic cases is "grounds for congratulation."

He said the total number was running somewhat higher than last year but was still below the "critical incidence" level established by the Public Health Department.

Twenty-seven of the cases were reported in Baltimore, with 14 listed as paralytic and 13 as nonparalytic.

Montgomery County, one of the hardest hit areas, has recorded 25 cases. But county health officer L. V. Ellicott emphasized that the figure included 13 cases at Chestnut Lodge Sanitarium in Rockville which were listed as polio but which are still considered "in doubt" by doctors.

In Baltimore County, 14 paralytic and 10 nonparalytic cases have been listed so far.

Dr. Ross Davies, assistant health commissioner in Baltimore, said it was too early to tell whether the city's 14 paralytic cases point toward a bad season. He observed that the disease does not usually reach its peak until late summer or early fall.

Police Heads Air Case On Loitering

Closed Session Held In City Hall Office Of Commissioner Long

Following a meeting yesterday, Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long promised an early answer to two local businessmen who sought public apologies for arrests on charges of loitering.

Commissioner Long described the meeting, held at 4:20 p. m. in his office in City Hall as arranged "to get all the facts of the case."

He said the facts were presented and he will give an answer.

No action was taken at the meeting, he said, adding that if any action is forthcoming, it will come from his letter of reply to Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the two men.

He said the answer will be given "as soon as possible."

The meeting was scheduled by Long after Ryan appeared before the Mayor and Council Monday, demanding a public apology from the Police Department for two of five men arrested last Wednesday on North Liberty Street on charges of loitering.

Dismisses Charges

The next day, Magistrate J. Milton Dick dismissed charges against the five men, including William F. LaNeve and Abe Loundy, who sought the apologies.

Present at the meeting were Commissioner Long, Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, Lt. James E. Van, who arrested the men in front of 19 North Liberty Street on orders of the commissioner, and Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor.

Ryan, Loundy and LaNeve comprised the group seeking redress.

Also attending were Frederick D. Steiding, president of the Cumberland Office Supply Company, and Samuel Wertheimer, manager of the Medical Arts Pharmacy, North Liberty Street businessmen.

Long said Steiding and Wertheimer, who made the original complaints, reiterated their objections to loitering on North Liberty Street.

Complaints Are General

Wertheimer said he and Steiding have complained to the Police Department on a number of occasions about loitering on North Liberty Street, but said the complaints were general and not directed at any individual.

The complaints, he stressed, were directed at the general location on the street and were made after customers of both businesses had complained on numerous occasions.

The complaints, Wertheimer said, had been made many times, with nothing done.

There has been no loitering on the street since the arrests, he added.

The commissioner told representatives of the press and radio, "I'll see you boys later" when the meeting opened.

Loundy and LaNeve remarked that Ryan walked out of the meeting before it broke up about 5 p.m.

No Apology Given

Loundy said Lt. Van did not apologize and said "It looks like another trial" in describing the meeting.

Asked if an apology was given, LaNeve replied, "H— no."

Ryan said he and his clients stayed in the meeting as long as their presence had any meaning and then walked out.

He said the city officials by that time had all of the facts and that there were "no two sides to the question."

"We knew it was wrong," he said in commenting on the arrests, "and it was our contention that it was up to the commissioner to apologize."

Local Man Joins Air Force Cadets

Richard E. Mason, 214 Maryland Avenue, has been sent to Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, N. Y., for processing for the Air Force Cadets, according to M/Sgt. David Rinker, recruiter.

Mason is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and the University of Maryland.

William Platt, Paw Paw, W. Va., was enlisted in the Air Force for four years and has been dispatched to Sampson Air Force Base for basic training. He is a graduate of Paw Paw High School.

Local National Guard Promotes Eight Members

Five Will Attend Service Schools

SFC Robert L. See was promoted to master sergeant, Cpl. Carl Riggleman promoted to sergeant, Sgt. William C. Northcraft to sergeant first class, Sgt. John E. Roby to sergeant first class.

Cpl. Robert A Sisk to sergeant, Pfc. Thomas E. Andrews to corporal, Pfc. Clarence J. Northcraft to corporal, and Pfc. Willard C. Cook to corporal.

Officers also announced that five company members will attend service school training in the next four months.

Cpl. Willard C. Cook is slated to attend an eight-week food service school at Fort George G. Meade next month.

Sgt. James L. Roby and Cpl. Richard C. Bosley will attend a 17-week course in communications at Fort Benning, Ga. beginning in September, and Sgt. John E. Roby, Headquarter Company's motor sergeant, will attend a 10-week automotive supervision school at Fort Benning starting in November.

Sgt. Graydon S. Dunlap will attend a six-week operations school at Fort Benning in October. He will study map layout and reading.

The local unit will show color films of its two-week summer field training at Camp A. P. Hill, Va., at the local State Armory Monday at 9:30 p. m. Friends and families of unit members are invited to view the first showing of the motion picture.

Yesterday the unit enlisted another member to the company. He is John E. Lewis, 23, of 221 Race Street, a Korean War veteran with four years service in the Army. He was enlisted as a corporal and is a graduate of Fort Hill High School.

Company officers said there are still many vacancies in the unit for eligible young men of 17 years of age and up. The company has access to over 150 service schools for teaching different trades and occupations.

Report Is Slated On Inspection Of 11 Dwellings Here

Balloting by mail by members of the Chamber took place for the past two weeks to pick 10 of 20 nominees for office. The 20 nominees were selected by a nominating primary two weeks ago.

Election judges who counted the ballots last night in the Chamber of Commerce office in the Liberty Trust Building were Daniel J. Dopko, chairman, Edward L. Ewald, and A. T. Brust, Jr.

Move May Speed Construction Of New Addition

3 College Projects Also Under Study

State officials yesterday uncorked a bottleneck which has long held up the construction of a new $250,000 addition at Miners Hospital in Frostburg by authorizing the purchase of additional land.

Robert W. Sheckells of Cumberland, building engineer for the Department of Budget and Procurement and a representative of the Department of Public Improvements, gave the go-ahead signal yesterday at a conference with hospital authorities.

Attending were F. Morton Clark, planning engineer of the State Planning Commission; A. Charles Stewart, president of the hospital board of directors, and Michael J. Byrnes, secretary-treasurer of the board.

Money Has Been Available

Money for the new addition—to be used primarily for maternity and juvenile patients—has been available for some time, but architectural and engineering difficulties have helped hold up the completion of plans.

Sheckells said the purchase of additional land, consisting of four tracts adjoining the Skidmore property on which the addition will stand, will allow work to proceed.

The board told the state officials that the four adjoining tracts, measuring 72 by 222 feet all told, could be bought at a cost of $3,729.60.

The engineer told the board that Nathan C. Smith, director of the Department of Public Improvements, had instructed him to authorize the board to buy the land if he felt it advisable.

Meanwhile, George Layman, commander of Farrady Post 24, American Legion at Frostburg, announced that the post had sent a telegram to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin protesting the delay in getting construction under way.

Sheckells and Clark also discussed $700,000 worth of proposed construction projects at Frostburg State Teachers College with college officials.

Three Buildings Sought

Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, has asked for a men's residence hall, a second women's residence hall, and a central dining room.

The State Board of Education has okayed all three projects and has asked the Planning Commission to recommend that Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin set aside money for the construction in next year's budget.

Most urgently needed, said Miss Compton, is the men's residence hall, since the college now has some 50 resident male students and no college-owned quarters for them.

James L. Reid, supervisor of school plants division for the State Board of Education, who attended yesterday's conference at the college, will appear before the Plan-

Youth Breaks Neck In Freak Diving Mishap

Lonaconing Boy Saved By Lifeguard

An alert lifeguard saved the life of a Lonaconing youth who broke his neck in a freak diving accident late yesterday at the Frostburg Swimming Pool.

Wayne Murphy, 18, was in "fairly good" condition last night at Miners Hospital, where he was in a traction arrangement designed to reduce pressure on his spinal column from a cracked vertebra in his neck.

Hit Inner Tube

Nineteen-year-old Allan Robison of Frostburg, lifeguard at the pool, pulled the helpless youth from the water after he saw Mudphy strike his head on a rubber inner tube. The accident happened at 5:40 p. m.

Charles Pinto, manager of the pool, said Murphy had tried to dive through an inner tube which another boy had pushed toward him.

His arms went through the tube, but his head struck the outer rim of the tube. Stunned, he slid on through the tube into the water beneath.

Robison, who had been watching the stunt from his lifeguard perch above the water, saw that Murphy was helpless in the water, dived in and pulled him out.

Expected To Recover

The crowd of about 100 persons in the pool apparently failed to realize anything was wrong until they saw Robison pull Murphy's limp form from the water.

Pinto called the Durst Ambulance Service, which took the boy to Miners Hospital, where he regained full consciousness, although he was paralyzed from the waist down. The condition was expected to be temporary.

If Robison had not seen the incident, said Pinto, the youth probably would have drowned, since those in the water were unable to see that he was in trouble.

State's Farmers Scan Skies For Rain As Crops Grow Thirsty Again

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP)—Many Maryland farmers were scanning the skies anxiously again today for more rain.

About the only hope the weatherman could give them was for scattered showers and thunderstorms Thursday or Friday. No general, day-long rains were in sight.

Almost a week has passed now since the heavy downpour last Wednesday night and Thursday morning brought relief from nearly seven weeks of dry weather and rescued crops from a critical shortage of moisture.

Already, pastures and hay fields are beginning to need more rain badly. More rain might help the sweet corn crop from winding up a near failure. Field corn certainly could use more rain.

County agents in two of Maryland's richest farming counties—Carroll and Frederick—said the situation would become critical again in 10 days to 2 weeks if there are no good, soaking rains.

These counties have had no more showers since last week's "beautiful rain." Some other sections of the state have had light showers.

The weekly crop report issued today by the University of Maryland Farm Extension Service and the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reflected the life-saving effect of last week's rain.

The corn crop responded well, it said. Soybeans made a rapid recovery. Tobacco had withstood the dry weather well. Clover revived rapidly.

The tomato crop benefitted greatly, but yields will be cut somewhat. Late-planted sweet corn fields benefitted considerably, but early fields produced only half a crop and there may be some permanent damage to the later crop. Sweet potatoes were not badly hurt. Dry weather cut the quantity of cucumbers. It hurt the size and quality of cantaloups, now being harvested. The rain may have saved the watermelon crop. It brightened peach and apple prospects.

The big damage factors noted in the report were the seared pastures, the failure of alfalfa to come back strongly after the rain, and the possibility of permanent damage to sweet corn.

In Frederick and Carroll Counties it was the hay and pasture situation which bothered farmers most, because they specialize in dairy operations.

"Pastures need quite a bit more rain," said Roy Castle, assistant farm agent for Frederick County. "That is where you notice the effects of the dry weather most—in the hay fields and permanent pastures.

"One farmer told me he is grazing 130 acres of pasture to give his 50 head of cattle enough to eat. Normally, 25 acres of pasture would carry that many cows."

Castle said the corn crop is at a point where it particularly needs more moisture. It is tasseling.

"Any lack of moisture between now and the time corn matures will be damaging," he said.

William Allenberg, assistant farm agent in Carroll County, was the one who talked about last week's "beautiful rain."

It came just in time to restore the crops grown for commercial canning, except for sweet corn, he said. There are some signs even it may recover, he said, but it is likely it will be the crop that suffered most.

This estimate did not take pastures into consideration.

"There is a terrific shortage in pastures," Allenberg said. "It was a case where they were too far gone, and it is the bad time of year for them to make a comeback."

This leaves dairy farmers faced with a serious shortage of hay next winter. To make up for lack of pasturage, they already have fed some of the hay they harvested earlier this season. Then the dry weather cut the second growth of hay and it will take a lot more rain to give them another good stand before the season closes.
